SENATE GIVES DROUGHT BILL ITS APPROVAL

Some of $45,000,000 May Be Expended on Food, Body Decides.

FIRST OF MEASURES FOR RELIEF TO PASS

$116,000,000 PublicWork Program Ready for Action Today.

BORAH HOLDS BACK FARM BOARD'S SUM

Enactment Is Affected at Session, Both Clownish and Dramatic.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Final passage was effected late yesterday of the compromise, face-saving drought relief bill when the Senate in a session that was alternately dramatic and clownish, agreed to the conference report authorizing a $45,000,000 appropriation and making it possible for the Secretary of Agriculture to spend some of it for food which, however, no one believes he will do.

It was the first of the relief bills and the Senate remained on the job until 6 o'clock to pass it and agreed to meet at 11 o'clock this morning to try to get rid of the $116,000,000 public works bill, a couple of appropriation bills, including $150,000,000 for the Farm Board, and then recess for Christmas.

The public works bill was back from conference with the House conferees still adamant on the Couzens amendments and that making Federal aid road funds available in Georgia and Alamaba.

Borah Holds Up Farm Bill.

Senator Borah held up the quick Senate dispatch of the Farm Board appropriation, saying he wanted to ascertain what was to be done with the money, and Senators Howell, of Nebraska, and Thomas, of Oklahoma, are threatening the Interior Department supply bill.

As it finally goes to the President, there seems to be no question that the Secretary of Agriculture can do more with the drought fund, and on the other hand is not directed or forced to do any more, than the original Senate bill, which figuratively toppled thrones, called for.

Yet the contentious word "food" was out and in its stead was written the phrase "and other purposes incident to." That is to say, the bill authorizes $45,000,000 for crop rehabilitation in the drought-stricken areas, for the purchase of seed, feed for stock, fuel oil, fertilizer, &c., "and other purposes incident to" crop rehabilitation.

Fed Farmer Essential.

Those senators who favored the compromise and who contended that they were not back-tracking on the proposition of loaning money to the farmers for personal food, pointed out that, of course, a fed farmer is essential or "incident to" crop rehabilitation. A starving farmer can not sew the seeds given him, it was explained.

On the other hand, there were senators such as Senator Caraway, who contended that in view of the administration's attitude against personal food the farmer will only get "incidents to." Meeting this contention, however, were Senators Norris, of Nebraska, and Robinson, of Arkansas, who said the responsibility for administering the fund is no less on the administration in the final bill than the original Senate one.

All the Senate conferees, Norris, McNary and Ellison Smith, agreed that it was the interpretation of all the conferees, House and Senate alike, that "other purposes incident to" meant "food."

"Then why don't you say food?" asked Borah.

Then Fight Began.

"Because we were told we could not get by with that word 'food,'" Smith replied very frankly.

Then the fight began. Caraway, Barkley and Tom Connally said they had no delusions about what would be done under the bill, and Tom Heflin pleaded impassionedly "Senators, people are starving. Let's stay here Christmas day and make the House stay here." Later, however, when Norris assured 'im that it was the best that could be done he shook his head sorrowingly and agreed to accept it.

Referring to the money appropriated to feed the Russians in 1919, Connally asked:

"What kind of appetites have these Russians got anyway?" and insisted

PREMIER OF SOVIET RELINQUISHES POST

Rykoff Is Relieved at Own Request and Molotoff Succeeds Him.

STALIN'S POWER GROWS

Moscow, Dec. 19 (A.P.).—Complying with his request, the central executive committee today relieved Alexis I. Rykoff from the chairmanship of the Council of People's Commissars of the Soviet Union.

He will be succeeded by Viacheslav Mikhailovich Molotoff, who is one of the three secretaries of the Communist party, is a member of the Polit Bureau and also a member of the presidium of the central executive committee of the Communist party.

The possibility of a shakeup in the administrative posts in the Soviet government has loomed for some time, centering about Rykoff himself, whose post corresponds to that of premier in other countries.

Rykoff was seriously criticized by various organizations throughout the union because of his former "right wing" activities and the likelihood that he would request his retirement has been growing stronger.

The only other man to have held this post was Lenin himself, Rykoff having been appointed after Lenin's death.

Last spring Rykoff, with Michael P. Tomsky and N. A. Uglanov, appeared before the all-union congress of the Communist party and "confessed" his sins as members of the right wing, promising to support the party's policies in the future.

Uglanov was dropped as Commissar of Labor and Tomsky was ousted as head of the Soviet Trade Union, but Rykoff was able to hold on to his post.

With the retirement of Rykoff, Joseph Stalin, long powerful in the ranks of the Communist party as its secretary, has further consolidated his position as the dominant figure in the Soviet Union, for he has long opposed the policies of the right wing.

G. O. P. LEADER IS HELD HIDDEN FOE OF NORRIS

Lucas Circulars Scored Party Canddiate, Printer Says.

SUPPORT WAS GIVEN DEMOCRAT, IS CLAIM

Republican Director Said to Have Directed Prejudice Against Nebraskan.

Testimony that Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee, secretly ordered and paid for literature to be distributed in Nebraska in the recent campaign in behalf of former Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock, the Democratic senatorial nominee, and against Senator George W. Norris, the Republican nominee whom the Republican national committee was professing to support for reelection, caused a sensation at a hearing before the Nye senatorial campaign expenditures investigating committee here yesterday.

The literature was identified as material that was used by the Ku Klux Klan in various campaigns, including the campaign the organization waged against former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic presidential nominee in 1928. Copies, some of them scurrilous in nature, have been in the possession of the Nye committee for several months, but until today the committee has had only a faint clue as to who was responsible for their circulation in the Nebraska campaign.

Testimony Is Surprise.

The testimony came with dramatic suddenness and fell like a bombshell upon the committee members and spectators. Former Representative Charles I. Stengle, of New York, arose from his seat during the examination of a witness and volunteered to "tell the committee the real truth" about the circulars.

Since his retirement from Congress a few years ago, Mr. Stengle has been residing in Washington, where he has been identified with civic organizations. He is editor of the National Farm News, published by the Independent Publishing Co.

Stengle testified that his company printed the circulars marked as committee exhibits, and that he personally received the order from Mr. Lucas, who paid for them in cash. Mr. Lucas, he said, ordered him to ship the literature to John M. Fetters, Omaha National Bank Building, Omaha."

Chairman Nye said the committee had been unable to find any one by the name of Fetters in Omaha. He added that the literature in reality went to Elmer B. Stevenson, who managed the campaign for State Treasurer Stebbins, Senator Norris' opponent in the Republican senatorial primary campaign.

Says Lucas Gave Order.

Stengle's was etaolnupnupnupnup

Stengle's voluntary testimony came while the committee was endeavoring to obtain information regarding the circulars from John L. Blackwell, a printer employed by the publishing company.

Arising from his seat among the spectators, Stengle shouted:

"I want to make a statement here in the interest of truth. Mr. Blackwell has been trying to tell you the truth, but he doesn't know it. I do, and I propose to tell it now, even though I must violate a confidence to do it.

"The real truth is that I received the order and gave Mr. Blackwell the copy from which the circulars were

VIRGINIA STATE RUM OFFICER IS SHOT TO DEATH

J. N. Wood Killed During Raiding Party at Farm Near Warsaw.

MAN IS IN RICHMOND JAIL TO AVOID MOB

Alleged Slayer Wounded in Gun Fight With Agents; Victim Praised.

Richmond, Dec. 19 (A.P.).—James Newton Wood, 28, said by Attorney General Saunders to be one of the most efficient prohibition officers on the State force, was killed while making a raid today near Warsaw, Va. A charge of buckshot struck the officer above the left temple.

Tonight Randolph Cox, 39, Negro farmer at whose home the raid took place, was lodged in Henrico County jail here charged with the shooting. He himself was suffering from buckshot wounds in the cheek inflicted by State Inspector R. S. Durette, who with Frank M. Wood, a brother of the slain man, accompanied J. N. Wood on the raid.

Prisoner Carried to Richmond.

The Negro was brought here at the request of Richmond County officials who said they feared violence if he were kept in that community.

Durette said Cox returned to his home after the raiding party had found some liquor there and refused to come out when the officers followed him and commanded him to do so.

J. N. Wood, Durette reported, said that Cox had a gun and told Durette to get the officer's gun from their automobile.

Durette Answers Fire.

"The next thing I knew," Durette said, "Cox had fired straight down at Newton. Then he fired the second barrel at me. I pulled the trigger of my gun and the Negro fell back in the room."

A posse of Richmond County officers and citizens were brought from Warsaw by Durette and Frank Wood and Cox was induced to surrender. He was quoted by officers as claiming that he had fired on the officers only after one of them had wounded him.

Weird Oath Sworn By Alleged Slayer

Chinese Uses Ancient Rite in Denying He Killed Woman.

San Francisco, Dec. 19 (A.P.).—In a little candle-lit room in the city prison, Lui Fook took the weird and solemn Chinese oath of purification today to assure the spirits he was innocent of the slaying of his former employer, Mrs. Rosetta Baker, aged and wealthy widow. "Jamp Gai Tow Gai Yun," they call this ceremony in the language of Lui and his ancestors.

Before an improvised altar and with a fluttering, bleeding chicken at his feet, Lui knelt and in fervid tones assured the spirits of his ancestors he was not guilty of murder.

"I take this oath," Lui said, "and if I am not telling the truth may my head be chopped off and all those near and dear to me, may their heads also be chopped and may the heads of all of my blood to come hereafter * * * may they also die horribly."

The legend runs no Chinese criminal will take this oath if in so doing he must swear he is innocent when he is guilty.

WILLINGDON NAMED VICEROY FOR INDIA

Canada's Governor General Will Succeed Lord Irwin in Post.

SELECTION IS SURPRISE

London, Dec. 19 (A.P.).—Viscount Willingdon, present governor general of Canada, will succeed Lord Irwin as viceroy and governor general of India when the latter's term expires in March, 1931, it was officially announced today.

News of the appointment occasioned some surprise in Great Britain, for although Lord Willingdon's name was occasionally mentioned in early stages of the discussions regarding Lord Irwin's successor, little had been heard of the proposal lately. The suggestion that Premier Ramsay MacDonald himself might take the viceroyalty had been more frequently put forward of late than that the post should be given to the Governor General of Canada.

The appointment is believed sure, however, to be received with approval in many quarters, for Lord Willingdon is known throughout the empire as a statesman of high ability and as one with a particularly intimate knowledge of Indian affairs.

A Liberal by political faith, he was Governor of Bombay from 1913 to 1919 and of Madras from 1919 to 1924. In both posts he earned a reputation for his tact and conciliatory attitude. In the exercise of his duties it was generally conceded he was helped to a large extent by his wife, who is noted for her beauty, dignity and charm.

His appointment as Governor General of Canada in 1926 was hailed by all political groups as an example of the right man's having been found for the right place.

Lord Irwin, the retiring Viceroy of India, has held that post since October, 1925.

After four years of administration in India, during desultory outbreaks of native unrest, Lord Irwin attained the difficult position of having gained a degree of friendship when he an-

Copenhagen, Dec. 19 (A.P.).—About a dozen persons were missing, it was reported tonight, after the sinking of the 3,000-ton Finnish steamer Oberon, which went down near Lessoe Trindel lightship after a collision with the steamer Arcturus.

The collision occurred about 10 o'clock tonight in a dense fog, according to messages received here.

FEDERAL EMPLOYES LOSE IN CONFERENCE

Legislators Refuse to Insert Raises Voted by Senate in Pay Bill.

BORAH PROMISES FIGHT

Government clerks lost their battle in the House and Senate conference committee yesterdya.

The Senate conferees, who had privately proclaimed themselves as breathing fire for the cause of the clerks, yielded, and Representative Will R. Wood (Republican), of Indiana, chairman of the House appropriations committee, left the field with hte scalps of his Senate adversaries carried aloft in victory.

The conferees agreed to eliminate the so-called Wood amendment from the Postoffice-Treasury annual appropriation bill. On the surface this was a victory for the Senate.

It was an empty victory, however, of a character that would hearten no fighting man, inasmuch as the House had voted down the Wood amendment in the Interior Department appropriation bill and Mr. Wood himself was willing to concede loss of his amendment.

In fact, the Wood amendment was a dead issue between the conferees. The real point of ragument, so far as the Government employes were concerned, was whether the proposed increases voted by the Senate, but stricken out of the estimates by Mr. Wood and his cohorts in the House, should be put in the measure or not. Mr. Wood won.

Senator Moses (Republican), of New Hampshire, yielded to Mr. Wood. Senator Reed Smoot (Republican), of Utah, one of the most powerful sen-

THREE ARE INJURED IN GAS MAIN BLAST

Explosion Ties Up Traffic and Cripples Lighting in Several Areas.

WOMEN HURLED IN AIR

Two persons were seriously injured, one slightly hurt, traffic was tied up, and electrical facilities in several section of the city were crippled for more than an hour late yesterday afternoon, when a gas main exploded at the corner of Thirteenth and U streets northwest.

The explosion was witnessed by Fire Chief George S. Watson, who, with his driver, H. B. Statts, was passing the intersection in a Fire Department automobile. He said that his car had come to a stop waiting for a traffic signal to change, when suddenly all lights in the block went out, followed immediately by a terrific crash. The two women, he declared, wereh urled high in the air and fell back into the large hole blow in the sidewalk. With the aid of his driver, Chief Watson succeeded in pulling them from under a pile of rocks and dirt which completely covered them. Gas flowing from the broken main quickly ignited, and the clothing of both women was ablaze when they were finally carried from the debris. They were taken tothe hospital in the chief's car.

The explosion occurred at 4:30 o'clock, during the height of the rush hour. Hundreds of persons gathered at the scene and crowded street cars were forced to remain at a standstill for nearly two hours. Moving picture sound apparatus in the Palace, Earl and Columbia Theaters, broadcasting over Station WMAL, and commercial lights in the downtown section of the city, were out of commission for more than five minutes. Areas which were lightless following the explosion, included Thirteenth street from Iowa Circle to Belmont street; Q, R, and S streets from Thirteenth street to Ninth street; U, V, and W streets from Fourteenth street to Ninth street; Tenth, Eleventh, Twelfth and Thirteenth streets from U street to W street, and Fourteenth street from S street to U street northwest.

The injured are Ruth Henderson, colored, 30 years old, of 1330 U street

JURY QUICKLY CONVICTS TRIO ON 4 CHARGES

Pitts, Anadale and Edwards Are Remanded to City Jail.

23 YEARS IN PRISON MAMIMUM PENALTY

Former Officials Were Tried for Embezzlement and Conspiracy.

JURORS' FOREMAN LAUDS PROSECUTION

Wives of Men Hear Verdict Pronounced; Moves for Appeal Started.

All three defendants in the F. H. Smith Co. conspiracy case were found guilty last night on all four counts contained in the indictment under which they were tried in District Supreme Court. The jury was given the case at 3:37 o'clock and reported agreement at 7:45 o'clock.

Immediately after B. LeRoy Rowell, foreman, had announced the verdict, and Wilton J. Lambert of defense counsel, had called for a poll of the jury, Justice William Hitz, presiding, remanded the defendants to jail to await perfection of their appeal. The motion under which they were remanded was made by Nugent Dodds, Assistant Attorney General.

The defendants, G. Bryan Pitts, former chairman of the board of the Smith Co., and C. Elbert Anadale and John H. Edwards, former vice presidents, were charged in four counts, with conspiracy to embezzle funds of the firm and with actual embezzlements and concealments.

Long Terms Possible.

Under the conviction returned, the three defendants face maximum prison terms of 23 years each and fines of $1,000.

Almost an hour elapsed between the time the jury announced its agreement and the arrival of Justice Hitz in the courtroom from his home, where he had gone to await the verdict. Meanwhile the defendants, their counsel and members of their families waited tensely around the grim corridors of the building.

When the defendants stood up to hear the jury's decision, their nervousness was apparent. Edwards stood twisting his hands; Anadale watched the jury intently; Pitts stood immovable, although his face was flushed as he waited the pronouncement of the ten men and two women through their foreman.

Defense counsel seemed even more moved by the verdict than the defendants themselves. Afterward they expressed their surprise and disappointment in no uncertain terms.

Jury Quickly Agreed.

Mr. Rowell, halted by newspaper men as he left the courtrom, seemed not only willing but delighted to discuss deliberations of the jury. Surrounded by members of that body, who nodded approval, he declared:

"The vote for conviction was practically unanimous from the first. We took only two ballots before reaching our decision.

"I want to compliment the government on its presentation of the case. In my estimation it was a masterpiece."

Thme verdict appeared to affect Mrs. Anadale, prety young wife of

Toy Fund Is $64.79 Short Of Goal to Gladden 2,000

Only Two Days Left in Which to Help Give Christmas Joy.

With only two days in which to complete the campaign, The Post Toy Fund is only $64.79 short of the tentative goal, $2,000, set as a minimum necessary to care for the 2,000 needy children in the District whom The Post wants to save from facing an "empty stocking" Christmas.

Yesterday's contributions of $125.20 raised the fund to $1,935.20, and insured a happy Christmas for a great many youngsters who otherwise might awake on Christmas morning to find only the worn and broken playthings they had the day before.

Many letters have accompanied contributions to The Post Fund, each praising the plan of helping the children in families where unemployment, sickness or other causes have worked such havoc that the parents

Says: It is an axiomatic policy of our Government that it be conducted for the general benefit of the people. As those with the larger resources can care for themselves the Government is more particularly solicitous for the welfare of the less fortunate.

The question always is how this best can be done. More and more our people are becoming interdependent. A few are practically independent, but the mass are connected with large producing organizations. Their welfare depends not only on their own efforts and skill, but on the ability and success of the management of some large concern. Only if the concern prospers are they secure.

That is why the Government encourages industry. It is difficult to assist the wage earner directly. But he can be benefited by making it profitable to employ him.

Many of our public service companies and industries feel they are so much restricted by legislation and regulation that they can not operate profitably and so can not employ wage earners. Such complaints merit careful consideration. Certain regulation is necessary but a wise administration of regulatory laws increases greatly the employing power of the Nation.

Lindbergh Puts Out Blaze In Plane With Wife Aboard

Fire Starts as Colonel Cranks Motor at Baltimore for Hop to Englewood—Neither Hurt—Denies He Has Eye Trouble.

Baltimore, Dec. 19 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's Lockheed monoplane caught fire here today, as he cranked the motor for a hop to Englewood, N. J., but he doused the flames with a hand extinguisher before fire apparatus arrived.

Neither the colonel nor his wife, the former Anne Morrow, was injured and the plane was little damaged. After minor repairs, they took off from the airport two hours later.

A backfire from a cold motor apparently caused the sudden blaze. The transatlantic flier and his mechanic were at the propeller, Mrs. Lindbergh being in the cockpit at the controls, when smoke and flame spurted from the cowl around the motor.

Mrs. Lendbergh switched off the gasoline and the ignition lines, and Lindbergh snatched the extinguisher from its place beside the pilot's seat. The burning oil and gasoline at the base of the motor, however, could not be reached by the stream from the extinguisher until the flier and the mechanic had torn off the lower part of the cowl.

National guardsmen posted around the plane ran to Lindbergh's assistance, and some of them helped Mrs. Lindbergh from her seat.

The flames were virtually extinguished before the fire apparatus of the Municipal Airport roared across the field and turned powerful streams of chemicals on the motor.

Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh flew here yesterday from Washington, where they attended the national air uniformity conference. In Baltimore.

the former Smith Co. vice-president, more than any other interested party. As soon as Mr. Rowell had given the verdict, tears were sen to stream from her eyes. Mrs. Edwards bore the shock stoically, although her lips quivered, while Mrs. Pitts seemed to stand up best.

The three defendants were taken to one of the barred guardrooms in the basement of the courthouse immediately after court adjourned, where the yconferred briefly with their wives and their attorneys before being taken to jail.

Moves For Release Planned.

Members of defense counsel stated last night that an immediate effort to secure the release of the defendants on habeas corpus proceedings or on an appeal would be made. The defense has four days in which to perfect an appeal, for which it says it can offer between 75 and 100 exceptions to rulings of Justice Hitz.

During the trial just ended, the bond under which Pitts was held aggregated approximately $130,000 for numerous indictments, while that of Edwards and Anadale amounted to about $30,000 each.

The defendants were charged, in the indictment with conspiracy to embezzle funds of the Smith Co. totaling $5,000,000, while the Government's bill of particulars, presented by court order shortly before the trial opened, showed 95 items alleging actual embezzlements in the aggregate of about $1,190,000. These alleged embezzlements were supplemented by charges of concealment in five instances. Three other counts in the indictment charged actual embezzlements of Smith Co. funds and instances in which records were alleged to have been concealed.

Documents Called Spurious.

Presentation of the Government's rebuttal by Mr. Dodds occupied most of the morning. Requesting a five-minute recess in which to arrange documents in evidence after the defense had concluded its closing argument by Mr. Lambert, Mr. Dodds, when court reconvened, appeared with a table laden with authorizations and receipts for funds from corporations privately owned by Pitts which had been offered in evidence by the defense.

These documents he had grouped into thre eclasses. The first class, according to Mr. Doods, included papers purporting to extend over a long period of time but which appeared, because of identity in the construction of their first lines, to have been typed at the same time. The second class, Mr. Dodds said, appeared to be "spurious," because the color of the typewriter ribbon with which they were written was the same for a period of several months.

When defense counsel pointed out that these authorizations and receipts had admittedly been written and signed by Pitts before embarking for Europe in 1928 and filled in during his absence, Mr. Dodds indicated an alleged difference in color between the amounts filled in and the dates.

Ritchie Paroles Man Serving Life Sentence

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Dec. 19.—John Wanstreet, formerly of Grafton, W. Va., sentenced to life imprisonment in the Circuit Court here in 1916 for slaying Harry W. Mathews, a local railroad brakeman, has been granted a parole by Gov. Ritchie.

Mathews was playing a piano in the saloon of Fred Snyder, on Front street, when Wanstreet drew a razor and attacked him, cutting his throat. The slayer pleaded self defense. Gov. Ritchie, in granting the parole, said conviction should have been for second-degree murder or manslaughter.

Mrs. Mary Taylor, 93, Succumbs Near Lincoln

Special to The Washington Post.

Purcellville, Va., Dec. 19.—Mrs. Mary Jane Taylor, 93, died yesterday at noon at the home of her son, Henry Taylor, at Lincoln, from the infirmities of age. She was the widow of Thomas Taylor, and the last of the large family of the late Burr and Hannah Piggott.

She is survived by her son, Henry Taylor, and three grandchildren, Thomas, a student at Duke University, Durham, N. C., and Henrietta and Jane, at home. Funeral services will be held Sunday morning at 11:30 from the Friends Church, in Lincoln, with interment in Lincoln Cemetery.

are unable to do what they'd like to do for their boys and girls.

Most of the contributors seem to feel just as The Post does, that the boys and girls are not to blame for the hard luck which has overtaken their mothers and fathers, and therefore should not be forced to suffer unhappiness on Christmas Day because of these misfortunes.

The Post Fund will close tomorrow night. It is not too late to help to make a boy or a girl or a lot of boys and girls enjoy a real Christmas. The original estimate covered 2,000 children in need, but innumerable requests for aid have been received from families not being helped by any of the organized charitable agencies.

The Post would like to see each one of these children provided with toys, other trinkets and candies which gladden the heart of a youngster of this holiday of holidays. Your gift to the fund will be devoted entirely to the children. Any time between now and Sunday midnight will be time enough to send your contribution along.

The spirit of Christmas is in the air and according to the old, old saying "it is better to give than to receive." Giving to make boys and girls happy is the best kind.

The Post feels confident the fund will go well over the tentative goal, and that when Sunday's returns are counted, the sum will assure to all the needy children what everyone wants them to have—"A Merry Christmas."

DEMOCRATS NAMED IN TAX REFUND LIST

Hawley, Denying Politics Figures in Rebates, Has Them Recorded.

GAVE TO CAMPAIGN FUND

Denying that political considerations played any part in the tax refund authorized by the treasury, Chairman Hawley (Republican), Oregon, of the house ways and means committee, read into the record yesterday the names of eleven contributors to the campaign fund of the Democratic National Committee who who also had received recent refunds, through business connections or personal returns.

Representative Hawley's statement was made in reply to recent charges by Representative Garner (Democrat), Texas, that Secretary of Mellon had been misleading Congress as to the actual situation in refunds with the information made available for publication.

"Refunds," said Hawley, "are not made for any political reason, or denied for political reason, or made or denied for any causewhatever, except that, under the law and following desion of the court, they are due or not due."

As He Explains Refunds.

He estimated about 28 per cent, of the amount of taxes refunded was ordered by court decisions, 57 per cent dut to clerical or bookkeeping errors and 15 per cent the result of a settlement by the Treasury and the taxpayer on a basis of previous court decision. Sixteen thousand tax cases are pending in the courts, Hawley said.

The list of contributors to the Democratic National Committee in 1928 and their connection with tax refunds, as submitted by Chairman Hawley, follows:

"Herbert H. Lehman, who contributed $25,000 to the Democratic National Committee, is a director of the Studebaker Corporation, which received a refund of $106,948.

"Irene de Pont, who contributed $5,000 to the Democratic national Committee, is a director of the Equitable Life Insurance Co., which received a refund of $664,829.

"Morgan J. O'Brien, who contributed $6,000 to the Democratic national committee, is a director of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., which received a refund of $771,848.

"Arthur Lehman, who contributed $14,000 to the Democratic national committee, is a director in the Continental Can Co., which received a refund of $104,049.

"P. S. du Pont, chairman of the board of E. du Pont de Nemours & Co., which company received refunds and credits of $13,127,664.

"Joseph P. Tumulty, receiver for Middle States Oil Corporation, which company received refunds and credits of $525,472.

Baruch Also Named.

"Bernard M. Baruch, who contributed $50,000 to the Democratic campaign fund, received a personal refund of $6,205.

"John J. Raskob, who contributed $150,000, received a personal refund of $3,968.

"Victor Emanuel, who contributed $5,000 to the Democratic national committee, is a director in the Philadelphia Co., which, with its subsidiaries, received a refund of $2,291,617.

"John W. Davis, who contributed $5,000 to the Democratic national committee, is a director in the Mutual Life Insurance Co., which received refunds of $550,.15 and $674,286.

"The Untermyer family, which contributed $25,000 to the Democratic national committee, is represented on the board of the Bethlehem Steel Co., which received a refund of $434,858."

CLERKS LOSE FIGHT IN PAY BILL ISSUE

ators, also yielded as did the other members of the Senate conference committee.

Senator Moses proposed to bring the report of the conferees up on the floor of the Senate for approval yesterday. He didn't do it because Senator Brookhart (Republican), of Iowa, told him that if he did Brookhart would have considerable to say. Mr. Moses presented the conference report but he let it go at that.

Action of the conferees yesterday came as a surprise. It had been expected that the supporters of the clerks would win and that the Senate conferees, with the whip hand, would holdout for the increases. As a matter of fact they had given assurances privately to some of their constituents that they would do so.

Despite the action of the conference committee yesterday, when the senators' strength crumbled beneath the determination of Representative Wood and his cohorts, the prospect of favorable action for the Government employes is not regarded as too bad by their supporters.

Representative La Guardia (Republican), of New York, has served notice that he will raise as much trouble in the House as he possibly can, if Mr. Wood persisted in his course and forced the conference committee to come to his terms. This means that he will force consideration of every appropriation bill, item by item. That is certainly something the Republican leaders of the House do not want. They would give up much to avoid it. Undoubtedly they will bring pressure on the fiery Mr. LaGuardia to dissuade him from his course. Perhaps they will dissuade him. Perhaps not. If they do, then the hopes of the Government employes must depend entirely on members of the Senate.

Senator Brookhart is believed to be ready to battle for the employes. The senator is so much interested in the condition of Government employes that he gave his name to a bill for improvement of their pay, and he has served notice that he will fight approval of the conference report.

Miss Nellie M. Minor Dies at Charlottesville

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Dec. 19.—Miss Nellie M. Minor died yesterday at the Riggory, country home of P. C. Minor, located just north of the city. The funeral was held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon from Liberty Baptist Church and the body brought here for interment in Riverview Cemetery.

Miss Minor, member of a pioneer Albemarle family, was 77 years old. She was the daughter of the late Hugh and Mary Ann (Carr) Minor. One sister survives.

Woman Gets Seven Years.

Sadie Brooks, Negro, was sentenced by Justice Oscar R. Luhring yesterday in District Supreme Court to serve seven years in jail on a manslaughter charge. The woman was indicted for second-degree murder in connection with the death of William Edmonson, Negro, but was permitted to plead to the lesser charge.

TWO POWER GROUP NOMINEES APPROVED

Senate Confirms Williamson and Draper, but Delays Action on Others.

WHEELER HITS ALL FIVE

(Associated Press.)

The Senate yesterday confirmed two of President Hoover's five nominees to the Power Commission—Claude L. Draper, of Wyoming, and Ralph B. Williamson, of Washington State—but postponed consideration of the others because of the pressure of relief legislation.

Draper and Williamson were approved by the interstate commerce committee unanimously, but opposition votes were cast against the other nominees—Chairman George Otis Smith, of Maine; Marcel Garsaud, of Louisiana, and Frank R. McNinch, of North Carolina—and they face contests in the Senate.

The Senate approved both Draper and Williamson without record votes, but Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, asserted that all five of the President's appointments were mediocre."

"It must have been a disappointment to every member of the interstate commerce committee when the President sent in the five nominations," Wheeler said. "It is a sad commentary when we see the President so ignoring the wishes of Congress."

Wheeler commented on each man individually. He said Draper "was no doubt a mediocre member of the Wyoming Public Utilities Commission but I never heard of him, living in the next State."

"Smith," Wheeler said, "has had no particular experience for the job" and had taken "the side of the power trust against the people" on the issue of exporting power from Maine.

He said Williamson was neither an outstanding man nor a student of the power question and Garsaud had been recommended for a position in New Orleans by a "representative of the power trust."

The Montana senator said he had been impressed by the honesty of McNinch's testimony and felt he was "the strongest character on the commission."

Midshipmen Sing Christmas Carols

Yuletide Leave Starts Today; St. John's and Public Schools to Close.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 19.—On the eve of their departure for yuletide holidays the regiment of 2,000 midshipmen gathered tonight around a beautiful illuminated pine tree in front of Bancroft Hall and carried out annual custom of singing Christmas carols. Many residents of the Naval Reservation and city were on hand. After the singing the midshipmen repaired to the mess hall and enjoyed their annual yule banquet.

They begin their leave at noon tomorrow. The period extends until evening roll call New Year's Day. Some few who are lagging in studies will be compelled to remain here. Many of the midshipmen living in distant States have engaged airplane passage in order to get home speedily.

St. John's College also closes for the holidays tomorrow, to reopen January 5. Public schools of the county will suspend next Tuesday until January 5.

Jacob W. Loeser Dies Near Charlottesville

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Dec. 19.—Jacob W. Loeser, well-known resident of the county, died yesterday at his home, five miles southwest of the city. Burial rites were held this afternoon at the Dabney burying ground, near Keswick, the Rev. Francis L. Robinson officiating.

Mr. Loeser was a son of the late J. W. Loeser, and was born and reared in Philadelphia. He was 62 years of age. He is survived by his wife, who was a Miss Mitchell, of the Keswick neighborhood; two sons and four daughters, all residents of Charlottesville.

Miss Glodfelty Engaged.

Frostburg, Md., Dec. 19 (Special).—Announcement is made of the coming marriage of John David Rees, merchant and director of the Frostburg Rotary Club, and Miss Frances Alberta Glodfelty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Glodfelty, on Wednesday, December 24. The bride-elect is a graduate of Beall High School and has taken a prominent part in local dramatics. Mr. Rees is a son of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Rees.

Smoot's Meal Less Plan As Relief Draws Quip

(Associated Press.)

One meal less a week for those who have meals to eat is Senator Smoot's recipe for solving unemployment and drought distress.

"Give the cost of that meal to the poor," the Utah senator said yesterday in debate over the drought relief bill, "and there will be no suffering."

Some Democrats did not think much of the idea. Senator Barkley, Kentucky, doubted its efficacy. Senator Connally, Texas, said he was for it in theory, but that it couldn't be done.

"And," he remarked, looking critically at Smoot's tall, thin frame, "a meal such as the senator from Utah would probably eat would do very, very little good."

Hotel, Two Stores Burn in Scottsville

Firemen Save Ten Residences and Office of Newspaper.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlotesville, Va., Dec. 19.—A hotel and two stores, with a combined value of $50,000, were destroyed in Scottsville, early this morning, by a fire of undetermined origin that threatened an entire business and residential street.

The buildings razed included the Kent Hotel, the White & Co. clothing store and the W. E. Moon general merchandise store, occupied above by the families of George Thomas and Jasper Roberts. The total insurance carried was less than $10,000.

Ten residences and the plant of the Scottsville News were saved when firemen held the flames in an alleyway betwen a brick store building and the newspaper office.

Wednesday afternoon the residence of Stanley Weldner, west of Scottsville, burned with loss of $15,000. House and furniture carried $9,000 insurance.

Funeral Services Held For A. A. Nuttycombe

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Dec. 19.—The body of Archibald A. Nuttycombe, 61, who died at his home near Appomattox, was brought here yesterday and buried in the family cemetery at Oakleigh, near Rio, this county, the service being conducted by the Rev. Dwight M. Chalmers, of the Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Nuttycombe is survived by six children—Mrs. W. E. Akers and Mrs. Charles Wallace, of Gladstone, Va.; Mrs. John E. Childers and Mrs. Lewis Childers, of Roanoke, Va.; Miss Nellie V. and J. A. Nuttycombe, of Appomattox. He also leaves his mother, who is 93; one sister, Mrs. George W. Vest, of this city, and four brothers—H. W. and A. H. Nuttycombe, of this city; T. R. Nuttycombe, of Washington, D. C., and L. G. Nuttycombe, of Chloride, Ariz.

Minister Killed In Auto Accident

Dies Instantly When Car Crashes Into Pole and Wrecks.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., Dec. 19.—The Rev. Dr. Samuel Henry Stein, widely known Reformed clergyman and pastor of the Trinity First Reformed Church of York, Pa., was instantly killed near Gettysburg today when an automobile in which he was riding, en route to Frederick, crashed into a telephone pole and was wrecked.

He was on his way to Hood College for his daughter, Miss Marion Stein, who, with two college friends, Miss Helen Myers and Miss Rachel Resser, of York, were waiting to return home with him for the Christmas vacation.

Besides his widow, formerly Miss Marian Renner, of Mechanicsburg, he is survived by a son and daughter, the latter a senior at Hood College, and the former a senior at Franklin and Marshall College.

Maryland Girl Dies, Two Hurt in Wreck

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 19 (A.P.).—A roadster with three western Maryland college girls going home for the Christmas holidays overturned near here today, and one, Louise Werntz, 21, of Annapolis, was killed.

She was president of the Women's Student Government Council at the college, which is at Westminster. The other girls were injured.

$700,000,000 IS SET AS BUILDING BUDGET

RECORD-BREAKING SUM

In the calendar year of 1931 the Federal Government will spend the record-breaking sum of $700,000,000 on public building projects, according to an administration estimate.

This large expenditure, a part of the administration's program for combating unemployment, is nearly three times as much as was spent in 1928, the last of the prosperity years. In that year the amount spent on public works was $253,000,000.

Part of the $700,000,000 that is to be spent in the calendar year of 1931 is carried in appropriation bills for the fiscal year of 1931, which began July 1 last and ends June 30 next; part of it will be carried in appropriation bills for the fiscal year of 1932, which begins July 1 next, and the remainder will be carried in the emergency construction bill which is now pending in Congress. This measure calls for an appropriation of $116,000,000.

The States affected by the devastating drought of last summer, it is pointed out by the administration, not only are being aided through the public works program, but also through loans for seed and fertilizer, expansion of credit through agriculture credit associations, reduction of railroad freight rates and, finally, by the Red Cross.

It is expected that President Hoover soon will make public a table showing just how and where the $700,000,000 building fund is to be spent.

President Greets Disabled Veterans

Christmas Message Holds Nation Ever Mindful of Sacrifice Made.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover yesterday sent his Christmas greetings to all disabled veterans with "assurances of the Nation's grateful remembrance of your service and sacrifices." His message read:

"Again I send you my Christmas greetings and best wishes for your happiness in the new year, with renewed assurances of the Nation's grateful remembrance of your service and sacrifices.

"I do pray that the new year will bring you many blessings and new hope for the future. The Nation is ever mindful of your patience and fortitude, is vigilant in your behalf, and so long as your need endures will respond with devotion to your service."

MRS. FAHY JOINS HUSBAND IN DEATH

Flier's Widow, Whose Plane Fell in Nevada, Is to Rest on Coast.

LAST JOURNEY BY AIR

Washington's most famous team of fliers—Herbert Fahy and Claire Fahy—has been reunited. Both now are dead.

Fahy, who was this city's first commercial pilot, was killed last spring, when his plane struck a hiddne stump as he was taking off from a Detroit airport.

Mrs. Fahy, who had been taught by her husband to fly, died yesterday of a fractured skull at Tonopah, Nev., where, after she had taken off, her plane went into a nose dive at a height of 50 feet.

Mrs. Fahy also was injured last spring in the crash that killed her husband. Her injuries were slight, however, and she was able to come here for the husband's funeral.

Soon afterward she resumed flying and took a prominent part in the womens' national air derby. She was Claire Adams when she met Fahy. At that time she was employed in the Government service as a secretary and Fahy was a pilot at the Washington Airport.

Funeral services for Mrs. Fahy will be held in Los Angeles, whither the body will be taken by plane. Mrs. Fahy is survived by a daughter by a previous marriage.

William-Mary College Given Key Manuscripts

A number of original manuscripts of Francis Scott Key have recently been placed in the library of William and Mary College at Williamsburg, Va. The presentation was made by Col. Francis Scott Key-Smith, great-grandson of the famous author, who is an alumnus of the college, and spent several years in collecting data relating to the life of his distinguished ancestor.

Col. Key-Smith recently delivered a lecture to the students of the college, giving a detailed account of the life of his great-grandfather, and the circumstances surrounding the writing of "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Man Convicted of Robbery.

Convicted on a charge of robbery in connection with the alleged hold-up of Charles S. Dracos last November 6, Roland Dorsey yesterday was sentenced by Justice Oscar R. The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

MRS. MABEL WALKER WILLEBRANDT'S latest book, or at least we suppose it is hers—it is entitled "The Story of Fruit Industries, Limited," and she is distributing it—is packed with pathos, humor and suspense. She shows herself at her best. Mrs. Willebrandt does, in this book, engaging, charming and with an amazing analytical mind.

Her ability to carry her characters from poverty to sunshine, drop them back to despair, lift them up again, and finally place them on a happy sea, afloat and in the form of a grape concentrate, is entertaining all the way.

• • • •

GET the picture of it if you can: First there is Sunny California, endowed with all of Nature's gifts. There peeps out of a blossom one day, oh, way back yonder when the Spaniards had the State—there peeps out with its little silver cheeks glistening in the sun, a grape. Yes sir, a grape, a luscious thing, delightful to the taste and beautiful to contemplate.

Then along comes man, that is to say, man and his entourage including wife and children, seeking to wrest a livelihood out of the soil. There are struggles, of course, but these pioneer grape cultivators are of that substance of American life. And they persevere.

• • • •

AND if you think a grape is an easy thing to rear, you are crazy. It must be fondled, caressed, sat up with of nights, its every little whimpering desire to be catered to. It is most exacting in its demands.

But it grew to ripe manhood, the California grape did, when the World War broke out. That is to say, it began to travel around the world. Those grapes of Sunny Europe were blockaded by the strife and couldn't get away from home.

So our California grapes went a-traveling. And dutiful grapes they were. They remembered who had nourished them in their infancy and their youth and wherever they went they sent money home.

• • • •

THE California industry perked up. It became—well, it became something. Then the war ceased and the sunny European grapes regained the marts they had once had.

Poverty, dire distress struck the sunny California growers. They had to do something for the home trade. They were handicapped because all of California's grapes had to be marketed in three months; they wouldn't last over the year. Pouring all of these grapes on the market depressed prices and permitted a lot of California's W. C. T. U. juice to fall into illicit hands and the rascals, they doctored it and produced wine.

Well, partly with a desire to stopping this and to produce something that would have a market over the year, the grape concentrate was evolved.

• • • •

NOW for Mrs. Willebrandt's climax and her skill at leaving the reader suspended breathlessly or rather, smacking his lips in mid-air. She says:

"The mere addition of water to this concentrate, gives to the consumer the fresh pure juice of California grapes, restored and unimpaired, just as created by nature."

Oh, joy! We're going to have grape juice all the year round.

DROUGHT RELIEF MEASURE IS FIRST PASSED BY SENATE

that he was going to wire his constituents to quit raising children and raise cattle.

Hits Stubborn Pride.

Barkley, describing conditions in his State and asserting that the Red Cross was unable to meet the situation, declared "an unnecessary fight has been made to save someone's face."

Accepting Smith's explanation of why the word "food" was eliminated he said it was because of "someone's pure stubborn pride and it illustrates in a striking way in my judgment who it is that is playing politics on human misery."

"There is not a mouthful of food in this bill," drawled Caraway as he disagreed pointedly with Robinson, his fellow Arkansan, about the wisdom of not insisting that "food" be written in, and then throwing more emotion into his words than he has for many a day, he said he could not agree with the philosophy that "it is highly improper to accept charity from the government, but entirely proper to accept it from charitable organizations."

Says People Given Stone.

"The papers say it's a great victory for the President," he continued. "If it be a victory to doom innocent women and children to slow starvation, then God bless him, let him have all the glory. Somewhere in the Bible it says the people asked for bread and were given a stone. That's what this bill does.

"He's won a victory. He's saved a few million dollars, but he has forever shut the hearts of a million praying mothers against any appeal he may make to them in the future."

As an indication of how strongly the Senators even privately feel about this food situation, Senator Smoot was over talking to Senator Copeland during Caraway's remarks, and after a flare-up by Caraway and an exchange of apologies, Smoot said:

"You know what I was saying. I want the whole Senate to hear it. I was saying to Senator Copeland that if everybody in New York did without one meal and gave it to the distressed this situation would be relieved."

Plead for Compromise.

Whereupon Connally figured it up right away that Smoot agreed that $480,000,000 was necessary in one month, and yet he wouldn't hold out for the original Senate bill.

Norris, Borah and Robinson pleaded for acceptance of the compromise.

"The value of this bill depends upon the manner in which it is interpreted and in which it is administered," Robinson agreed.

But Borah said it was futile to expect any expenditures for personal food because the administration had already taken a very definite stand against that; indeed, the administration's stand against "food" was what forced its elimination. But something must be done quickly, he pointed out.

McNary insisted that "no technical lawyers are going to administer this bill."

Carter Glass said he knew what "other purposes incident to" meant. He had just received a telegram from former Gov. Byrd of Virginia, head of his State's drought committee, saying that Secretary Hyde had originally proposed this very same language to care for the "vegetable and fruit growers" and for refrigeration and the like.

As to what will really come from the bill, Chairman Wood in submitting the conference report in the House explained in that comraderie they have over there that "Of course, we won't appropriate all of the $45,000,000—until we see what happens."

LEADER IN G. O. P. IS HELD HIDDEN ENEMY OF NORRIS

printed. The real truth is that I put a slip on it purporting to show that the order came from a man in Omaha. The real truth is that the order was placed in my hands by Robert H. Lucas, campaign manager for the Republican national committee.

To Circulate Among Drys.

"Mr. Lucas gave me the slip containing the name that was to appear as that of the customer ordering the material. He gave me to understand that the real name was not to be disclosed. He gave me the order about October 18 of this year."

Obviously the circulars were intended for circulation among persons of dry and antiCatholic sentiments. Many of them were based on Senator Norris' support of the Smith-Robinson ticket in 1928.

Blackwell, the witness, testified that the literature was printed in the Independent Co.'s plant, but he was unable to throw much light on the person or persons who were responsible for the order.

Following Mr. Stengle's dramatic outburst, Chairman Nye announced that the committee had issued a subpena for Mr. Lucas to testify at a committee hearing to be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Efforts to reach Mr. Lucas early tonight for a statement were unsuccessful.

Murray Is Called.

A subpoena has ben issued also for William E. Murray, who was said by the committee to have made a survey for the Republican National Committee of the Nebraska situation, before the election.

Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, pleaded ignorance of any facts in connection with the printing or distribution of the literature when questioned tonight. He and Senator Norris were so occupied with the Senate wrangle on the drought relief bill that they would not leave the Senate floor to comment on Mr. Stengle's testimony. Senator Fess, however, sent out a note saying that he knew nothing about it.

Mr. Lucas came to Washington last year to accept the appointment from President Hover as Commissioner of Internal Revenue. Previously he had ben collector of internal revenue at Louisville, and in 1927 was an unsuccessful candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor of Kentucky. He resigned as Commissioner of Internal Revenue last summer to accept the post of Executive Director of the Republican National Committee. The pnderstanding at the time was that he made the change at the President's request. He was in charge of Republican national headquarters during the recent campaign and directed most of the organization work in the various states.

Depicts Barroom Scene.

One of the posters printed for circulation in Nebraska depicted an old-time barroom with a disreptuable loking character receiving a drink from an even more disreputable looking barkeper. Underneath the picture as the legend "This is what Senator Norris voted for when he supported Al Smith."

Another circular, about 12x18 inches, was headed "This is the kind of an appeal coming from New York from Tammany for Norris."

It contained what purported to be a facsimile of a letter to a person in Omaha (name deleted), and was pritten presumably on tsationery of an organization bearing the name "1932 Democratic Victory Scouts, New York City." The letter follows:

"I am taking the liberty of writing you as a fellow Democrat, on the assurance of a friend who has furnished your name that I may do so in confidence.

Democratic Praise.

"Senator Norris has represented your State in the United States Senate with great credit. He has seldom opposed our program. He has kept the faith in the Senate. He has rendered valuable assistance in bringing about the present political situation which gives us a splendid chance ot control the next Congress.

"Senator Norris' support of Gov. Smith in 1928 was at a great sacrifice to himself, endangering his political career. But with your assistance he will come through safely.

"Hitchcock may profess to be with us now, but we can not depend on him in 1932. We will need Nebraska's delegates in the next Democratic convention if we are to retain party control; but, aside from that, Senator Norris has proven him if to be our friend. He has stood the test as few men have. In ordinary gratitude, therefore, our Democratic friends in Nebraska should and will support him.

"(Signed) J. M. O'SHEA, Manager."

"Can You Beat It."

In large type beneath the facsimile reproduction this question is asked: "Can You Beat It?" and the answer is, "You Certainly Can on November 4 by Voting for Hitchcock for Senator." The document is signed "Anti-Norris Republicans."

SHEPARD PICTURED AS VILE AND VICTIM

Poisoned Wife While He Had Love Affair, State Insists in Plea.

TRAPPED, SAYS DEFENSE

Kansas City, Kans., Dec. 19 (A.P.).—Contrasting pictures of Major Charles A. Shepard as a diabolical prisoner who took his wife's life because of his love for another woman, and as a wronged man—the victim of chain of circumstances cleverly linked against him by government agents—were drawn in final arguments today in the army medical officer's murder trial.

The case will be given to the jury tomorrow, probably early in the afternoon.

L. E. Wyman, assistant district attorney, presented the prosecution's side, and C. L. Kagey, of Beloit, Kan., former minister to Finland, argued for acquittal.

Harry S. Class, of Denver, will make the final plea for the defense tomorrow and be followed by the District Attorney, Sardius Brewster, who will close for the government. The jury will be charged by Judge Richard J. Hopkins.

Poisoned Her, Says State.

Wyman told the jury, Shepard fell in love with Miss Grace Brandon, a stenographer, of San Antonio, Tex., and poisoned his wife, Zena, at Fort Riley, Kan., in 1929, so he could wed the Texas girl.

Kagey, characterized Miss Brandon as "an army post flapper," who, he asserted, "trapped" the 59-year-old defendant. He argued Shepard thought the girl really loved him, that his life with Mrs. Shepard had been so unhappy he was in need of sympathy and did only the natural thing in turning to Miss Brandon, to whom he became engaged after the death of his wife.

The government attorney insisted however, Shepard's sentiments toward Miss Brandon were more than platonic before his wife died. "He had pledged his love to another," Wyman said.

Kagey characterized Shepard's love letters to the girl as "pure and clean."

"Certainly," he said, "the Government did not prove anything criminal in those love letters."

Finds Cause for Divorce.

He also asserted Shepard could have obtained a divorce from Mrs. Shepard from any court in the land, on the evidence brought out in the trial as to her reputed overindulgence in liquor and use of narcotics.

The assistant district attorney ridiculed Shepard's contention that it was a natural and a reasonable thing for him to send gifts to Miss Brandon before his wife died.

"For 25 days," Wyman said, "he tortured that woman (Mrs. Shepard). He tortured her with poison. He stood by her bed and watched her starve to death."

Wyman scoffed at the suggestion that Mrs. Shepard had committed suicide and emphasized Shepard had objected to an autopsy. Shepard had testified this objection was based on a promise to his wife that he would not permit a knife to touch her body.

The Government attorney said Shepard's close contact with his wife gave him opportunity to administer poison, which the Government tried to show by the testimony of Miss Clara Brown, a nurse, had been placed in liquor the major's wife drank.

LINDBERGH PUTS OUT FIRE IN HIS AIRPLANE

they were guests of Dr. William H. Wilmer, of John Hopkins Hospital, and had inspected the eye clinic there before leaving for the flying field.

Lindbergh denied reports, started, evidently, by his visit to the clinic, that his vision is defective.

"I don't know how the report got out that there is something wrong with my eyes," he said, "but it is untrue. We were just here on a friendly visit."

Englewood, N. J., Dec. 19 (A.P.).—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh flew back home today from Baltimore. They landed at Teterboro Airport, near Englewood, shortly before 4 p. m., and went to the home of Mrs. Lindbergh's parents, Senator and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow.

northwest, compound fracture of the left leg, fracture of the right thigh, cuts, bruises and burns, and possible injuries, and Ray Washington, colored, 30 years old, of the same address, who suffered severe injuries to her back, cuts, bruises and burns about the head and face. Both women, who are employes of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, were taken to arfield Hospital. Clarence Sweetney, colored, 24 years old, of 821 W stret northwest, was struck by a piece of flying cement, but refused medical attention.

Frank Clark, of Alexandria, Va., narrowly escaped injury while seated in his automobile near the corner when a large piece of cement paving crashed through the top of his machine and landed on the seat next to him. The top of his car was demolished.

According to D. D. Ransdell, superintendent of the distribution department of the Washington Gas Light Co., the explosion occurred when a gas main broke under the sidewalk, filling the electric main of the Potomac Electric Power Co. with gas. A spark from the underground plow of a Capital Traction Co. street car is believed to have ignited the gas. Repairs to the main were being made last night, but difficulty was experienced in removing the torn concrete, as the odor of gas was so strong it was impossible for workmen to stay in the hole for more than two minutes.

RESCUE SQUAD ASKS FUNDS FOR SERVICE

Prince Georges Men Fear Inability to Respond to Charity Calls.

GREENERY CUTTERS HELD

Appeal for funds was broadcast last night by the Prince Georges County rescue squad, after a meeting at which it was disclosed that money to continue the service was exhausted. The rescue squad does not share in the money contributed to the volunteer fire departments by the county, being entirely dependent on donations.

Ordinarily gifts to the organization will take care of its needs, but so many calls from charity cases have been made in the last few months that these funds are not sufficient. If further donations are not forthcoming, members of the squad fear they will have to cease answering calls, unless they are paid cases.

Doing what they can to relieve the poor, the members will give a masquerade and dance in the Parish Hall in Bladensburg New Year's Eve. Tickets are 50 cents, and it is hoped profits from this venture will line the treasury, at least. All money received by the squad now will go for running expenses, it was explained, as the equipment, the three ambulances, are paid for.

The Bladensburg unit of the squad was called yesterday to minister to John Matthews, Negro, a laborer for the Washington Suburban Gas Co., who was overcome while repairing a main on Rhode Island avenue near Hyattsville. After treatment for half an hour, the man was able to go home.

Woodrow Wilson, who took an automobile to aid his escape from the Maryland House of Reformation last Sunday, was sentenced to three years in the House of Correction yesterday by the Prince Georges County Police Court. Two years of the sentence was for using an automobile without permission of the owner, and the other for driving under a revoked license.

Wilson pleaded guilty to the charge that he took a machine belonging to Willard Schultz, of Camp Springs. He was arrested at Annapolis several days after he had fled from the institution, and the car was in his possession.

John Pyles, superintendent of the House of Reformation, told the court Wilson had been sentenced three times and paroled twice. Three other boys who left the institution at the same time have been recaptured.

Allen King, of Washington, was fined $25 on a charge of being drunk and disorderly nad was held for the grnad jury on a charge of destroying private property. He is alleged to have gone into a house near Clinton and damaged the interior. Constable Fendall Gray made the arrest. King was released on $100 bond.

Taken from his abode under the Capitol Heights firehouse, R. H. Burnett appeared to answer vagrancy charges. He was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction after he had told Judge J. Chew Sheriff he wanted a warm place to spend the winter. He said he had been committed to the county almshouse three times and to the Baltimore almshouse once, but had not liek the places and left.

Earle Blackwell, who arrested Burnett, said the man had been sleeping between the ground and the floor.

Fines totaling $21 were imposed on John A. Thomas, who was arrested near Forestville by State Policeman W. A. Rogers. Rogers charged the man with using fictitious tags, using tags issued to another and having no registration card.

Five persons were arrested yesterday in the county for cutting Christmas greenery without the consent of owners. This brings the number arrested to eight, three having been arrested Thursday.

The five are Benjamin Newman, First street southwest near N street; Frank Bernard, Quincy street northwest near Fourth street; Benjamin Huss, Twelfth street northeast near B street; James G. Wimberley, S street northwest near Thirteenth street, and John Rawlings, who gave an address on Brothers street near Thirty-fourth street southeast.

All were held in $100 bond for Police Court next Wednesday. Preliminary hearings for all were held before Judge Herbert S. Moffett.

The State law prescribes a fine of from $5 to $25 and a jail sentence of 30 days or more for this offense. This is the first year the law is being strictly enforced, but now two county officers are engaged in seeing that all trees brought into the District are accompanied by certificates that they were cut legally. The certificates are given by the person who owns the trees.

The State Department of Forestry has distributed posters to be nailed up in the woods, notifying marauders of the penalties they are liable to.

Two tires were shot off a car driven by Graham Robinette, of Baltimore, yesterday before State Policeman C. W. Cubbage could stop the machine. Robinette was charged with driving while drunk, speeding faster than 60 miles per hour, and reckless driving.

Cubbage chased the car from Riverdale to Hyattsville. Robinette's car narrowly missed striking several other machines. The policeman said he shot the tire off to stop Robinette "before he killed himself or somebody else." Robinette said he had been having difficulty with his wife, and had started out determined to "drive away and never come back." A small quantity of liquor is reported to have been found in the Baltimorean's car.

The Hickory Grove school had the highest attendance among the one-teacher schools in Prince Georges County last month, with an average of 99 per cent. Fort Washington School had the same average, being highest among the two-teacher institutions.

Honors in the graded schools went to the Hyattsville group, with a 96.5 per cent average. Mount Rainier carried off the prize for the junior high schools, having 97 per cent perfect attendance. An average of 97.7 per cent was won for Baden in the high school group.

The Traveler's Aid Society, cooperating with the social service worker in the county, Miss Agnes Duvall, has made it possiblefor Laura Brumley, 23, to rejoin her family in Madisonville, Ky., for the Christmas holidays.

The girl came from Madisonville several months ago to act as housekeeper for Alfred Bell. Financial reverses overtook the man and he was unable to pay Miss Brumley her wages. Miss Duvall, hearing of the girl's plight, sought the aid of the society, and together they made arrangements for her return.

Women's clubs in the county have arranged to give 22 baskets of food to the almshouse inmates, so they will not feel left out of the general spirit of Christmas giving. Although taken care of by the county, there are no funds for extra attention at the holiday season.

Twelve dolls have been given Miss Kathleen Sheara, attendance officer in the school system, to be distributed to children most likely to be neglected by Santa Claus. The donor is understood to be a Washington woman.

Even the prisoners at the House of Reformation at Cheltenham will not be deprived of their celebration. John Pyles, superintendent, will give a party for them Christmas Day.

Six-inch cylinders are being cut out of the new concrete road between Largo and Bladensburg at 500 foot intervals by means of a drilling machine belonging to the State Roads Commission. The samples are tested in the laboratory at the niversity of Maryland before the contractor is paid for the road.

The plugs of concrete taken from the holes are tested for depth, to be sure the road is of the specified thickness, and to ascertain whether the material is of the specified quality. The drill can cut about 20 holes a day, covering about two miles.

WILLINGDON NAMED GOVERNOR OF INDIA

nounced in November, 1929, that the British government desired a dominion status for India.

A parley that followed between Lord Irwin and Indian Nationalist leaders on the political future of India failed to reach an understanding, however, and subsequently several attempts were made on the viceroy's life.

Since early this year he has been occupied with meeting the civil disobedience campaign led by Mahatma Gandhi, who handed an ultimatum that the campaign would follow to Lord Irwin last March.

In spite of this conflict of opinions, Gandhi has had a warm regard for the British viceroy, and addressed letters to Lord Irwin expressing regret for the outbreaks of violence that have occurred in connection with the civil disobedience campaign.

His efforts in India have been marked by attempts to preserve order and promote friendliness between the natives and the British. Last spring Lord Irwin entered into long negotiations with Gandhi for a plan of peace, but finally refused the Indian leader's demands. Last month he sent a report to the London table conference, in which he favored a gradual change in India.

Visions of Banditry Fail Boy, Sentenced

Youngster Who Broke Jail at Annapolis Sent to State School.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapoli sDec. 19.—Visions of himself as bandit, cowboy, gambler and what not went glimmering in Anne Arundel County Circuit Court today when Judge Robert Moss sentenced John W. Jarvis, 15, to the Maryland Training School at Lochraven until he becomes of age.

The boy, who hails from Houston and says his parents are truck farmers on a small scale, broke out of th ecounty jail last night by picking the lock of the main tier cell. He left by the front door.

Police Sergt. William Curry headed a hunt that resulted in the boy's capture at 5:30 this morning. He was slinking in the boiler room of a lumber plant along the water front. Police believe he had planned to take a ferry to return home, although he said "Life at home was not much for me."

Cuban Envoy Plans to Visit Post in Japan

Ferrara Will Depart in March to Far East Mission.

PLANNING to leave the Capital some time in March, the Cuban Ambassador, Senor Don Orestes Ferrara, accompanied by Senora Ferrara, will go to Japan to establish his country's first diplomatic mission in the Far East.

Senor Ferrara was designated as Minister to Japan last summer, while he and Senora Ferrara were traveling abroad. But the former's plans to go to Tokyo to present his credentials in the early fall after attending the League of Nations sessions in Geneva were canceled.

The Ambassador and Senora Ferrara will visit a number of foreign countries before returning to the United States. They will come back by way of Siberia, Russia and Finland.

It is quite the usual thing for an envoy to be accredited to another country nearby, or even in the same hemisphere, but for an ambassador to have a second post so far away is extraordinary.

In appointing one man to serve in two countries, not only is the drain on the national treasury alleviated, but the chance to profit more fully in the service of the best and most experienced diplomats presents itself.

A number of foreign envoys in Washington are representing their countries at other posts. Only last summer, the Austrian Minister, Mr. Edgar Prochnik was appointed Minister to Mexico. He enjoys the unique position of being envoy to three countries, as he is also Minister to Cuba.

Mr. Tytus Filipowicz, Ambassador of Poland, only recently returned to Washington after a sojourn in Mexico, where he is accredited as minister.

Others of the corps who serve as envoys to two posts are the Hungarian Minister, Count Laszlo Szechenyi, who represents his country both here and in Cuba, and the following, who likewise are serving here and in Cuba: the Swiss Minister, Mr. Marc Peter; the Minister of the Netherlands, Mr. J. H. van Royen; the Czechoslovakian Minister, Dr. Ferdinand Veverka, and the dean of Ministers, Viscount d'Alte, Minister of Portugal.

Miss Stimson to Visit In Washington.

The Secretary of State and Mrs. Henry L. Stimson will have with them for Christmas the former's sister, Miss Candace Stimson, who is at present en route from Europe and is expected here the day before Christmas.

The Minister of South Africa and Mrs. Eric Hendrik Louw and the Minister of Venezuela, Senor Dr. Don Pedro Manuel Arcayo, will be the guests in whose honor Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Robert Guggenheim will entertain at dinner on Tuesday evening at their residence in Edgemore.

Senator Arthur Capper will entertain at a dinner on Friday evening, January 16, preceding the second of the Friday evening dances.

Representative and Mrs. Richard J. Welch, of California, have taken a suite at the Hotel Roosevelt for the season. Their son, Mr. Richard Welch, jr., who attends the University of Virginia, has joined them.

The Commandant of the Army War College and Mrs. William D. Connor entertained at dinner last evening in honor of the new Assistant Commandant of the College and Mrs. Joseph Tracy.

After a 10-day visit with her parents, Representative and Mrs. John W. Summers, of Washington, Mrs. Hope Summers Witherill will leave today for her home in Chicago. Before coming to Washington Mrs. Witherill spent several days in New York and Philadelphia, where she appeared in dramatic readings.

Mr. and Mrs. George Abell have as their guest for a week the latter's brother, Mr. Daniel Moore, who is a student at Yale University. He will go to Florida before returning to New Haven to resume his studies.

Maj. and Mrs. Frank M. Kennedy will entertain at dinner at the Shoreham this evening in compliment to Mrs. Kennedy's sister, Miss Alice Nelson, of Springfield, Ill. The party will remain later for the supper dance.

Miss Nelson is spending the holiday period in Washington and dividing her time between the homes of her two sisters, Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. A. J. White, the wife of Lieut. Col. White.

Daughter Is Born To Charlton MacVeaghs.

Mr and Mrs. Charlton MacVeagh, of New York, are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter, who will be named Clarissa Sherman Rogers MacVeagh. Mr. MacVeagh is the son of the former United States Ambassador to Japan and Mrs. Charles MacVeagh. Another son, Mr. Francis W. MacVeagh, married Miss Ellen Warder Thoron, of Washington, several months ago. They also make their home in New York.

Mrs. Charlton MacVeagh is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin G. Merrill, of New York. She was formerly Miss Adele K. Merrill.

Mme. Wu, Wife of Envoy of China, Receives at Legation.

Mr. and Mrs. Percival Sheldon Ridsdale announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Betty Ridsdale to Mr. Donald Fenton McCall, son of Dr. and Mrs. Donald M. McCall, of Michigan.

Miss Ridsdale was graduated from Friends School here and Ogontz School in Pennsylvania. She is a member of the Junior League and has been active in guild and Arts Club dramatic work.

Mr. McCall is a graduate of Dartmouth, and is at present in business in New York. The wedding will take place in the late winter.

Dr. Lillian M. Gilbreth, head of the women's section of Col. Wood's unemployment commission, has just returned to the Dodge Hotel after a brief visit to her home at Montclair, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Bromfield, of Santa Barbara, Calif., have taken a suite at the Carlton, where they will remain for about two weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Bromfield are accompanied by their daughter, Miss Barbara Bromfield, and will also have with them at the Carlton their two sons, Mr. Innis Bromfield and Mr. Arthur Bromfield, who are attending school in the East.

Mrs. Bromfield is the sister of Mrs. Aldrich, wife of Representative Richard S. Aldrich, of Rhode Island. Representative and Mrs. Aldrich have taken a house at 1601 Massachusetts avenue for the season.

Mme. Wu, wife of the Minister of China, received yesterday at the legation. Alternating at the tea tables were Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, Mrs. William DeWitt Mitchell, Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Mrs. Charles L. McNary, Mrs. Burton K. Wheeler, Mrs. Sol Bloom, Mrs. Harry McL. Huse, Mme. Enver, Senora de Prieto and Mrs. Robert C. Foy.

June Cushing Introduced at Holiday Ball

Seated Breakfast Given to 300 Guests of Debutante.

Mr. and Mrs. George Holmes Cushing were hosts at another one of the early Christmas holiday balls when they presented their daughter, Miss Jane Cushing, last evening in the grand ballroom of the Mayflower.

The hosts and their daughter were assisted in receiving their guests by Miss Cushing's cousin, Miss Lucy Bayless, of Louisville, Ky., who is her house guest for the holidays.

Miss Cushing wore a gown of cream colored velvet, with a cowl neckline, slightly fitted at the waist line and with a very full flared skirt with a band of white fur at the hemline. Her bouquet was made of talisman roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Bayless was attired in a frock of orchid taffeta with which she wore a bouquet of yellow roses.

The debutante was assisted by Miss Susanne Bagley Wallace, Miss Georgette Yerby, Miss Dorothy Dodge, Miss Betty West, Miss Rosa Hayes, Miss Mildred Blaine Clarke, Misses Eleanor and Margaret Calvert, Miss Mary Stuart Birdsall, Miss Mary Elizabeth Acker, Miss Mary Eleanor Orme and Miss Elizabeth Edson.

Approximately 300 members of the young society group were present, including many of the diplomatic as well as official and residential circles. For the first time this season a seated breakfast was served shortly after midnight instead of the usual buffet supper, and during the serving of the meal in the presidential dining room the debutante was serenaded at her table by the orchestra furnishing the music for the ball.

Among the young men on the floor committee for Miss Cushing's ball were Mr. Edward Cook, Mr. Boss Barrett, Mr. James Young, jr., Mr. Eric Durand, Mr. Edgar Orme, Mr. Dudley Knox and Mr. Frances Sherer.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles LeFevre will be joined today by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Luke, of Tyrone, Pa., and their small daughter, Hester Anne. They will pass Christmas and the holidays in Washington.

ARCHBISHOP CURLEY TO DEDICATE CHURCH

Elaborate Service Is Planned for St. Gabriel's Tomorrow Morning.

STARTED IN K. OF C. HUT

Archbishop Curley will dedicate the new St. Gabriel's Church at Webster street and Grant Circle at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. This will be the chief event of the day in the Catholic community. One of the happiest persons who will be present is the Right Rev. John M. McNamara, Auxiliary Bishop of Baltimore, who is pastor of St. Gabriel's. The church is a monument to his energy, zeal and vision, and to the faith and wholehearted generosity of the congregation.

St. Gabriel's grew out of a Knights of Columbus hut erected on that spot during the World War. The hut is now St. Francis Xavier's Church, of which the Rev. Joseph V. Buckley is pastor.

Since the close of the World War, Bishop McNamara has built a beautiful and imposing group of buildings. Among them is the church school, the convent and the dignified rectory.

Will Pontificate.

Bishop McNamara will pontificate at the solemn high mass, which will follow the dedicatory services. Bishop Thomas J. Shahan, rector emeritus of the Catholic University of America will be in the sanctuary. The Right Rev. Dr. John F. Fenlon, president of St. Mary's Seminary and provincial of the Sulpician Fathers in the United States, will be assistant priest to the archbishop. The Rev. Gregory Moran, pastor of St. James' Church, Atlantic City, and the Rev. John Lynott, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, Wilkes-Barre, will be deacons of honor.

The Very Rev. W. Coleman Nevils, S. J., president of Georgetown University, and the Rev. George B. Harrington, pastor of St. Stephen's Church, Washington, will be chaplains to Bishop Shahan.

The Very Rev. Father Claude Vogel, Cap., superior of Saint Francis' Capuchin College, Brookland, will be the assistant priest at the mass. The Rev. William A. Toolen, pastor of St. Edward's Church, Baltimore, the deacon and the Rev. Robert J. Achstetter, pastor of SS. Philip and James' Church, Baltimore, the subdeacon. The Revs. Joseph M. Nelligan and William J. Sweeney, of St. Gabriel's, will be master of ceremonies.

Washingtonian to Preach.

The sermon will be delivered by the Right Rev. Mgr. Eugene J. Connelly, pastor of St. Peter's Church, Washington.

The chanters at the dedication will be the Revs. John B. Delaunay, C.S.C., of Holy Cross College; the Rev. James J. O'Connor, of Our Lady of Lourdes Church, Bethesda, Md., and the Rev. Terence F. Beehan, of the Shrine of the Little Flower, Baltimore.

NEW CHURCH TO BE DEDICATED

St. Gabriel's Catholic Church at Grant Circle and Webster street, which Archbishop Curley will dedicate Sunday morning. Bishop John M. McNamara is the pastor.

CATHOLICS REPORT INCREASE IN PUPILS

Archbishop Curley Is Told Capital City Leads in Some Sections.

MONASTERY PLANS FETE

The Rev. John I. Barrett, superintendent of schools of the Archdiocese of Baltimore, has submitted to Archbishop Curley his annual report on the condition of education in the archdiocese. Among other things the report states:

"Each of the past nine years has witnessed an expansion of Catholic educational activity. The present year has been but a continuance of those other eight. The enrollment in the schools of the archdiocese is greater now than ever before. In the elementary schools at the present time there are 49,481 children in attendance. There are 24,543 boys and 24,938 girls. This represents an increase of 1,210 children over last year. This increase is spread over various sections of the archdiocese.

"The Capital City kept pace with an increased attendance. In fact, Washington leads the various sections as far as increased enrollment is concerned. The present year discloses that there are 8,641 in the parish elementary schools. Comparing this with last year, one finds that there is an actual increase of almost 800 children; 795, to give the exact figures. There are 4,378 boys and 4,265 girls.

In Washington there are 26 parish schools, taught by 203 religious and 9 lay teachers.

During the year one private school, Sacred Heart Academy, in this city, was closed. It reopened as a parish school.

Among important plans under way is one that calls for establishment of a diocesan normal school, at which teachers will be trained for educational work. Many of the teachers are now taking extension work at the Catholic University.

Christmas at Monastery.

Christmas will be ushered in at the Franciscan Monastery with ceremonies similar to those of years past. At 11 o'clock the friars will assemble to chant matins, which precede the solemn high mass at midnight. After the mass an impressive procession of community members will go to the Grotto of Bethlehem, adjoining the catacombs under the church, where services will be held, as in the little town in Palestine that witnessed Christ's birth. The grotto, replica of the original, contains two beautiful altars, the largest of which is erected over the spot where "Mary brought forth her first-born Son;" while the other altar is dedicated to the Magi. The manger has been recently embellished with contrasting marbles of black and gold and botticino. At the rear of this chapel a large canvas depicts the plains of Judea, when the shepherds heard the tidings of great joy, sung by angelic choirs.

After the midnight services low masses will follow at the altar of the nativity, and at 9 o'clock Christmas Day the second solemn mass will be sung, the monastery choir giving the proper parts of the mass in ancient Gregorian; common parts from "Puer Natus Est Nobis" ("A Child Is Born to Us") by Magri; communion motets, "Domine Non Sum Dignus" (Piel); "Resonet in Laudibus" (Klein); processional hymns, "Adeste Fideles" and "Angels We Have Heard on High" (traditional); "Christus Natus Est Nobis" (Melvil); "Gesu Bambino" (Pietro Yon).

The afternoon devotions will take place at 3:30 with compline and solemn benediction, at which the beautiful "Tantum Ergo" (Schmid), will be sung, as well as an arrangement of carols, Prof. George H. Wells at the console. The Monastery Church, America's holy land, will be open to visitors throughout the holidays. Once again the great outdoor Christmas tree, near the entrance to the monastery will be lighted from Christmas eve until January 6, every night.

Another improvement in the catacombs is the placing of an imported altar in the purgatory chapel. This altar is of rare Belgian black marble, relieved by semiprecious stones and choice mosaics. A striking bas-relief of the souls in purgatory is inserted in the front of the altar.

At Father Hurney's Church

The solemn high mass at midnight, Christmas eve, will be broadcast from the Church of the Immaculate Conception through Station WOL. The Rev. Francis J. Hurney, pastor, will be celebrant. He will be assisted by the Rev. Stanislaus Czyz as deacon and the Rev. Bartholmew Kennedy as subdeacon. Father Hurney will preach.

Christmas carols will be sung before the mass by the boys' sanctuary choir, Frederick Nolan, soloist. The Immaculate Conception choir, under Prof. Harry Wheaton Howard, will sing the mass. The soloists will be Miss Florence Yocum and Miss Kathryn Bowers. They will be accompanied by a stringed orchestra. Prof. Howard is in charge of the entire musical program.

The last mass on Christmas and New Year's Day will be at 12:15 noon. At the mass Christmas Day there will be a repetition of the carols.

"Old Home Nite"

St. Aloysius, Church, North Capitol and I streets northwest, plans a gala "Old Home Nite" The Rev. Michael F. Fitzpatrick, S. J., rector of the church and president of Gonzaga College, invited his entire parish to the celebration.

It will be held in Gonzaga College Hall, 37 I street, northwest, on Monday, at 8 p. m. An interesting program has been arranged. Among the artists who will perform on that night, are: Miss Mary Mulroe, Mrs. Lucille Duffy O'Callaghan, violinist;

2 CLERGYMEN CAST FOR ROLES IN DRAMA

Drs. Rasmussen and Dudley to Appear in Van Dyke's "Other Wise Man."

OFFERING TO GO TO IDLE

The Rev. Dr. George Fisk Dudley, of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, and the Rev. Dr. Carl C. Rasmussen, of Luther Place Memorial Church, will appear in the sixth annual presentation of the legend, "The Other Wise Man," by Henry Van Dyke, December 28, 29 and 30, in Luther Place Church at Thomas Circle, opening with a Sunday afternoon presentation at 5 o'clock, and with a second presentation that same day at 8:30.

The clergymen will alternate in the part of the Voice, which has been given in the past five years by several pastors in the city, notably the Rev. Earl Wilfley, of the National City Christian Church, who has spoken the biblical lines of the rama's climax the past three years. He will be unable to take the role this year.

Dr. Rasmussen also will officiate at an offertory service, with which the drama opens. He will give greeting to the audience at all the presentations.

This drama, which has attracted throngs of Washingtonians and strangers to its performances, will have the added appeal this season of dedicating the offering received to the work of the downtown missions in their relief of the unemployed.

Members of the vestry will appear in important parts in the drama, among them being Frank Burger, George Eberly, Irving L. Koch, superintendent of the Bible school. "The Other Wise Man" was dramatized by Miss Bess Davis Schreiner, a former Bible school superintendent at Luther Place Church, and is given under her direction each year.

Hyattsville Baptists To Give Yuletide Play

"The Shepherd's Vision" will be given by the Hyattsville Baptist Sunday school at 8 o'clock tomorrow night in the Masonic Temple. Those to take part are F. H. Spencer, J. E. Rymer, J. T. Norman, J. A. Crawford, A. M. Shaddick, B. P. Robertson, C. F. Glass, J. T. Payne, Elmer Pettit, Alton Oberholzer, Claude N. Davis, Thomas Crawford, Ben Robertson, Paul Robertson, Jack Harrington, Harry High, Mrs. J. T. Payne, Mrs. M. M. Topping, Mrs. Bessie Jennings, Mary Payne, Stella Payne, Dorothy Page, Marion Crawford, Anne Lee Crosby, Gladys Crosby, Mary Franklin, Bettie Franklin, Josephine Franklin, Nora Fenwick, Ann Jones, Joan Rymer, Edith Luther, Elsie Travers, Florence Spicknall, Elizabeth Norton, Ellen Millard, Jannette Shahan, Mae Crosby, Gertrude Speiden, Harriett Sowers, Doris Ballard, Mary Davis, Fred Jennings.

The committee in charge is made up of Mrs. R. W. Curbow, Mrs. J. T. Payne, L. H. Willis, Mrs. F. H. Spencer, C. S. Speiden, R. C. Eaton and Alfred Pettit.

Will Speak in Mission Chapel.

Wilbur LaRoe, jr., of the Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church, who is a member of the board of directors of the Central Union Mission, will be the speaker tomorrow night in the Mission Chapel, at 613 C street northwest. Special music will be provided by members of Mr. LaRoe's church.

Sentence Sermon

By The REV. PERCY FOSTER HALL
(Rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Alexandria, Va.)

THE FIRST CHRISTMAS CAROL.

THE Angels sang for the glory of God.

They also sang of Peace on earth.

If what happened at Bethlehem be what Angels and Christians affirm, we can not exaggerate its importance.

If every Church in Washington were crowded at Christmastide, amplifiers installed in Sunday Schools and on outer doors, it would not be enough.

If every person in every city and in all the countryside throughout the wide world joined together in the Angels' song, it still would not be overdone.

If we decorated every school, hospital, jail, commercial house, factory, theater and residence and pressed into service all our radios, automobiles, airships, horses, boats and trains, still Immanuel would not be overpraised, nor would men be taking "this thing" too seriously.

Combine all of Earth's national festivals, and their sum would not begin to equal Christmas.

Sing then with all your hearts, "GLORY TO GOD," and be glad.

The Angels sang Peace on Earth.

Man was made for Peace. Eve was to help Adam. Cain and Abel were to be brothers. Fighting and hatred are unnatural. Discord is a usurper and an intruder.

Our frightful, fatal error is to consider self-interest as the normal motive.

"The Christmas Spirit" does not contradict human nature. It is its expression. At Christmas we act naturally.

"If God so loved us we ought to love one another." Divine logic! "Ought means nothing," they say. But this "ought" has "One" before it; and you can add as many "oughts" as you please, raising this royal duty to the billionth power; and not be wrong.

In other words, Christmas magnifies Peace. We can not overvalue nor make too much of Goodwill.

It is the heavenly wisdom; the prime necessity in every sphere of life; the source of happiness; the condition of progress.

We know what it is to mobilize for War.

All together then in the praise, proclamation and practice of Peace.

Happy Christmas to all.

CHURCHES TO GREET CHRISTMAS ADVENT

Catholics Will Usher In the Joyous Season With Special Services.

YULE SPIRIT FILLS CITY

Christmas is the great fact in the thought of the people of Washington at this moment, and the fact will be running through their thinking all next week and the week following. While it has been largely commercialized, the church has not lost its reverence for the day, nor been unmindful of its significance.

It will be ushered in with a holy service at midnight in all of the Catholic churches, a service that all sincere Catholics look forward to with glowing hearts. There will not be a vacant seat in any Catholic church here on that occasion; there never is, and it is probable that there never will be.

Most of the auditors and worshippers are Catholics, but a large number of Protestants and those who are not Christians attend this service by special invitation, or of their own will. What they see and what they hear never fails to impress them with the power and strength and emotion of the people who are called together on this sacred occasion, to celebrate the birth of their Saviour.

Georgetown Lutheran Church and Francis Asbury Methodist Church will hold midnight services Christmas Eve, and so will most of the Protestant Episcopal churches. Grace Lutheran, St. Paul's Lutheran, Mount Vernon Place Methodist and a number of other churches will hold candlelight, or dawn, services on Christmas morning.

Unite in Celebration.

An annual custom well observed here is a union service held under the auspices of the Washington Federation of Churches. This year it will be at the National City Christian Church at Thomas Circle. The choir of that church, under the direction of W. E. Braithwaite, will furnish special music. Dr. John Weidley, chairman of the committee of public meetings, will preside, and the sermon will be preached by Dr. W. A. Shelton, pastor of Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church. Other clergymen of this city will participate. The service is open to the public.

For the children the celebration in the Sunday school is the main attraction. This is usually held on Christmas Eve, or some day during the Christmas week. In late years the time-honored Christmas tree, with a Santa Claus and his big bag loaded with toys and boxes of candy and so on, has been abandoned. In its place, the children are given pageants and plays in which they are allowed to take part.

Passing of Tree.

One night this week I sat in a company of churchmen of all ages and this very question of the old-time Christmas tree came under discussion. Every man there expressed regret that his children and his grandchildren did not have the same kind of a celebration he had been brought up on, and each one spoke of the thrill he used to get when the dear old Kris Kringle summoned him up before the eager crowd of youngsters, and digging into the yasty deep of his bag drew forth a present for him. Those indeed were the halcyon days which left no scars in memory, or regrets, but only joys and a feeling that Christmas really meant something.

A little girl whom I know very well once told me "Christmas was when you get something." I tried to explain to her that Christmas was also when you gave something, and that "it is more blessed to give than to receive." She has grown up now and does not any longer believe in Santa Claus; but she has yet to learn the second part of the true meaning of Christmas.

"Delivering Prayers."

When I was a lad it was my duty to "deliver prayers" on Christmas Day. This, of course, is unintelligible to many who will read this piece. It comes down from pioneer days. The minister fell very ill and his people were summoned to a prayer service for his recovery. In the midst of the praying a loud knock came at the church door and on opening it a farmer's boy, all muffliered up to keep out the bitter cold, said: "Father couldn't come, but he sent his prayers. They are out here in the wagon." And there were wood and hams and chickens and turkeys and other things that the minister's family stood as much in need of as he did of prayers.

It is such prayers that the poor stand in need of, and it was to the poor that I had to "deliver prayers." My mother had the baskets filled with a turkey, a cake, jars of preserves and kindred things; and they went to dear old ladies who sewed for a living and lived up three flights of stairs in the back room, and indigent old men against whom the battle of life had gone. There is no recollection of my life so precious as these memories.

How many people in Washington will "deliver" prayers this Christmas? More than you have any idea of, for the poor are not neglected here and there is a wealth of charity done here that is not broadcast over the radio or otherwise. I would love, as I go about the city next Thursday, to meet many of my young friends carrying baskets to such dear old ladies as I carried them to in the long ago.

Series of Special Sermons Planned

Dr. McCartney to Start With Theme on Yule Tomorrow.

Dr. Elbert Joseph McCartney, pastor of the Covenant-First Presbyterian Church will begin a new series of seasonal sermons tomorrow. The morning sermon will be the Christmas message and the theme, "More Joy." The five sermons to follow will be: December 28, "The Golden Art of Shutting the Door;" January 4, "Behold, an Open Door;" January 11, "The First Year" (this sermon will mark the beginning of the second year of Dr. McCartney's pastorate in this city); January 18, "Music at Midnight;" January 25, "When the World Was Young."

Mr. McCartney is preaching a series of sermonettes for the children. His sermon tomorrow morning will be a lesson on cheating. The subject will be "The Golden Wedge."

To Lecture on "Heaven."

In the fifth of a series of lectures, Dr. B. G. Wilkinson, dean of theology of Washington Missionary College, Takoma Park, will give a stereopticon talk on "The Celestial Heavens, Our Future Home," tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, in Mount Pleasant Hall, 1813 Columbia road.

"Modern Woman" Dr. Metz's Topic.

Rabbi Solomon H. Metz, of Adas Israel Congregation, preached last night on "Behold the Modern Woman!" Cantor Louis Novick, assisted by the choir, led the music. The service was in special recognition of Junior Hadassah evening.

EXCLUSION OF ALIENS.

When the Senate immigration committee took up the question of excluding alien workmen during the depression its hearing turned into a discussion of immigration policies. Secretary Stimson opposed the Reed bill to exclude all immigrants, except close relatives of those already here, on the ground that it would alter the present policy. He seems to have the support of the Secretary of Labor, Mr. Doak.

As a substitute Mr. Stimson recommended a flat reduction of 90 per cent of all the aliens allowed to enter under the present law. He contends that the exclusion of wives, children and near relatives of immigrants already here would discriminate against western and northern countries of Europe in favor of southern and eastern countries.

Secretary Stimson's argument that the Reed bill would alter the American policy on immigration seems to have no bearing upon the point at issue. Congress is not seeking to change this policy, but merely to halt the influx of aliens while millions of Americans are out of work. This is an emergency measure, and the question of a permanent policy ought not to be involved.

On the other hand, Secretary Stimson's figures indicate that the Reed bill would not afford as much protection to the American workingman as was expected. It is estimated that the Reed bill would allow 13,262 individuals to come in under the preference provisions. The bill introduced by Representative Johnson would allow 20,380 to squeeze through. Most of these would come from southern and eastern Europe, where wages and the standards of living are low.

This aspect of the proposed legislation needs further study. This is emergency legislation. It ought temporarily to exclude all alien settlers, except in rare cases where actual suffering would be involved.

The situation calls for a committee bill, or such amendments to the Reed bill as will give complete protection against foreign labor competition during the depression. When the emergency has passed Congress can give attention to policy and to improvement of the existing laws.

PROPER USE OF PSYCHIATRY.

Much emphasis has been laid on the value of medical science in the administration of justice. Enthusiasts have visioned justice worked out to an exact science, with each violator of law dealt with according to his mental condition. To that end psychiatry has come to occupy a place of considerable importance in the courtroom. But the results have been very disappointing.

The public is well aware of the fact that most of the States have failed to realize any considerable advantage from the introduction of psychiatrists in criminal cases. The National Crime Commission now confirms that general knowledge in a lengthy report on the medical aspects of crime. "The importance of the testimony of the psychiatric expert in criminal trials has been much exaggerated," the report says. In most cases such testimony has developed into, not an impartial, scientific analysis, but a "battle of experts." Defendants find psychiatrists who are willing to refute the findings of the prosecution's experts. The general result has been greater confusion for both judges and juries. Under these circumstances it is not at all strange, the committee investigating this subject concluded, "that juries have either disregarded the medical evidence or have used some of it as an excuse to themselves to permit their sympathies to govern their verdict."

Obviously the fault lies, not in psychiatry, but in the methods of using it. In some instances the courts have been authorized to appoint experts for the mental examination of criminals, and incompetent men have been chosen. A few laws on the subject have been set aside by State courts on constitutional grounds. Some laws have become worthless because of the antiquated tests they provide. Only seven States are named by the committee as having applied psychiatry satisfactorily to the administration of justice.

The Massachusetts law is held up as an example to all other States. This statute provides for routine and impartial examination under State authority of persons held on criminal charges. Since only competent experts are chosen for the examining board, its findings carry prestige that is not easily overcome. Discrimination is eliminated by examination of all those charged with crime. No mental deficiency is likely to be overlooked. The committee is confident that if this plan were universally adopted many of the difficulties arising from use of expert medical testimony would be obviated.

The committee recommends that the larger courts be provided with psychiatric clinics, and that the States make similar facilities available to the smaller courts. Segregation of the various types of offenders is also advised. To make mental diagnoses more effective, the committee suggests wider use of indeterminate sentences and more discretion for judges.

Let governmental units overhaul their antiquated systems and insure proper use of expert medical examinations before psychiatry is discredited as a means of promoting justice.

BORAH RIDICULES THE REDS.

Russian extravaganza is very popular this winter. A few days ago Moscow produced a most fantastic farce in its courts, and the entire world was amused. Now efforts are beginning to be made in other parts of the world to exploit the elements of burlesque in bolshevism. Brilliant young men are overreaching themselves in making preposterous contributions to the Soviet show.

The most recent production of this kind is an essay by Miles M. Sherover, business man of New York. His work probably would have passed into oblivion had not that eminent critic, Senator Borah, appraised it and found it excellent. Now that the distinguished Idahoan has called attention to it, the public will no doubt find keen delight in Mr. Sherover's work and pronounce it the last word in farce comedy.

Mr. Sherover's acute sense of the ridiculous, and Senator Borah's indorsement of it, can be appreciated only after a glance at the background against which his essay is drawn. The Soviet regime has refused to pay Russia's debts to the United States. It has written into its fundamental law a provision justifying the government in repudiation of any obligation, when that is to the advantage of the clique in power.. On many occasions it has demonstrated its utter lack of integrity. The dictatorship has confiscated all national resources and enslaved labor, to the end that it might dump products on the market at less than world prices, thus undermining all industry and adding to its own strength. A desperate effort is being made to build up a trade with the United States, because America, as the exponent of capitalism, is the greatest obstacle to a communized world, and because the reds need American machinery to strengthen their own system as a means of turning the world upside down.

Against this background Mr. Sherover presents his ingenuous suggestion that the United States lend the Communists money to extend their trade with this country. If America would only furnish the money, he points out, Soviet Russia would be glad to have $1,000,000,000 worth of American goods, instead of a measly $150,000,000. In short, the Communists will run into debt as far as the gullibility of Americans will permit.

The most amusing thing about this proposal is that the Idaho senator lent his influence to it. The Idahoan is not accustomed to ridiculing the reds. He is laying himself open to an investigation by Moscow.

WASHINGTON MONUMENT.

Col. Grant's assurance that no attempt will be made to build sunken gardens about the Washington Monument gives a feeling of relief to all Washington. Ever since drillings were began to determine the feasibility of proposed sunken gardens there has been an atmosphere of tension in artistic circles of Washington and the whole country. In some quarters there has been fear that the Monument's foundation would be weakened, and in others apprehension lest the setting of this noble memorial be impaired by fantastic and inappropriate "improvements."

America admires the Washington Monument for its majestic simplicity. Nothing should be allowed to detract from it as a symbol of the man it commemorates. Historic fitness and significance ought not to be sacrificed to modern ideas of "decoration." The Monument needs no frills. Let it stand in simple sublimity, as does the name of Washington in every American heart.

CHINA'S NEW TARIFF.

China is preparing to increase her tariff. The event is significant, because China only recently regained the right to regulate her own tariff rates on foreign products. It is further significant because it marks a turn of this great nation, with its 450,000,000 inhabitants, from the pursuits of war to commerce. No one anticipates that China's era of civil disorder is definitely at an end, but the outlook for peace and economic progress is brighter than it has been for years. China longs to take her place among the commercial nations of the world, and the increase of import duties is unquestionably a move toward that end.

Apparently there is no thought of adopting a tariff to protect Chinese industries. China is far from being an industrial country. Most of the industrial goods its people consume come from other countries. The real purpose of the new duties is to increase revenue. China has just fought a disastrous civil war. Its treasury has been depleted by years of struggle with military chiefs. The people are in poverty and taxes weigh heavily upon them. The urgent need for a new source of revenue has caused the Nationalist government to propose a scheme that will tax imports for an additional $40,000,000.

China's new duties have not yet been announced officially. But the forecast indicates that they will be moderate, and that trade between the United States and China will be only slightly affected. Chief items of export from this country to China are wheat and flour, cotton, gasoline, kerosene, tobacco and machinery. Excepting the increase to 50 per cent on tobacco, the duties on products from America appear to be raised but slightly. The lowest of all duties is that on cotton.

The balance of trade between the two countries is in China's favor. Last year the United States sold China $155,700,000 worth of goods, and bought Chinese products valued at $182,700,000. This unfavorable balance is not a result of tariff walls on either side of the Pacific, but reflects the difference in purchasing power. China sells this country large quantities of raw silk as well as goat and kid skins, bristles, tung oil and materials for straw hats. The United States provides an extensive and wealthy market for these products. If China had purchasing power in any way comparable to that of America, it would be the greatest market in the world.

In the possibility that China will enter an era of progress lies great hope for the future. In so far as the duties about to be proclaimed will contribute to that end they will benefit every country that trades with China. During the last decade Chinese trade has increased more than 60 per cent. But that does not give an inkling of what may be expected if China succeeds in maintaining a stable government so that her economic resources may be exploited by modern methods.

ORIENTATION BY RADIO.

The radio direction-finding device developed by Messrs. Geoffrey Kruesi and Herbert Hoover, jr., promises to promote safety in airplane flight. Supplementing the existing radio beacon and functioning whether the plane be over a radio-controlled airway or not, the device enables the pilot by tuning in on any commercial broadcasting station to locate the direction of that station from the plane and set his course accordingly.

The shortcoming of the radio beacon is that its signals are not always easily picked up from a plane that has deviated widely from its course. Moreover, it is not feasible to locate radio beacons at every point to which planes might be directed. The Kruesi-Hoover device has been found practicable over distances up to 400 miles, but the extension of its range, no doubt, is a mere matter of mechanical improvement. By making every commercial broadcasting station a potential guide for lost pilots the device should enhance materially the safety factor in air travel.

Tom Edison says Dwight Morrow doesn't know what he is talking about when he advocates repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Who does?

A PALACE IN A PIGPEN

From the Saturday Evening Post.

The physical aspect of Washington, the Nation's Capital, is characterized by charm, grace and sheer magnificence. Commission after commission has sought with an ever-mounting degree of success to beautify the city. George Washington conceived it originally and a talented French engineer officer made the first plans on a noble scale. One President after another has given a really unstinted enthusiasm to the project and Congress has been anything but niggardly in appropriating funds for vast and ornamental public buildings. In recent years two able men, Senator Smoot and Secretary Mellon, have been especially interested in forwarding the mighty building program. Meanwhile the pattern of parks, monuments, boulevards, highways and bridges has taken an ever-finer shape.

It is a commonplace to say that the automobile has transformed modern life. Is it ten or fifteen million people who go touring every summer? The exact number does not matter; we all know that the country is covered with motor travelers, not only in summer but throughout the year. The Capital gets its share of them—make no mistake about that—and justly so. They go there by individuals and in groups, in delegations, and in swarms. There are school children, college students and conventions of adults of every conceivable description, in addition to plain citizens who have no badges on them, but who are out to see the sights. They go to see the White House, Congress in session, the Supreme Court, the Washington Monument, the Lincoln Memorial, Mount Vernon and a hundred other points of interest.

Multitudes of these go by train, but other and increasing throngs reach the Capital by the highways. No one will pretend that railroad entrances to most of our large cities are things of beauty. But there is some excuse for these dull, sordid approaches. In the first place, they represent mostly a very old development, when life was on a simpler scale and there was not the recognized necessity of preventing ugliness that now exists. In the second place, the railroads must touch heavy industries, and, besides, they have their own necessary accompaniment of freight depots, roundhouses, warehouses, and the like.

There is no such excuse for the character of so many of the main automobile entrances to our cities. If the main approach to Washington from the north be taken as an example, it is a wonder that tourists do not turn about and return to their homes. In the first place there exists for many, many miles a perfect chaos of billboards. These include not only what are technically known as poster boards, which are usually the larger and more regular forms of outdoor advertising, but also an endless and utterly bewildering array of snipe, or smaller, signs.

The defacement of the route is so complete, the signs are so overdone, they are so numerous, that it is impossible to see how the advertising can have any effect. Moreover, what space is not covered by signs is given over to hot-dog stands, service stations and other outfits which, generally speaking, add to the prevailing feeling of gloom.

In one large State which does not adjoin the District of Columbia more than 32,000 signs, many of them wholly illegal, were removed in a few weeks' time in July of this year. In this particular State the Outdoor Advertising Association, as well as the State highway department, has been instrumental in removing illegal signs.

What a travesty that one can not reach the Nation's Capital by main highway from the most thickly settled part of the country without passing through so much which is ugly!

It is true that officials of the District of Columbia have no jurisdiction outside the borders of the District. But are there no arguments, no forms of persuasion which Federal commissions and dignitaries can bring to bear which will make neighboring States less lax?

Washington is like a magnificently dressed queen with dirty finger nails and down-at-the-heels, muddy shoes. It will never, it can never be a beautiful city until it is entered by ways that are at least dignified and decently free from actual defacement.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

YOUNG SANTA CLAUS.

"I wish you'd tell me," Janet said
As we were putting her to bed,
"Who gave Old Santa Claus a toy
When he was just a little boy?
And did he have a father who Forced him to eat his spinach, too,
And made him sit up very straight
And every evening clean his plate?

"No one has ever told at all
What Santa did when he was small,
Or who his playmates were or what
He ever did that he should not.
I wonder was he that precise
That old folks always thought him nice,
Or did they sometimes say: 'Dear me!
What will that youngster grow to be?'"

Said I: "I can't exactly tell
Where Santa's parents used to dwell,
But I suppose it's safe to say
They used to worry day by day
If he ran out without his coat
Or lost the muffler round his throat,
And dread the night he'd wake to whoop
With all the symptoms of the croup.

"Since he's old, it's plainly seen
A little boy he must have been
And I should think it all true
He once did everything you do
And learned what children like and don't,
And what they will eat and they won't,
And how to please them best, because
How else could he be Santa Claus?"

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE:

The first quarterly report of your work at college came this morning and I went out and bit a large chunk from a water oak in the front yard.

Since you have been so sure of yourself, I suppose it jolted you much as it did me, so I'm not going to moralize about it. I know you'll buckle down and recover lost ground in the next quarter.

The thing I wish to write about is that college algebra. That's your weakness now. And I heartily agree with your opinion, unexpressed but obvious, that it isn't worth a darn.

You never will have any use for it; it can't, by any stretch of the imagination, make you a better or finer woman; you need it no more than a frog needs a hip pocket.

But it happens to be part of the game.

And when you play any kind of game, you must play by the rules as the others do and like it.

We hear a lot about good sportsmanship in this country, and a lot of youngsters think it consists in doing anything reckless they are dared to do, and giving three cheers for the other team, and spending more than they can afford to show how generous they can be with money they didn't earn.

But true sportsmanship is something bigger and finer than that.

It consists in playing the game according to the accepted rules, doing your level best to win, and neither whining nor offering an alibi when you lose.

College algebra is of no importance to you as equipment for the life you will live, but it is of supreme importance as a test of character.

If you make yourself believe that your natural aversion to it frees you of obligation to do your best, you will begin the formation of a habit that makes moral weaklings of half the people in this country.

They are like the little boy who takes his ball and goes home if he isn't allowed to pitch. They believe in majority rule while its regulations conform to their own pet ideas, but they don't believe in it and won't abide by it if it interferes with their plans and pleasures.

In a free land the majority rules. That is the rule of the game, and every citizen is pledged to be governed by it. To abide by the rule when your side wins and refuse to acknowledge it when the other side wins is, to say the least, rotten sportsmanship.

There will be many, many times when the rules won't please you—many times when you will be tempted to join the petty who won't play if they can't have their own way—and the temptation may prove too great if you don't form the habit of good sportsmanship before your character completely jells.

Lick that algebra, dear. It will help you to play square in years to come when the yellow takes a crooked way out. Love, DAD.

Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great Show, "Politics," Staged in Congress.

Jack Garner Licks His Chops.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

In announcing that he will call a meeting of the Democratic members-elect of the next House to plan its organization and choose a Speaker, Representative Garner shows where the thoughts of his fellow partisans are centered these days. It has been many years since the Democrats had such an oportunity, and they can think of little else, even at the expense of their present duties. Should the Democrats win, Mr. Garner will displace his friend, Mr. Longworth, in the Speaker's chair. Naturally, his mind is more intent on that achievement than on cooperating with his Republican colleagues at this session to speed the public business.

Congress Jobs.

Indianapolis News.

Working as a member of Congress is no easy job. Any of the members will admit that. But, on the other hand, it pays better than any other job that would be available for most of the members.

Hot Water.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Mr. Hoover says a great deal of water must pass under the bridge before we can talk of the next presidential election, and unless we are mistaken most of it is going to be hot water.

Mr. Coolidge gets a dollar a word for his writings. Who remembers the old days when a President had no chance for promotion?

Congress Gets in Line.

Christian Science Monitor.

In the decision of the United States Congress to give President Hoover and his Cabinet a free hand over the $116,000,000 appropriation for public works in relief of unemployment, there is enough reason for gratitude that Congress, the President and the people at large may all share in the credit due for this timely agreement on an urgent question.

From almost every quarter of the nation there has come an overwhelming popular support for President Hoover's demand that emergency funds be provided in quickly usable form, unhampered by political considerations.

Rocky Road to Relief.

New York Times.

"The people who are hungry" while Congress debates which hand of the Government shall pass food to them—those people for whom Senator Borah pleaded with his wrangling colleagues yesterday—might well wish there were definite political control by one or the other of the two parties. It is the lack of even a nominal Republican majority in the Senate which disables Senator Watson or Senator Robinson from cutting corners of technicalities on the road to relief.

But Who Would Watch 'Em?

Boston Transcript.

If the Government should hire all the men it needs to enforce prohibition effectively, there would not be an unemployed person in the country.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Indistinct Lights at Havre de Grace Constitute a Trap for Motorists, Who Are Robbed in Name of the Law.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: On Saturday, December 13, 1930, I was traveling north in my automobile through Havre de Grace, Md., and, approaching traffic signal fixtures, I could detect no light in either red or green (there being no yellow lens). Consequently I drove slowly, watching to see if either color would light up. As both continued to appear dark I passed on, thinking they were not working, and immediately an officer stepped from behind a tree and hailed me. He asked if I had seen the signals. I replied that I had seen them but that they were dark and did not appear to be working. He then looked at my tag and, seeing that I was a stranger, entered my car and directed me to turn around and drive to the corner. From that side a faint light could be seen in the green lens.

The officer at the desk wrote out a paper in which, apparently, I was charged with passing a red signal, and I was notified that the fine was $4.45, which I paid.

Thereupon the officer at the desk delivered me an oration on passing signals, reckless driving, &c., and stated that on account of the number of school children passing at that point a special officer was placed there during the noon period. However, it was Saturday; I saw no children and very few adults on the streets, and very few moving automobiles. Both officers suggested that I take a look at the signals as I repassed, stating that I would see that the lights were working. I did look. I stopped my car, and by very close attention could discern at intervals a slight flick indicating the change. I waited until I saw this slight flick five or six times, and there was not the slightest glow from either red or green lens.

The object in writing this is to call attention to these antiquated signals not visible in bright daylight; to the injustice to strangers in the obvious trick of these officers in grabbing and mulcting them. It is nothing more or less than highway robbery under the guise of law.

Bread and House Rent at High Level, in Spite of Downward Trend of Other Prices.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: We are frequently seeing in the papers statements relative to the drop in the price of commodities, but the general opinion seems to prevail that this drop has failed to reach the consumer to any great degree. There are, however, two glaring examples of the failure of the actual necessities of the ordinary household to be reduced.

These are bread and house rent. It is a well known fact that the prices of flour and other materials used in the making of bread are at the lowest point known in many years, and although the price of labor has risen that can not account for the present prices of bread and other bakery products, including package goods nationally advertised.

In the matter of house rentals it is also a well known fact that for houses that sold for $5,000 to $6,000 previous to 1915 rentals are being asked of $60 to $75 per month. This is one of the big items in the average household budget, and is a serious menace to sanitary conditions, causing as it does a crowding of two or more families into a building built for one only.

At this time of depression and lack of work these facts should engage the attention of the authorities as a means of relief for many persons who find it difficult to make ends meet.

ANON.

Reflector Signals and Standard Arm Signals Would Promote Safety in Driving.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Two aids to safer driving should be emphasized—the use of the newer form of reflector signs for night guides, and the differentiated arm signals.

In Virginia, the road from Norfolk to Richmond is nearly complete with the new style reflector markers. This type of reflector has the painted word or design outlined with small discs, which at night reflect the light of head lamps. The word "Curve" and the arrow indicating the direction of the curve, are reflected, giving the best warning the writer has seen. If these reflectors were set up in place of the painted signs, which are almost useless at night, accidents on curves, at road ends and intersections would be fewer.

Virginia urges its motorists to raise the forearm of the arm extended to a right angle for a right turn. The left arm and forearm extended horizontally is urged to indicate a left turn; and the depressed arm and forearm is advised to show slowing down or stopping. It seems to me some such intelligent use of signaling to replace the stupid one-signal performance would facilitate safer driving.

Able-Bodied Veterans Out of Work Are Entitled to Relief Through the Bonus.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Ralph T. O'Neil, in his address over the radio, spoke of "those veterans who are carrying on in civilian life as men who deserve and shall have a bonus." It struck me as quite a novelty that while our deepest sympathy is naturally with the bed-ridden and those still suffering in our hospitals, there are so many that really can work, who want to work, who show they desire to work, and yet have no employment; those whose families suffer for the common necessities of life. Now that the Government knows money is due them, my question is perfectly natural: Why, in the name of all that is decent, can't Congress do something besides talk about it?

At this time of the year especially will the people want an answer.

THREE speeches to be heard over WMAL tonight are Cyrus McCormick, president of the International Harvesting Co., from Chicago, on unemployment, 7 p. m.; "Art of the Ages in Wallpaper," by E. D. Bellknap, executive vice president of the Wallpaper Association of the United States, 7:15 p. m., and "Why the United States Should Not Join the World Court," by Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, in the National Radio Forum, 9:30 p. m.

Listeners might imagine that the entire time of Howard Barlow is occupied with radio, but in addition to this he is an associate conductor of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra.

In reply to a query as to whether or not Washington is to be included in the forthcoming trip of Roxy and his Gang, we have received a wire which reads: "Don't know yet. Regards. Roxy."

Schumann-Heink will go along, doing a two-a-day appearance with the party. It may be said without fear of contradiction if they get to the Capital that Walter Reed Hospital will be in for a special performance, as Roxy has never yet missed doing this.

The time of the year has arrived for performers and announcers to begin to hint around over the air for Christmas presents for themselves.

THE only orchestra heard locally making extensive use of the vibraphone and chimes is the Wilkins Coffee Orchestra, now directed by Harold Veo (WRC, 7:30 p. m. tonight). Mr. Veo, who has had wide radio experience over WEAF and WJZ as a conductor, is devoting his entire time to the Washington unit heard weekly in this broadcast.

Suggested by a request from a listener that the Washington Gas Light Ensemble play "Estrellita," an entire Latin-American program will be given tonight by the ensemble under the direction of Rudolf Schramm, composed of the following numbers: "Ay, Ay, Ay," "La Golondrina," "El Guarany," "Estrellita," "Serenata," "The Peanut Vendor," and "El Cefiro."

Julia Sanderson and Frank Crummit will transfer their program from the CBS network to WEAF, in place of the Eveready Hour, beginning January 6. The program will come into Washington through WRC.

Will Osborne and orchestra have been signed by Station WOR, Newark, as a sustaining feature.

Saturday Selections

1:45 p. m. (WRC)—Foreign Policy Association luncheon, "Germany."

2:30 p. m. (WJSV)—"The Other Wise Man."

4 p. m. (WMAL—Ann Leaf, organist.

6:15 p. m. (WRC)—Concert orchestra, direction Rudolf Schramm.

6:15 p. m. (WOL)—Walter T. Holt, mandolin and guitar.

7:30 p. m. (WRC)—Wilkins Coffee Orchestra, Harold Veo conductor.

8 p. m. (WRC) "Brighter Washington Christmas."

8 p. m. (WMAL)—Dixie Echoes.

9 p. m. (WRC)—Walter Damrosch Symphony Orchestra.

10 p. m. (WJZ, WBAL) Chicago Civic Opera, "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Il Pagliacci."

PREDICTIONS are being made that about $12,000,000 will be spent during the forthcoming year for radio broadcasts of electrically recorded programs; that is, by means of phonograph records. One firm is said to have appropriated $1,000,000 for records, according to Variety magazine, and the guess is made there that within the next two years 75 per cent of all radio broadcasting will be from records.

On the other hand, H. A. Bellows, of Minneapolis, Northwestern vice president of Columbia, remarked yesterday:

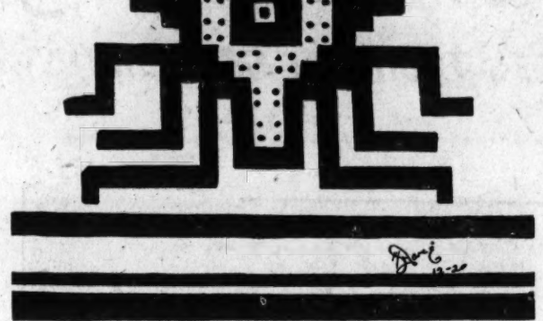
"It looks to me as if electrical transcription, broadcasting from records, has passed its peak of popularity and is going down hill."

WHEN Edward Thorgerson, while announcing the program of the Lucky Strike Dance Orchestra in the NBC New York studios turned over the wrong page of the continuity and incorrectly announced two numbers scheduled for later in the program, B. A. Rolfe, conductor of the orchestra, rose to the occasion as a showman of long experience and with scarcely a second's delay signaled his 50-piece orchestra and immediately swung into the announced numbers.

The orchestra's response was so perfect that only those in the studio were aware of the alteration of the program.

Dare Interprets the Mode

A Peruvian art design which you might put on the Christmas present you are making for HIM, just because it is so attractive and so entirely masculine in effect.



Paris, Dec. 19.

"OH, I can't imagine what to give him!"

And in that respect we are all sisters—because I don't imagine there's a woman in the world who doesn't puzzle her brains out wondering what to give a man in the way of a Christmas gift—father, brother, uncle, sweetheart, husband, each requires a different kind of gift, each is unfailingly polite in his thanks for the inevitable handkerchief or socks or tie.

But the woman of good taste does not want to give her men the same kind of gift that every other woman gives to her men, so what is she going to do about it? Well, she's going to use her imagination, her head, and all of her good taste, and determine to give him a Christmas gift that will be outstanding in his memory forever, portraying herself to him every time he sees it or even remembers it. And this she can only do by ruthlessly discarding the tie, handkerchief, or sock idea from her mind, or any other idea that she knows has been worked to death, and scheming around until she hits on just the perfect gift!

Now you know how helpful we always are to our deah public! So what did we up and do now but pester all the sundry boy friends almost to death's door by demanding that they tell us frankly, what men really do like for Christmas, hesitating not to bare their innermost desires, proffering their cherished secrets on the altar of our promising that all communications would be kept confidential and no names used.

The result was revealing—and helpful. Just sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet full of these suggestions is going to make a couple of million women wiser and men happier this Christmas. Because we did all of this research work for you, in order to make up a gorgeous leaflet telling you what to give him for Christmas. And by the way, it is not necessarily things to make for him either, but things to buy—the suggestions for novel gifts for men are all that you need.

She Fell to Pieces.

And then there were her finger nails which used to look so-o-o lovely with their nacre nail polish, that just up and got so brittle that they broke off when you looked at 'em, and when you did look at 'em showed ridges just like an old person's finger nails. So she took one of her bee-youthful little gadgets, this one a fat and very knowing little jade Buddha whose head came off and was the stopper of a bottle and filled him with olive oil. And set it right at the side of her bed on the bedstand, so that she wouldn't forget to rub it into the base of her nails every night. 'N' she didn't forget, 'n' the nails limbered up, 'n' she stopped failing to pieces in that place anyway.

Still time to send your stamped, self-addressed envelope for the leaflet of how to make a flock of children's gifts—but today's the last day that you can!

Tomorrow's the day for Dare's weekly fashion letter. You'll find it in the big Sunday Post tomorrow and every Sunday.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

TO LOVE AND TO CHERISH.

DEAR Frances McDonald: I want to tell you of my failure in marriage. I married a girl I had only known three weeks. But we were very happy for a year and a half. Then we were blessed with a fine baby boy who made us very happy but a little poorer. I was only making $35 a week. I gave her my pay envelope unopened, but it was not enough. She began complaining. She compared her clothes with the things her single sister had and became dissatisfied. She started going around with her sister and the sister's boy friend in the car. I stayed home with the baby, thinking she was entitled to a change after being in all day.

But one night she said she was going out with them and I believed her. She was hardly gone when they blew in to spend the evening. I questioned the boy friend and found she did not go with them at all. When she came home I told her everything and asked her to stop such actions and we would start all over again. She would not even listen. And a little later I came home and found the man right in my house. I put them both out and told them to stay out. She is still with her mother and still running around. She has my boy and I do not get to see him at all. And I love him like nobody's business. Now it is nearly a year and I am at a loss what to do. I can not forget my son. But should I go out of town and try to forget the rest?. What do you advise?

LONESOME.

Well, before you try forgetting, why not try remembering? You remember that you promised some things when you married this girl whose life is so bound up with yours. You said something about loving and "cherishing"—did you not? And to cherish is to shelter as well as to love. So no matter what she may have done, you still have that obligation of cherishing. She may have been the most foolish of women. She may have decided that she had missed romance in being tied down after one short year with a baby and no more dances. It matters little what she did or what she thought. Few of us do anything or think anything that matters. The only thing that concerns you is your happiness and the well-being of the baby. So here is my advice, and I hope you are man enough to follow it. Go to her and ask her if she is ready to be a real woman and a real wife and mother. Do not discuss what she has done or not done. Just ask her to come back to you and settle down. People part and come together again and often are very happy, happier than ever. Try it. Be sweet to her. She was probably only foolish. When the boy grows up and does things he should not, you will forgive him. Do the same with her. Tell her that the boy should have both his parents and a home with them. But do not make the boy the reason for your desire to reunite. Tell her that you do not want to lose her. Remind her of your first happiness. Make love to her as you did before you married her. Try to get her back. This country is fast becoming a nation of homeless children, deserted husbands and abandoned wives. See if you can save your little family from this vast waste. Be a man. Protect your own. You promised to cherish as well as to love. So cherish.

WORK ON BRIDGE

(This article is intended for the Auction and Contract Bridge beginner.)

It is so easy for the Bridge novice to fail to recognize the importance of making up extra entries in the dummy, that the following hand is given to illustrate how such entries frequently may be created.

Playing with a No Trump contract, West would open the play with the Queen of Clubs—the correct lead from Queen-Jack-Nine — and of course South would take the trick. Then, noting the importance of extra entries in the dummy, Declarer would lead the King and Queen of Diamonds and when eight Diamonds were played, would lead the Jack from the South hand and overtake with the Ace. The last adverse Diamond must fall on this trick. Therefore the play, which does not entail any risk, creates an extra entry in dummy as it makes the Five of Diamonds a winning card.

Declarer's next play would be a Spade from dummy and a finesse in closed hand. Dummy now has another Diamond entry and so can take a second Spade finesse. If there had been four Diamonds in one adverse hand, two Diamond entries could not have been made up in dummy; but then an extra entry could be found in the Heart suit. Hearts would be led from closed hand, the Eight being chosen (not the Deuce), and won in dummy with the King, followed by the Four of Hearts from dummy, closed hand finessing the Jack. Then, the Ace of Hearts having dropped the adverse Heart Queen, the Deuce of Hearts would be led from closed hand, making another entry for dummy in Hearts. At the finish a Spade would be led from dummy for a second finesse, and all thirteen tricks would be won.

The average novice would see in his dummy (North) hand only the two obvious entries—Heart King and Diamond Ace. That the Diamond Five and one of dummy's small Hearts could be used as entries, probably would escape him.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

LEAD POISONING.

THE Bulletin of the Metropolitan Life says: "Lead poisoning is a real source of danger to infants and young children, and education of parents concerning this hazard would be a definite forward step in public health education. Lead poisoning is rarely thought of as a cause of illness in infants and young children. Private physicians having a general practice should consider more frequently that they are dealing with this serious disease."

They base this warning upon what they know about lead poisoning in babies due to gnawing the paint from cribs, woodwork and toys. If toys are painted, the paint should never be one that contains lead. The same advice applies to cribs, chairs and other woodwork that comes within gnawing range of these young animals. We are assured that the market is well supplied with paints that contain no lead.

Other sources of lead to which babies are subjected are lead nipple shields and the use by mothers of lead powders and lead ointments, either on the breasts or anywhere else within reach of a baby's mouth or hands. Older children are sometimes exposed to other sources of lead poisoning. Children like to get hold of foil and tags, to handle them, and to put them in the mouth. They are not always averse to foil from snuff and tobacco.

There is some lead poisoning due to drinking carbonated beverages drawn through lead pipes. "Pop" got its name from a soda water bottle in which charged water was in contact with a lead coil. This type of pop bottle is never seen around the cities any more, and it may have wholly disappeared from the trade. It is altogether probable that some of the soda fountains still draw their charged waters through lead pipes and connections. One wonders why this industry has not learned how to lacquer as the canning industry has done.

Doubtless the children with perverted taste, such as the dirt eaters, sometimes develop the paint eating fancy.

BETTER WEAR GLOVES.

M. H. writes:

I am very easily poisoned by poison ivy or oak. Is there anything you could suggest to prevent infection when exposed to these plants?

REPLY.

Wear gloves and other coverings for the skin. Remember, however, that the juice may get in fabrics and remain potent there for years.

After exposure, wash the skin thoroughly with a solution of ferrous sulphate in water or with a strong soap and warm water solution. The Rural New Yorker gives this method of killing poison ivy vines:

Use calcium chlorate. Dust the powder on the leaves when they are lightly covered with dew or when they are wet after a rain. Or, use a spray containing one pound in one gallon of water. Spray, not sprinkle, the leaves.

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

I HAVE a Japanese azalea the leaves of which are covered with mildew. Can you tell me what to do for the trouble? Azaleas are expensive, and I am afraid of the disease spreading to five other plants in the same location. CHARLES B.

Spray azalea at this time with Bordeaux mixture and again before growth starts in the spring.

Please tell me the name of the inclosed evergreen. I want to plant a hedge of it. MRS. E. E. G.

Your shrub is a thread retinospora. The plant grows into a broad, dense, pyramidal form. Better keep the leader cut back, thus tending to keep down the height and make the plant broader and more bushy. I think there are other evergreens much better suited for hedge growing. Ask your dealer to tell you about them.

Please tell me why my Scarborough lily never does well. My aunt's bulb blooms beautifully and I know she does not give her plant the attention I give mine. I repot my bulb every year. ELSIE T. G.

Your failure with your vallota (Scarborough lily) is due to disturbing its roots. The secret of growing this plant to perfection is to repot it as seldom as possible, and when repotting is necessary the roots should be disturbed as little as possible. When transplanting this lily keep the ball of soil intact.

I have a large flowering magnolia, which, because I am moving, must be transplanted some time in the next twelve months. When shall I have this work done? The tree is 8 years old. Do you think I can have my man, who cuts my hedge, do the work or shall I get a landscape architect to send me some one?

MRS. HENRY T. K.

Spring, just as the flowers are opening, is the most approved time to move a saucer magnolia (magnolia soulangeana). The roots of this magnolia are fleshy rather than fibrous. The plants do not take kindly to being moved without a large ball of soil. Dig a trench about six inches wide around the tree and several feet from the trunk. Fill the trench with the best soil obtainable and enrich it with bonemeal and manure. If this is done in spring the roots will be coaxed into good soil. The roots can then be moved next spring just as the flower buds are opening or dug with a frozen ball of earth in late February. Of course, it is too late to use this trench method this fall. Unless your gardener is an experienced man, I think with so valuable a specimen it will repay you to have a landscape man send some one to move the tree.

Please tell me how much sun house plants in general require in winter.

MRS. WILLIAM G. T.

Each plant is a law unto itself. Foliage plants in general require little sun and blooming kinds refuse to bloom without a great deal. If you have no sunny east, west or southern windows confine your choice of house plants to such plants as ferns, English ivy or other nonflowering varieties. If you have southern, western or eastern windows you should be able to grow successfully such plants as begonias, sultanas or geraniums.

Is green moss injurious when it grows on the surface of the soil of house plants? ANNE F. K.

The green plant life which covers the soil in a flower pot is either an alga or a moss. In either case it will hinder the proper growth of a plant, as it prevents the aeration of the soil. Stir the surface soil to remove it whenever it is present.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

THE family name "Blount" (also spelled "Blond" and "Blunt") has come into English through the French. It was obviously first given as a nickname, since it means "the light-complexioned person." It is one of the most frequently found names in early English registers. Its oldest English spellings are "Blound" and "Blund."

The family name "Villard" may be traced back to three quite different sources. In most cases its source is the Late Latin "villarius," and its full significance is "he who lives in the village." It is sometimes a French variation of "Willihard." "Willihard" was an old Germanic personal name which may be translated "resolutely brave" or "brave will." Finally, "Villard" sometimes corresponds to the modern French "vieillard," and therfore means "the old man."

The family name "Loewe" (also spelled "Loew" and "Lowe") is of German origin. It means "the lion," and was frequently applied to persons who were thought to resemble that animal by their nature or habits. It will be recalled that in early days it was a common practice to display images or pictures of animals before private dwellings, as well as before inns and taverns, as a means of identification. Thus, the family name "Loewe" frequently means "he who lives at the sign of the lion." This name has often been adopted by German-Jewish families because of its resemblance to certain Hebrew names, especially "Levi" and its variations.

The family name "La Roque" (also spelled "Laroque") is a southern French form of the northern "La Roche." These names may mean "the rock" or "the fortress," and obviously indicate an original place of residence.

Watch this column every day. Your name will appear here.

Helping the Homemaker

By LOUISE BENNETT WEAVER.

Recipes for Christmas.

Candied Fruit Peel.

4 cups sliced orange peel.
4 cups water.
2 cups sugar.
½ cup boiling water.

Cut orange peels in quarters and add 4 cups of water. Cook 20 minutes in covered pan over low fire. Rinse well in cold water and with a spoon remove all the white portions. Mix the sugar and boiling water. Add orange peel which has been cut into thin strips with scissors. Boil gently until the strips are well glazed. Remove to a platter and roll in granulated sugar. Use a fork to stir mixture.

Hard Sauce for Puddings.

4 tablespoons hot cream.
1½ teaspoons vanilla.
¼ teaspoon lemon extract.
⅛ teaspoon salt.
2½ cups sifted confectioner's sugar.

Cream the butter until soft. Add cream and rest of ingredients. Beat until creamy. Roughly pile in small glass dish and chill. This serves twelve.

Apple Rings for Roast Duck.

6 apples.
2 cups sugar.
1 cup water.
¼ teaspoon cinnamon.
2 tablespoons butter.
Red fruit coloring.

Wash and core apples. Do not peel. Cut in 1-inch slices, cutting crossways. Boil the sugar, water and cinnamon 3 minutes. Add red fruit coloring to give desired shade. Add apples and butter. Bake in moderate oven 25 minutes. Baste frequently. Arrange the slices with edges overlapping and pour the sirup over the top.

Date Nut Fudge.

3 cups sugar.
1½ cups milk.
3 tablespoons butter.
⅛ teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
½ cup chopped dates.
2-3 cup nuts.

Mix the sugar, milk, butter and salt. Cook over moderate fire until soft ball forms when tested in cold water. Stir frequently during cooking. Remove from stove and allow to stand twenty minutes. Add vanilla and beat until creamy. Add rest of ingredients. Pour into a buttered dish and cut into cubes.

Preserved figs stuffed with white cream cheese and arranged on pineapple placed on lettuce and topped with salad dressing make a very good salad.

Programs to Be Given At Friendship House

A program of carols and stories will be presented at the Friendship House at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, when a number of groups connected with the center will open Christmas festivities. Numbers are scheduled by the Girls' Glee Club, the Boys' Glee Club and the Sing Song Club.

There will be a solo by Catherine Evans, a duet by Harry and Elsie Peaper and Aileen Martin, Margaret Watts and Florence Dean will sing a Christmas lullaby. Christmas stories will be told by Miss Ellen DeShields. Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock a tree celebration will be held for the preschool classes, and Wednesday at 1 o'clock a dinner and tree celebration for children of the day home.

Tree Is to Be Set Up In Yard at Famed Home

A Christmas tree will be set up Monday in the park of the historic house, at 3049 M street northwest, famous as the place where President George Washington and Maj. L'Enfant met in March of 1791 to map out plans for the Capital City. The home now is the property of Miss Alice Goddard.

The Washington Bicentennial Commission, in announcing yesterday that the annual custom would be observed this year, said carols will be sung by and refreshments served to children in the park, between Monday and Christmas Day. The celebration is sponsored by the Social Agencies of Georgetown, of which Mrs. Fred T. Dubois is chairman.

SOCIETY EVENTS

Chaplain Evans, of the Navy Department.

Mr. Robert Corning Wales will spend the holidays with his parents, Civil Service Commissioner and Mrs. George R. Wales, arriving today from the University of Pennsylvania.

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Matthews have left Washington for a motoring trip through Virginia, where they will spend the holidays. They will return to their apartment in the Shoreham Hotel early in January.

Miss Anne Hilliard, of Salem, N. J., is spending a few days with Miss Maude Wells at her home in Washington. Misses Hilliard and Wells are attending Brenau College, Gainesville, Ga., and they will spend the last few days of the Christmas vacation visiting Miss "Johnnie" Magruder, of New Smyrna, Fla.

Midshipman James D. Collett, will arrive today to spend the holidays with his family, Commander and Mrs. C. C. Baughman.

Mr. and Mrs. Noah Johnson and their daughter, of St. Louis, Mo., have arrived in Washington, and are at the Potomac Park Apartments.

Assisting Mrs. Robert Whitney Imbrie with a tea at her residence, 1016 Sixteenth street, this afternoon from 4:30 until 7 will be Mrs. Claude Swanson, Mrs. Guy Despard Goff, Mrs. Wilbur John Carr, Mrs. Mark L. Bristol, Mrs. William Leahy, Mrs. Davis Arnold, Mrs. Sydney Cloman, Mrs. Edwin St. John Greble, Mrs. Ray Ovid Hall, Mrs. Constantine Brown, Mrs. Alexander Johnson, Mrs. Philip Lee Phillips, Mrs. Richard Stockton Field, Mrs. James Ware and Mrs. J. Thompson Wailes.

It is an informal gathering of those who were associated in the Baltic, Balkan, near East and Russia.

Former Representative and Mrs. William A. Rodenberg will have with them during the holiday season their two sons, Mr. William Ridgway Rodenberg, who is practicing law in New York, and Mr. Robert Ridgway Rodenberg, who is a junior at Harvard University.

The Third Assistant Postmaster General and Mrs. Frederick A. Tilton entertained at dinner last evening before the first of the dinner dances of the Friday Evening Dancing Class. Their guests were the First Assistant Postmaster General and Mrs. Arch Coleman, Col. and Mrs. Frederick W. Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Carter and Mr. and Mrs. John McClure.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Bull will have with them for the Christmas holidays their two sons, Mr. James T. Bull and Midshipman William Bull. Mr. and Mrs. Bull make their home at 2017 Belmont road.

The Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur will have as their guest during the holidays their son, Mr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, jr., sophomore at Stanford University, who already has left the West Coast en route to Washington. While their son is with them the Secretary and Mrs. Wilbur will visit in Virginia and also, with their son, will make a trip to New York. They will spend Christmas Day in Washington.

Miss Frances Ruth Gillette, daughter of Mrs. C. C. Saunders, and Lieut. George H. Lyttle, U. S. N., were married at noon yesterday at the home of the bride.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. Laurence, of St. Paul's Catholic Church, and was small, being attended by only relatives and close friends of the bride and bridegroom.

The bride was married in her traveling costume of brown trimmed in moleskin, and her bouquet was orchids and lilies of the valley.

Lieut. Harry Butler was best man and Miss Katherine Tydings attended the bride as maid of honor.

After a wedding breakfast Lieut. and Mrs. Lyttle left for New York and after January 1 will be at home at 1707 Corcoran street.

Senator and Mrs. James J. Davis are the guests in whose honor Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Davies will give a dinner tonight. Among the guests will be Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McInerney, who have come from New York. Mr. and Mrs. Davies' son-in-law, Mr. Thomas Cheesborough, jr., will come for the holidays to join Mrs. Cheesborough, a guest of her parents.

Miss Carolyn Hyde, daughter of the Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Arthur M. Hyde, will arrive in Washington this morning from the University of Michigan, to spend the holidays with her parents in their apartment at the Mayflower.

Miss Hyde will be the guest of honor at a large tea dance to be given by Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose next Saturday at the Mayflower. Miss Hyde is not making her debut this season, but will join in the debutante activities during the holiday season.

The League for the Larger Life will play Santa Claus to a group of homeless orphans tonight at 8 o'clock, at its headquarters, 1336 I street northwest. There will be a program of music, songs and readings, after which a Christmas tree will give forth gifts, fruit and nuts to all. Dancing will follow the exercises.

Mrs. Ernest H. Daniel, first vice president of the Political Study Club, will preside at the meeting of the club this afternoon at the Washington Club when Senator William H. King, of Utah, will be the speaker. His subject will be "Immigration and Its Problems." Willa Semple, a piano graduate of the Boston Conservatory of Music, will play several interesting numbers. Mrs. William H. King will be the guest of honor.

Mrs. M. W. Winter, a member of the program committee, will present the speaker and assist in receiving the guests at the social hour following the meeting. Mrs. Harold A. Dodge and Mrs. Robert C. Musser will preside at the tea table.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

A new tunic has entered the mode in smartly youthful pleated treatment.

It's just as snappy as can be.

The neckline is particularly becoming rolled in a scarf-like collar.

Paris used wool jersey for the original model in black with white faille crepe collar.

Black canton crepe is very smart with white crepe collar.

Other interesting fabrics that adapt themselves perfectly to this model are plain and patterned wool crepe, marocain crepe and supple tweeds.

Style No. 934 may be had in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38 and 40-inches bust. The 16-year size requires three yards of 39-inch material with ⅝-yard of 39-inch contrasting and one yard of 27-inch lining.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

Utilizing Old Carpets and Rugs.

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

It is often a question of making the best of materials at hand when providing floor coverings for the home. One way of doing this is to have new rugs woven from old woolen carpets and rugs too shabby to be used as such. The old material is cut in strips about three-fourths inch wide, which when sewed together and twisted into a cord looks somewhat like chenille and form the filling of the new rug. Cotton string is used for the warp. These rugs are heavy and soft and alike on both sides and durable provided they are cleaned carefully. They are generally rather neutral in color and without a definite design; borders, however, may be woven from strips of carpet of solid color or figured carpet may be dyed for this purpose. In general about 6½ pounds of old carpet is required to make a square yard of the rewoven fabric, depending, of course, on the weight of the old material.

Worn Brussels, Wilton or velvet carpet turned face down is sometimes used to cover an unfinished floor. The old carpet should be thoroughly cleaned before it is tacked down and may be painted or varnished.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNS LYNE.

His Friends.

Parents are perhaps never more tactless and unimaginative than in their comments about their children's friends.

The 8-year-old's new friend is loudly criticized at the family dinner table. His manners, his looks and his origin are discussed without reservation.

The 12-year-old girl is asked by her mother why it is that she no longer sees some friend to whom she was devoted only a month ago. She is prodded into telling something concerning which it is unfair to expect her to be articulate.

Children make new friends and cast aside old ones for reasons which the average parent does not understand and concerning which the child himself has probably no thoughts at all.

While the child is small his friendships are largely determined by propinquity and similar age levels. As he grows older he is likely to choose his friends for their individual qualities.

At various stages of his growth he is naturally attracted by very different types of children.

It is not sensible to expect of children's friendships anything like an enduring personal loyalty which goes beyond the bounds of the immediate present. Nor is it right to subject these friends to the criterion of family taste.

Fleeting as the attachments of children may be, they should command a certain respect from parents and brothers and sisters. A child should never hear his friends subjected to ridicule in the family circle.

Parents should treat their children's friends with the same courtesy which they expect of their children toward their own associates.

What Today Means to You

"SAGITTARIUS."

IF December 20 is your birthday, the most productive periods are from 10 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., and from 2 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. The unfavorable period is from 6 p. m. to 8 p. m.

The astrological signs indicate that December 20 will be productive of changes, both spiritual and material. Change of environment is also denoted. It is a propitious occasion for travel.

Children born on this December 20 will be light-hearted and volatile. As the years develop their characters, they will become unselfish and sympathetic, governed more by their emotions than by reasoning. In love they will be constant and true.

You are brilliant, without being spectacular; quick, without being impulsive; intuitive, without an obsession for hunches, and intellectual, without being a bore. The stars denote that you will travel much, and experience will prove that, gifted as you are with keen powers of observation, your wanderings will have taught you more than books. You possess the fortunate faculty of making friends wherever you may go, and, in every sense of the word, you are a good mixer, an excellent raconteur and a convivial spirit.

Your head and heart are almost in perfect sympathy, and your nature is evenly balanced. You are capable of a great and an enduring love, and if the fates ordain that your mate is one on whom you can rely, then the longings of your heart will be completely satisfied. If, too, you seize the opportunities which will come to you, material success will be achieved and the ambitions of your head fulfilled.

There is generally a fly in the ointment, and your fly is procrastination. You postpone until "manana" what should be done today. You, surrounded by convivial friends, are prone to overlook the necessity of action, and lingering over the fleshpots has often caused a "setback" in your plans. This defect—a very serious one—can be easily remedied by the exercise of will power, of which you have an abundance. You have it within you to make of your life what you will.

Successful people born December 20:

John D. Godman, physician and naturalist.

Calvert Vaux, landscape architect.

Cyrus Townsend Brady, author.

Thomas H. Hubbard, general and lawyer.

Hollywood Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY.

Hollywood.—The popularity of the simple, but lively, movie cartoon character, Mickey Mouse, is surprising even to his creator, Walt Disney.

Two years ago Mickey was just an idea, eventually an experiment; today his once-a-month adventures are shown in nearly every country in the world.

The reason is that his appeal is not limited; persons of every age and nationality understand pantomime, a feature most motion pictures lost when talkies came along.

Mickey talks but not often enough to slow up the action or to make unclear to audiences who do not understand English what he is doing.

The music that accompanies his ventures is suitable everywhere, as are the necessary squeaks, grunts and "plops."

Liked in England.

In England the mouse's rating is high. Theaters there sometimes put his name in bigger letters than they do some of Hollywood's human stars.

Manufacturing Mickey is a complicated and tedious process. Six thousand pictures are necessary to make one reel. Each is drawn separately—in fact, each picture is drawn twice, once on paper and once on transparent celluloid.

Forty-five artists spend two weeks out of every four on the Mickey series; the other two are given to "Silly Symphonies," also created by Disney.

Several hundred thousand pictures of the odd little characters have been drawn by hand in the last two years.

Each cartoonist averages about 50 pictures a day, depending on the number of characters and the complications of the action. In each succeeding picture the position changes, but the change is slight—it takes from ten to fifteen pictures to make Mickey open his mouth.

When the drawings are completed they are photographed by a specially constructed camera.

They're Censored, Too.

Mickey's picture, like those of other stars, have run afoul of the censors.

Germany objected to a scene showing an army of invading rats wearing helmets, so it was cut out. Oddly, the helmets were copied after the visored caps worn in the Civil War.

Canadian censors eliminated a sequence in which a playful fish slapped a mermaid, and in Ohio there was official protest because a cow was shown reading "Three Weeks."

Early Christmas Customs and Games

A carefully and most entertainingly written history of the development of the many quaint customs surrounding the observance of Christmas, some of which have been handed down to the present day and generation.

Ambassadors Send Greetings

A personal message of greeting from the various ambassadors and ministers to their fellow countrymen in the United States, each in the native tongue and signed with a reproduction of the signature of each plenipotentiary. So far as is known this is the first time that such a feature has been produced by any newspaper.

Playing Santa to the Whole World

Nearly a quarter of a million persons have been given temporary employment by the Postoffice Department to take care of the holiday mail which goes to all corners of the globe. An entertaining story of a service we have come to accept, in all its proficiency, as a matter of course.

The First Presidential Convention

A hitherto unwritten chapter in American politics which discloses one of the strangest paradoxes in our history and brings to light an astute politician who predicted all the elements of his strength and weakness with startling accuracy.

Captain, Oh, My Captain, Where Are You?

When leaders are lacking Congress listens for the faintest whisper from the "folks back home" to indicate what courses the members shall take. The old custom of molding public opinion has given way to a policy of "follow my leader," if one can be found.

10 WOMEN WINNERS IN RECIPE CONTEST

969 Send In Answers. Many of Which Come to Post in Novel Forms.

THIRD LIST IS OFFERED

Exactly ten women out of a total of 969 who tried out their domestic knowledge in unscrambling the recipes published in The Washington Post on Saturday, December 6, sent in correct answers and therefore are entitled to their share of the prize money offered by this paper in the first week of the contest.

The names of the winners of the prizes are as follows:

Division No. 1—First prize, $10; Mrs. Reginald Martin, 324 Twenty-second street northwest.

Division No. 2—First prize, $10: Miss J. Plato, 614 Park road. Second prize, $5: Miss Violet M. Harris, 635 Fairmont street northwest. Third prize, $2: Mrs. C. C. Griggs, 1707 Columbia road. Fourth prize, $1: Mrs. L. E. Payne, 141 Randolph place.

Division No. 3—There were no successful contestants in this division.

Division No. 4—First prize, $10: Mrs. Bessie S. Clark, 914 Girard street.

Division No. 5—First prize, $10: Jean B. Nichol, Rockville, Md. Second prize, $5: Mrs. E. J. Skidmore, 200 Warren avenue, Aurora Hills, Alexandria, Va. Third prize, $2: Mrs. E. G. Buck, "Belleview Farm," Rockville, Md. Fourth prize, $1; Mr. Frank Copenhaver, Marion, Va.

Checks Will be Mailed.

Congratulations to these prize winners. The checks for their prizes will be mailed to them within a short time.

Absolute accuracy, neatness and ingenuity all were considered in the awarding of these prizes. The Washington Post is greatly pleased at the novel ways some of the winners used to reach the goal. Extreme care was taken in all cases in the preparation of the answers and in at least one case, the sender waxed poetic as follows:

Chopped cold potatoes and also roast beef
Gravy and butter (the recipe is brief)
I hope that my judgment is not considered rash
The royal dish, it's just "delish," Roast beef hash!

Cheese, fat, eggs and flour
A cup of milk—but sweet, not sour;
Salt, pepper make taste okay
And there you have a cheese "souffay."

Oh, I could write a ballad
About this French fruit salad—
Orange, banana, grapes and nuts
Lettuce, dressing—no "ifs" or "buts"—
Clipped from the paper that we like most
"First thing in the morning," The Washington Post!

Proportions are Important.

In passing, it is well to remind the contestants that the proportions of the ingredients have a great deal to do with being absolutely accurate in unscrambling the recipes. Also, that the task is not so easy as it seems. Do not do it too hastily. Sit down and think about it. Some of the women sending entries misplaced one ingredient, some another, but in the end, the result was the same—their entry was wrong.

And be sure to sign your entries with your full name and address. Several promising prospects for prizes could not be considered because the senders in their enthusiasm had forgotten to sign them. A surprising number of entries were illegible because the writers had been in a hurry, others were so slovenly in appearance that they could not compete in any sense of the word with the hundreds of neat entries.

The third list of unscrambled recipes is offered today. Take your time in working out your solution and send it in before next Thursday at 6 p. m. when this contest will close. Remember there is $100 to be divided in five divisions, one first prize of $10, a second prize of $5, a third prize of $2 and five $1 prizes.

High in Social Life.

It was interesting to note that among the contestants in the first contest were women whose names were high in official and social ranks of the Capital. Their work came in side by side with the solutions of women whose activities are chiefly confined to the care of their own households. The same careful attention was given to all the contestants and their entries were checked and double-checked, as it were, to be sure that every possible chance for winning had been given to each contestant.

Again the warning is given that it is not necessary to split up any of the ingredients. Each ingredient goes

GOVERNMENT TELLS HOW TO COOK EGGS

USED IN MANY DISHES

It would be difficult to conceive an article of food that could be used in a greater number of dishes than those that are graced by eggs. Whether alone or with ham or bacon or in omelettes, souffles, or croquettes, eggs may appear in the main dish of any meal. Many quick breads, cakes, salad dressings, sauces, desserts and beverages not only taste better and look more attractive when made with a liberal proportion of eggs, but they are also higher in food value. In whatever way they are served, eggs are a good source of efficient protein and some of the minerals and vitamins needed for building the body and keeping it healthy.

A leaflet prepared by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics gives facts about eggs of value to the housewife and explains the classification of eggs according to their quality and in conformation with the U. S. standard retail grades for eggs as established by the Department of Agriculture. Among other interesting material is contained the following paragraphs:

Cook Slowly Advised.

"The secret of success in cooking eggs and dishes in which eggs predominate, is to cook slowly at moderate, even heat."

"For soft-boiled eggs or for hard-cooked eggs with tender whites, start the eggs in cold water to cover, supported on a rack. Heat the water gradually to simmering, but do not let it boil. Boiling temperature toughens white of egg. For soft-cooked eggs, remove from the fire when the water simmers, cover the pan and let stand for a few minutes. The length of time required can be found by experience. For hard-cooked eggs, continue cooking over a slow fire for 30 minutes after the water simmers, and keep it below boiling."

"To poach eggs, break them into boiling salted water to cover in a shallow pan and immediately remove from the fire. Cover and let stand for about five minutes. Remove the eggs carefully with a perforated spoon."

How to Fry Eggs.

"To fry eggs, break them into a moderately hot pan containing bacon or other fat and cook over a slow fire. If the eggs are to be cooked on top, dip up the hot fat with a spoon and pour it over the yolks until a coating is formed. Or, if preferred turn the eggs carefully and cook them on both sides."

"For shirred or baked eggs, break them into a shallow buttered baking dish or ramekin, dot with butter and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Place the dish in a pan of water and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until the whites of the egg are set."

Shortening for Cake Outlined in Recipe

If you want one-half cup of shortening for a cake or for bread or biscuits or pie crust, fill a measuring cup half full of water and then take out chunks of shortening, scrape off into the cup until the water comes to the top. Then pour the water off and you have an accurate half cup without any packing down, leveling off, or any kind of trouble or risk of inaccuracy.

For three-quarters of a cup, put one-fourth cup of water in. For one-third, put two-thirds of water in, etc.

One great advantage is that a knife can be used, which is easily cleaned by scraping on the side of the can in which the shortening is kept, and you never have to touch the shortening with the fingers as you do when measuring with a spoon to get it all out.

Reindeer Meat More Popular

Large Quantities Are Exported to United States Yearly.

At Christmas time, when Santa Claus' historic reindeer are engaged in conveying presents abroad for good boys and girls, it may be a trifle ungrateful to talk about the growing use of reindeer meat as food. But it is true that this meat, new to all except Arctic adventurers, is becoming more and more popular throughout the United States.

Through the Biographical Survey, of the Department of Agriculture, the economists of the Bureau of Home Economics, of the same department, became interested in it in 1920, and since then studies have been made of various phases of range and herd management, time and method of slaughtering, cold-storage practices in Alaska and shipment of carcasses.

These herds now furnish not only a large proportion of Alaska's meat supply, but also increasing quantities for export. Marketed first in the Northwest, then on transcontinental trains and in metropolitan hotels, now, under improved refrigeration facilities and methods of handling, reindeer meat is being more generally distributed, and housewives are asking for information as to its use. In order to advise them intelligently, studies on the best methods of preparation have been undertaken by the Bureau of Home Economics.

CHEESE ESTEEMED AS NUTRITIOUS FOOD

Dish Is Rich in Calcium Needed in Bone Growth and Development.

USED IN MANY FORMS

One of the most nutritious foods on the market is cheese. Although we generally buy American cheese, made in Wisconsin or New York State, we also enjoy cheese flavors that have originated in foreign countries. From Holland comes a hard, rosy-colored ball called Edam cheese. Camembert and Brie are from France. Italy sends Parmesean cheese which is one big reason for going to an Italian restaurant for spaghetti.

Cheese, like milk or the yolk of egg, is rich in the mineral calcium, so important in bone growth and development. A well-known baby specialist, Dr. McKim Marriott, in stressing the importance of a sufficient intake of milk for the expectant mother, explains "the milk may be cooked in foods, added to beverages, such as cocoa, &c., or ice cream. It makes little difference what form of milk is used. Dried milk or evaporated milk are as good sources of calcium as is fresh milk. Evaporated milk is of especial value as it lends itself to the preparation of many dishes and by its use a relatively large intake of milk is assured."

Since most of the calcium of milk is contained in the curd, cheese is rich in this element.

Aside from the domestic and foreign brands of cheese on the market there is another kind, which we can make in our own kitchen—cottage cheese. As a salad base it combines deliciously with sweet cooked apricots, or a slice of pineapple, or slices of orange topped off with a rich French dressing.

Properly seasoned with salt and pepper, and finely chopped chives, cottage cheese can be the main dish for supper, or a large-sized appetizer on a dinner menu.

If you have ever experimented with cheese rarebit you have noticed that milk combined with some cheese causes it to go thin and curdle. Evaporated milk will not do this. It will

HONEY DELICIOUS FOR TABLE USES

Can Be Served in Diet as Substitute for Sugar, Producing Energy.

IS MUCH LIKED AS FOOD

The proverbial land "flowing with milk and honey" is coming true in the United States with the increasing use of honey, not only as a sweet, but as a definite food stuff. More and more it is replacing sugar in some form of cooking and candy making. Due to the fact that certain aromas or flavors can be obtained by placing the proper types of flowers near the bees, it can be used in the most delicate of food.

Experts of the Department of Agriculture, speaking recently of honey as food, said:

"Honey is a sweet, as old as the race, and always held in esteem. The flavor and aroma vary with the predominating kind of flower which the bees visit, and one can take advantage of this when selecting honey for the table, either to get a favorite flavor, or to get variety by choosing different flavors.

"Besides its use for table purposes, honey is much used in cooking to replace all or part of the sugar called for by a recip A general rule in such cases is to use a cup of honey in place of a cup of sugar, and to cut down the water or other liquid by one-fourth cup for each cup of honey used, to make up for the water in the honey.

"The purpose which honey serves in the diet is like that of sugar—it is a source of energy in readily available form, and a flavor food which has many uses by itself, and which adds to the palatability of other foods."

Some novel uses for honey are to be found in the following recipes:

Honey and Nut Sandwiches.

Mix chopped pecan meats, almonds, or other nuts with just enough honey to act as a binder, and use as filling for sandwiches.

Honey and Cream Cheese Sandwiches.

Mix honey with cream cheese and use as filling for bread or baking-powder biscuit sandwiches. Chopped nut may be added to the honey and cheese if desired.

Honey Fruit Cake.

4 cups flour.
3 teaspoons soda.
2 cups honey.
1 cup butter.
6 eggs.
2 teaspoons cinnamon.
2 teaspoons ginger.
3 teaspoons ground cardamon seed.
½ teaspoon cloves.
3 pounds raisins (seeded).
4 ounces citron.
1 pound cranberries.
1 pound canned pineapple.
1 pound dried apricots.
1 pound dried apples.

To prepare the cranberries, pineapples, apricots and apples, cook each in honey till it is soft; remove from the honey and dry in a very slow oven. A little water should be added to the honey in which the cranberries are cooked, a good proportion of ingredients being equal weights of cranberries, water, and honey. To any honey left over from cooking the fruits, add enough honey to make up the total amount called for by the recipe. Mix and cook the cake in the same manner as honey fruit cake No. 1.

Honey Filling for Nougat Wafers.

1 cup sugar.
½ cup honey.
¼ cup water.
2 egg whites.

Boil the sugar, water and honey together until the sirup makes a thread when dropped from a spoon, or until drops of it hold their shape when poured into cold water. Beat the eggs to a stiff froth, pour the sirup over them, put the dish holding the mixture in a place where it will keep warm, but not cook rapidly, beat until it will hold its shape.

Broomstick Pudding May Have Foamy Sauce

Mix together one-half cup suet, one-half cup molasses and one-half cup sour milk. Add one beaten egg and three-fourths cup bread crumbs. Add three-fourths cup whole wheat flour, two teaspoons baking soda, one-half teaspoon soda and one-fourth teaspoon salt, sifted together, the grated rind of one orange, one cup of chopped figs and one-half cup chopped vacuum packed nuts.

Pour into a greased pudding mold, cover and steam three hours. Serve with foamy sauce or with hard sauce. This recipe serves ten to twelve, but watch the pudding disappear!

Tomatoes Are Used In Unusual Rarebit

½ lb. yellow cheese.
1½ cups tomato soup.
2 tablespoons butter.
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon Worcestershire.
2 eggs.

Cut yellow cheese into small pieces or, if soft enough, press through a strainer, and combine with tomato soup. Place over hot water and stir frequently until cheese is melted. Add butter, salt, pepper and Worcestershire. Beat eggs slightly and add to cheese mixture, stirring constantly. Cook slowly, over water, until thickened. Serve on crisp crackers.

Chicken-Mushroom Waffles Irresistible

3 tablespoons butter.
½ lb. fresh mushrooms or
1½ cups canned mushrooms.
3 tablespoons flour.
1½ cups chicken soup with rice.
1½ cups milk or water.
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento.
Few grains pepper.

Melt butter, add mushroom caps peeled and sliced and cook slowly for 10 minutes. Add flour and stir to blend thoroughly. Add chicken soup, diluted with milk or water gradually; bring to boil and stir until mixture thickens slightly. Add pimiento, and pepper to taste. Pour over freshly cooked waffles (or toast); garnish with parsley and a bit of currant jelly and serve at once.

How much do you know about cookery?

$100.00 today in Cash Prizes for the best solutions to "Scrambled Recipes"

HOUSEWIVES! Do you like to try out new recipes and new ways of preparing foods?

Today The Washington Post offers another opportunity to test your knowledge of the cooking art. To stimulate interest in this important branch of home science, The Post presents another of its brand new cooking problems—"Scrambled Recipes." You'll find it highly interesting, instructive—and there's $100.00 in cash prizes for successful contestants!

FOLLOW THESE SIMPLE DIRECTIONS:

Elsewhere on this page is a list of 18 ingredients to be used in preparing these well-known dishes. All the proportions and quantities are correct as given. You are invited to group the ingredients into their proper recipes, and try for the $100 in cash prizes which The Post will pay. NOTE: It is NOT necessary to split up any of the ingredients. Each ingredient goes into one recipe only. If any ingredient is needed in two recipes, for instance, it will be found listed twice.

This offer is open to women and girls, wives and mothers, everywhere—except employes of The Washington Post and their families. Professional women who earn their living, in whole or in part, as teachers of domestic science or cookery, and dietitians are NOT eligible to receive awards.

You may submit your solution on the handy recipe blank provided here, or you may copy the recipe on a separate sheet of paper.

Awards will be made to the persons who send in the neatest and nearest correctly grouped sets of recipes in accordance with these rules. Neatness will count. Ingenuity of presenting solutions will count. In case of ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

To assure the widest distribution of the prize money, the Washington area has been divided into five main divisions. Six prizes will be awarded to successful contestants living in each division. First prize, $10; second prize, $5; third prize, $2; next three prizes $1 each. Total for each division: $20. Total for the five divisions: $100. DIVISION No. 1 has been designated as the section of Northwest and Southwest Washington bounded on the south by the Potomac River, on the north by Florida Ave., on the west by Rock Creek Park and on the east by North Capitol St. DIVISION No. 2: That section of Northwest Washington bounded on the south by Florida Ave., on the north by the District line, on the east by North Capitol St., and on the west by Rock Creek Park. DIVISION No. 3: That section of Northwest Washington bounded on the east by Rock Creek Park, and on the north, south and east by the District line. DIVISION No. 4: All that section of Southeast and Northeast Washington bounded on the west by North Capitol St., and on the north, south and east by the District line. DIVISION No. 5: All territory outside of the District of Columbia.

You need NOT indicate the division in which you live. The Post will classify all entries according to the street and number of the city or suburb in which the contestant lives, as given on the entry blank.

Entries should be mailed to "Scrambled Recipes," No. 3, The Washington Post, Washington, D. C. All entries for today's problem must be received at the office of The Post not later than 6 p. m. on Friday, December 26, 1930.

All decisions of the judges appointed by The Washington Post will be final. The Washington Post can not undertake to return any entries or to engage in correspondence on this subject.

You need not purchase The Washington Post to compete. Copies of The Washington Post may be examined at the office of The Post or at public libraries free of charge.

The names of the prize winners of today's problem will be announced in The Washington Post, Wednesday, December 31.

BEEF IS PREPARED IN VARIOUS WAYS

Recipes Given How to Cook Pot Roast, Rib Roast and Swiss Steak.

AND YORKSHIRE PUDDING

The search of the Washington housewife for tender but inexpensive cuts of beef has been greatly aided by the recent publication of a pamphlet by the Bureau of Home Economics and Animal Industry at the Department of Agriculture.

This bulletin, which was prepared by Lucy M. Alexander and Fanny Walker Yeatman, of the Agriculture Department, first lists the tender cuts of beef as follows:

Tender Cuts.

Steaks—Sirloin, porterhouse, tenderloin, club, rib (short cut).

Roasts—Rib, loin.

Less Tender Cuts.

Steaks — Chuck, shoulder, flank, round, rump.

Roasts—Chuck ribs, cross arm, clod, round, rump.

Stews—Neck, plate and brisket, flank, shank, heel or round.

For tender cuts the best method of cooking is to sear the meat at a high temperature for a short time until a brown coating is formed, then to reduce the temperature and finish the cooking at moderate heat. Do not cover the meat and do not add water. Meat cooked in this way loses little of the delicious flavor developed by browning, and the drippings can be poured over the meat or made into tasty gravy.

Tender cuts are cooked until rare, medium, or well done, according to personal preference. A meat thermometer kept in the center of the roast during cooking removes the guesswork and makes it possible to get the exact stage desired. Beef is rare, according to the meat thermometer, between the temperatures of 130 and 150 degrees Fahrenheit, medium between 150 and 170 degrees Fahrenheit, and well done at about 180 degrees Fahrenheit.

The less tender and less expensive cuts of beef can be made into attractive and delicious dishes when they are cooked properly. The general method of cooking less tender cuts differs from the method for tender cuts in the steps which must be taken to make tough meat tender. Heat, moisture and slow cooking help to accomplish the desired result. First, sear the meat in a small quantity of fat until it is browned. After browning, reduce the cooking temperature, add a small quantity of water and cover the meat tightly. Cook slowly until tender. The added water extracts some flavor from the meat during cooking and makes good gravy. Tomatoes may be used in place of water to add flavor. Meat from the less tender cuts is also excellent when ground and used in various ways.

Pot Roast of Beef.

Cuts of beef suitable for pot roasting are chuck ribs, cross arm, clod, round and rump. Select a piece from four to six pounds in weight. Wipe with a damp cloth. Rub the meat with salt, pepper and flour. Brown the meat on all sides in a heavy kettle, using about three tablespoons of beef fat. Slip a low rack under the meat, add one-half cup of water, cover tightly and simmer until tender. The time required for cooking can not be definitely stated, but it will probably be about three hours. Turn the roast occasionally. When the meat is done, remove from the kettle, skim off the excess fat from the liquid and measure the remainder. For each cup of gravy desired, measure two tablespoons of fat and return to the kettle, add one and one-half to two tablespoons of flour and stir until well blended and slightly browned. Then add one cup of the meat stock or of cold water and stir until smooth. Season the gravy with salt, pepper and chopped parsley. Serve the pot roast on a hot platter with buttered carrots and stuffed onions.

If desired, any of the following vegetables may be cooked in the pot with the roast: Carrots, celery, onions, potatoes, tomatoes and turnips. Add the vegetables during the last hour of cooking the meat if they are to be served whole or in quarters. If preferred, they may be cooked longer and mashed and served as puree in the gravy.

Swiss Steak.

3 pounds lean beef about 2½ inches thick.
3 tablespoons melted suet
½ cup flour
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2½ cups hot tomato juice and pulp or hot water

Sift the flour, salt, and pepper together and beat thoroughly into the steak with a meat pounder. The beating makes the meat more tender, and the flour absorbs the juice. Cut the steak into individual portions, if desired.

Rib Roast of Beef.

Select a two or three rib standing roast. Wipe it off with a damp cloth, rub with salt, pepper and flour. Place the roast fat side up in an open pan without water. As the fat melts and cooks out it will baste the meat. Make a small incision through the fat covering and insert a meat thermometer so that the bulb reaches the center of the roast. Place the meat in a hot oven (500 degrees Fahrenheit). Sear the meat for 20 to 30 minutes until lightly browned, then reduce the oven temperature to about 300 degrees Fahrenheit and continue the cooking until the thermometer in the meat reads about 140 degrees Fahrenheit for a rare roast, 160 degrees Fahrenheit for a medium roast, or 180 degrees Fahrenheit for a well-done roast. A rib roast will probably require 16 minutes to the pound to be rare, 22 minutes to the pound to be medium, and about 30 minutes to the pound to be well done. Higher oven temperature than 300 degrees Fahrenheit will shorten the time of cooking, but it will increase the shrinkage of the roast, and both meat and drippings may become too brown. Reducing the oven temperature to 250 degrees Fahrenheit will decrease the shrinkage markedly and will cook the meat uniformly, but longer time will be required.

Serve the roast on a hot platter, surrounded by browned potatoes or by squares of Yorkshire pudding.

Yorkshire Pudding.

Beat together thoroughly until smooth 1 cup milk, 2 eggs, ½ cup flour and ½ teaspoon salt. Pour the batter into the hot roasting pan containing about ¼ cup of the beef drippings. Bake for 15 to 20 minutes in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees Fahrenheit). Cut in squares and serve at once with the roast.

10 WOMEN WINNERS IN RECIPE CONTEST

into one recipe only. If any ingredient is needed in two recipes, for instance, it will be found listed twice. Children are not permitted to enter in this contest and employes of The Washington Post and their families, professional women who earn their living, in whole or in part, as teachers of domestic science or cookery, and dietitians are not eligible to receive awards.

The correct solution of the scrambled recipes published on December 6 was as follows:

Recipe for roast beef hash—2 cups chopped roast beef, 4 cups chopped boiled potatoes, 1 cup beef gravy, 4 tablespoons butter.

Recipe for cheese souffle—1 cup cheese, 3 eggs, 1 cup milk, 3 tablespoons flour, 3 tablespoons fat, ½ teaspoon salt, pepper.

Recipe for French fruit salad—1 orange, 1 banana, ½ pound Malaga grapes, 1 dozen walnuts, lettuce, French dressing.

The prize winners for the scrambled recipes printed in The Washington Post on Saturday, December 13, will be published in The Post next Saturday, December 27.

Lest any contestant may feel faint hearted it is said that the first recipes printed in a Western newspaper brought in 23,000 answers, but 7 of them were right. So the percentage of readers of The Washington Post is running much higher. Read the rules carefully on the contest page today and consider the requirements before any entry is sent in.

WASH DAY IS MADE EASY BY MACHINES

Soap Powders Aid Methods of Cleaning Clothes Quickly and Well.

GOVERNMENT TELLS HOW

The horrors of blue Monday or wash day have disappeared under the magic of modern laundering methods either in the home through the various soap powders and other efficient means of cleaning clothes quickly and well, or in the use of the many laundries of the city.

The Bureau of Home Economics of the Department of Agriculture has made a thorough study of the laundry problem especially as to methods and equipment for home laundering and the results of this study have been made public in a booklet prepared by its division of textiles and clothing.

Washtubs, says the report, should be durable and strong. Of the portable washtubs, the galvanized iron is the most common type on the market. They are fairly light, durable, and easy to keep clean, and are an improvement over the old-fashioned wooden kind. Fiber tubs are also satisfactory and weigh less than the galvanized iron. Hot and cold water can be piped to a portable tub as well as to a more expensive stationary one. A flexible rubber hose can be used as a siphon to empty such tubs, and will save much heavy lifting. To make such a siphon fill a short length of the hose with water, close the ends and invert it, placing one end under the surface of the water and the other at a lower level. Open without removing the shorter end from under the surface of the water.

Metals Used on Tubs.

Galvanized iron, soapstone, and a composition resembling it, as well as so-called porcelain and enameled cast iron are all used for set tubs. Enameled iron and porcelain, though more expensive than the others, have the advantages of being easier to clean and of being light in color, so that the soiled parts of the clothes can be seen quickly. Cement or similar composition is objectionable, as the surface is not so smooth and is easily damaged. Hinged covers keep out the dirt, and if properly finished make good working surfaces. It is better to provide two tubs, although only one is essential if there is a washing machine.

Washing machines save time and labor and are almost indispensible if large washings are to be done at home. In general, clothes last longer if washed in a good machine than if rubbed on a washboard. Although there are over 100 makes of washing machines, the various designs can be classified into five types, most of which can be operated by hand, water power, gasoline engine or electricity. All of the most recent rely for their efficiency upon forcing the soapy water through the clothes by agitating the clothes and the water and thus displacing the dirt. They differ, within their type, only in detail of construction.

A good laundry soap should be free from excessive water and uncombined fat, should have a minimum of uncombined alkali, and should not contain an excess of rosin, salt or insoluble material.

Selection of Soaps.

The kind of fabrics to be washed should be considered in selecting the soap. The best soap should be chosen for use on silks and woolens, since they are the most sensitive to alkalis. A mild soap should also be used on cotton materials that show a tendency to fade, and on all delicate fabrics. On the other hand, it is uneconomical to use an expensive soap on ordinary cotton fabrics where a medium priced soap would be satisfactory, or on very heavy, dirty materials, which would be cleansed easier with a stronger soap. Many women ignore this and are either wasteful of good soaps or spoil their more delicate garments with poor ones.

HOLIDAY STUFFING DEMANDS OYSTERS

Also Welcome When Served on Half Shell, Creamed and Fried.

SCALLOPED WITH RICE

December is decidedly a month with an "R" and oysters are in season in every sense of the word. Especially at Christmas are they desirable either as stuffing for the big roast turkey or on the half-shell or served in other delectable ways.

Washington has a great advantage in the matters with the bivalvular treasures of Norfolk and Chesapeake Bay waters. No one has ever really enjoyed oysters who has not gone to the wharf and eaten them literally from the shell as a jolly oyster shucker deftly opened them with his sharp knife.

Oysters on Half Shell.

For serving on the half shell, it is better to buy oysters in their shells and shuck them at home. Scrub the shells thoroughly. Then shuck them—that is, pry them open with an oyster knife or other heavy steel blade. Take off the top shell and discard it. Slip the knife under the oyster and cut loose the round muscle that holds it to the shell. Place the oyster on the half shell on plates full of cracked ice. Arrange the shells so that they radiate from the center and allow five or six oysters to each person. Place a quarter of a lemon in the center of each plate.

Oysters on the half shell may be seasoned with salt and pepper, tomato catsup, a little tobasco, Worcestershire sauce and grated horseradish.

Creamed Oysters.

1 quart oysters.
2½ cups milk and oyster liquor.
⅓ cup butter.
½ cup flour.
1 teaspoon salt.
⅛ teaspoon pepper.
¼ teaspoon onion juice, if desired.

Cook the oysters in their liquor until the edges begin to curl. Do not let them cook too long or they will be tough. Strain off the liquor. To this liquor add enough milk to make 2½ cups. Melt the butter and add the flour, stirring until blended. Add the liquor. Cook for five or ten minutes to do away with the starchy flavor of the flour. Add the oysters and seasoning and serve at once in patty shells or on toast. If creamed oysters stand, the sauce becomes too thin.

Fried Oysters.

Select large oysters for single frys. Drain the oysters and look them over carefully for small pieces of shell. Have finely sifted stale bread crumbs seasoned with salt and, lightly, with pepper. Dip the oysters in a well-beaten egg to which 1 tablespoon of cold water has been added and roll them in the seasoned crumbs. Place the oysters on a pan or board and allow them to stand until the egg and bread coating has hardened.

Heat in an iron kettle any desired fat until hot enough to brown a bread crumb in 40 seconds. Then carefully place the oysters in a wire basket, lower them into the fat slowly, and cook until golden brown. As the oysters are removed put them on paper to absorb the excess fat and keep them warm until all are prepared.

Scalloped With Rice.

3 cups cooked rice.
1 pint fresh oysters.
1 cup chopped celery.
2 tablespoons butter.
1 cup milk.
2 tablespoons flour.
½ teaspoon salt.
⅛ teaspoon pepper.

Place alternate layers of rice, oysters and celery in a baking dish. Pour over them a smooth, white sauce made by melting the butter, and blending with the flour, the salt and the pepper, and adding the milk. Bake for 20 minutes.

combine smoothly with any cheese you may wish to use in a rarebit.

Menu.

Cold Cuts
Corn Pudding
Cheese Biscuit Plum Butter
Pickled Peaches
Maple Tarts

Corn Pudding.

1 pt. canned or fresh corn.
2 eggs, beaten slightly.
1½ teaspoons salt.
1 teaspoon sugar.
Few drops onion juice.
¾ cup evaporated milk.
¾ cup boiling water.
2 tablespoons melted butter.
Dash paprika.

Combine ingredients in order given. Pour into buttered molds, set in a pan half filled with hot water and bake until firm in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.). ½ chopped green pepper, ½ chopped pimento or ½ cup grated cheese may be added for variation. Yield: 6 servings.

Cheese Biscuits.

3 cups flour.
4½ taspoons baking powder.
1½ teaspoons salt.
¼ cup fat.
¼ cup grated cheese.
1-3 cup evaporated milk.
2-3 cup water.

Sift flour, then measure. Resift with other dry ingredients into mixing bowl. Rub fat and cheese into flour with fingers until appearance is like coarse corn meal. Add milk, diluted with the water, and mix quickly with a fork. Stir until flour disappears then four or five times to smooth and slightly stiffen the dough. Turn onto a thoroughly floured board. Pat out or roll to ½-inch thickness. Cut and place on oiled tins. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) about 12 minutes. Yield: 24 biscuits.

Maple Tarts.

Filling:
1 egg.
1 cup maple syrup.
2 teaspoons evaporated milk.
1 tablespoon flour.

Beat egg. Add syrup slowly to flour to form a smooth paste. Then combine with beaten egg and evaporated milk. Pour into prebaked tart shells. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) 5 minutes, then reduce to slow oven (300 degrees F.) and continue baking until filling is set and pastry is browned. Yield: 8 tarts.

Scrambled Eggs and Bacon.

Beat the eggs lightly with one tablespoon of cream or top milk for each egg, and season with salt and pepper. Pour the mixture into a pan containing 1 tablespoon of melted butter. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly until thickened. Remove and serve at once with crisp bacon.

Boys and Girls Are Keen For Christmas Parties

Something Fluffy to Eat Is Ever Welcome as End of Playtime; Table Decorations Should Be Gay.

When we were very young a party was a glorious affair that lasted only a few short hours of playtime and ended with something fluffy to eat. It never seemed complicated to us, but to the grownup giving the party it was undoubtedly an intricate though delightful problem.

At Christmas time it is not difficult to plan entertainment for little folk.

Table decorations for the party meal should be very gay and amusing. A snow man of cotton sprinkled with artificial snowflakes, or a tiny tree, or a doll Santa Claus always delights children of any age.

Refreshments dressed up in party style add much merriment and at the same time can be very wholesome and simple. A whipped cream-gelatin dessert can look so gay that a child will think he has never tasted anything like it. But mothers of your young guests will appreciate it if the fare is light and simple, and does not disturb small digestive apparatuses.

For whipped cream desserts evaporated milk can be used to advantage. It can be whipped to three times its bulk and, compared with whipping cream, the cost is almost negligible. In making a whipped milk dessert be sure to have the evaporated milk thoroughly chilled.

Banana Ice Cream.

2 cups banana pulp (about 6 bananas)
1 1-8 cups sugar
1 2-3 cups evaporated milk
⅓ cup orange juice
Few grains salt

Select full ripe bananas, well flecked with brown spots. Remove peelings and outside fibrous portion. Press bananas through a coarse sieve. Combine ingredients in order given. Let stand one-half hour in refrigerator to dissolve sugar. Freeze with a mixture of 1 part salt to 6 parts chipped ice. Yield: 1½ quarts.

Soft Custard.

3 eggs, beaten
¼ cup sugar
Pinch salt
1 cup evaporated milk
1 cup boiling water
½ teaspoon vanilla

Mix the eggs, sugar and salt thoroughly in top of double-boiler. Add milk, mixed with the boiling water, and stirring constantly, cook until a coating forms on the spoon. Remove from fire, add flavoring and cool. Yield, six servings.

Chocolate Blanc Mange.

1 square bitter chocolate.
2 scant cups evaporated milk.
2 teaspoons flour.
6 tablespoons sugar.
⅛ teaspoon salt.
1 egg.
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Melt chocolate in double-boiler. Add evaporated milk slowly until about one cup has been used. Mix flour and sugar and salt. Add enough milk to make smooth paste, then stir into chocolate mixture and cook 10 minutes. Beat egg. Add remainder of milk and stir into chocolate-starch mixture. Cook 5 minutes longer. Cool slightly. Add vanilla and pour into molds rinsed in cold water. Serve cold with soft custard. Yield, six servings.

BAKED BEAN DAYS POPULAR IN WINTER

Workers Find Dish Tasty, Hot, Substantial and Filling on Arriving Home.

EXCELLENT AS LUNCH

Winter days, declares the Bureau of Home Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture, are baked beans days, when there is need of planning meals for those who go out of the home to work, to have various dishes which be tasty, hot, substantial and filling when the workers come home once more.

Producers of canned goods also prepare beans with an idea of meeting this need.

There are many dishes that combine the energy-giving bean with other lighter foods and that are thus adapted to the needs of the office worker or the person employed in less active work. Here is a suggestion which mothers will find an excellent main dish of the luncheon for school children or grown-ups:

Fry six slices of bacon, then remove from fat. To the hot fat add one and one-half cups of sliced onions and one-fourth cup of sliced green pepper, and fry until tender, but not brown. Add one No. 2 can of tomatoes and stew for 5 minutes.

Arrange alternate layers of beans from a No. 2 can of baked beans, broken up bacon and the tomato mixture in a buttered baking dish. Sprinkle four tablespoons of grated cheese on top, and bake in a moderate oven—375 degrees—for 20 to 30 minutes.

WINTER gives no warning!

*Look for the Red, White and Blue Package

As a change from Potatoes

IN spite of overcoats, rubbers, and heated homes, Winter usually takes us by surprise. He attacks us with sudden cold spells, just when we are off our guard.

The heat that preserves health at all times comes from within. Is your family properly nourished to withstand the winter months? Here's a simple, inexpensive safeguard—serve MUELLER'S MACARONI often at the principal meal.

Nourishing, "Energizing"

This tasty food builds vigor and energy into the system. It is made from a special blend of farina, according to exclusive processes, and contains the muscle-building elements of meat in a more digestible form. The following is one of the many tasteful ways of serving it:

MACARONI ROYAL

1 pkg. MUELLER'S MACARONI; 7 slices lean bacon; 1 small onion, chopped fine; ¼ pound cheese; 2 cans tomato soup. Parboil the macaroni 7 min. in 4 qts. rapidly boiling water with 1 tbsp. salt. Drain. Pan-broil bacon. Place layer of macaroni in baking dish, dot with minced cheese and bacon, add layer of macaroni; continue until used up. Mix tomato soup and onion; pour over top. Bake in a moderate oven for 20 min.

Lightest and "Fluffiest"

Nine minutes' boiling has been found to give best results obtainable. In that time MUELLER'S MACARONI acquires a lightness and "fluffiness" obtainable in no other make.

If you want especial tenderness, one or two more minutes may be allowed, but the frequent mistake of overcooking should be avoided.

Try this method of preparation with one package of MUELLER'S. Your grocer has it, or can get it for you.

CHAPTER XXX.

They caught Slim Diggers in a village speak-easy. And here's how. Jim (Adenoids) Moran, suspected of every crime in the records, frequently arrested and never yet convicted, was wanted for questioning in connection with what the police facetiously termed "the mysterious shooting" of a jewelry salesman who was bootlegging on the side. It was quite definitely proved some time later that the man committed suicide; but the police hadn't reached that stage yet, and they decided to call Moran in for a conference. They had information to the effect that Moran was hanging out in a dive on MacDougall street and there, at 2 o'clock in the morning, went a large squad of bored policemen.

Moran wasn't there. In fact, no one worth mentioning was there. But when a little, dried-up man in a black derby, sitting at a table by the back wall, looked up and saw the uniforms, he made a dash for the nearest window. With the natural result that he was promptly taken into custody on suspicion.

They took him back to the station and the sergeant in charge of the raiding squad said to the lieutenant on the desk: "Here's a rat we picked up over in So-and-So's joint." Diggers said his name was Whiteside and that he did odd jobs in Hoboken for a living. As a matter of form they took his fingerprints and threw him into a cell. An hour later the Bertini expert called the lieutenant on the desk and informed him that Whiteside was Slim Diggers.

Things began to happen. Sandy, just falling to sleep, was summoned to police headquarters by a plain clothes detective who waited to take him there. On arrival he promptly identified Diggers as the man who had assaulted him. Diggers denied it, of course. Then, remembering what Jean * * * whose name had never been mentioned to the police, by the way * * * had told him, Sandy decided to bluff.

"He's not only the man who tried to kill me," he told the lieutenant conducting the inquiry; "he's the man who killed Sampson, the bootleg king!"

"You're a liar!" Diggers screamed, and made as if to tear loose from the iron grip of the policeman who held him. And then, forgetting in his anger to be discreet, he cried "Sampson was bumped off two hours after I left the apartment!"

"Oh, ho!" said the lieutenant. "You admit you were in the apartment that night."

"Yeah, I admit it. But I got an alibi. I was in Brooklyn when he was shot and I can prove it."

"All right," Sandy said, playing his last card, "and where were you when Miss Marcia White was killed in the same apartment * * *?"

In the end the policeman holding Diggers had to slap him across the mouth to stop his flow of profanity directed at Sandy; but by the usual processes they finally got a confession. A confession that he killed Marcia White "because she double-crossed me."

They failed, however, to get a confession that he had killed Sampson, alias Fargeson. And in that case, later, he did prove an alibi, though by that time it wasn't necessary, inasmuch as the police already knew who fired the shots that closed Sampson's infamous career.

Jean was to learn of Diggers' confession from the headlines in her newspaper the next morning, but it was not until midafternoon when Sandy, hollow-eyed and strangely sober, called for her at the factory that she was to hear the truth about Fargeson's murder from an eye-witness.

Sandy drove her back to their office, told Lionel that they were not to be disturbed for any reason whatever, and settled down to his story in the quiet of his private office.

Jean listened, interrupting only when absolutely necessary.

Some of it, she knew, of course. Diggers' confession in the morning paper had told her quite a lot. Marcia, he had said, had led him on for months. She had told him, he said, that she would marry him if he would put Fargeson out of the way. "Imagine," Jean thought when she read that * * * "Imagine Marcia marrying a weasel like Diggers!" For all she had learned since, Jean hadn't, you see, forgotten Marcia's beauty.

Diggers wanted Marcia, but he had drawn the line at murder. "Fargeson was my friend," he said in his confession, "and what's more I'm not risking the hot-squat for no dame." But then some one else had put Fargeson out of the way, and when the first roar of the police and the press had died down, Diggers went to Marcia expecting to call for a showdown. Instead Marcia laughed in his face, laughed at the idea that she would wipe her feet on such a "dirty little pole cat" as Diggers, and ended by flying into a rage and accusing him of killing Fargeson.

It had soaked into Diggers' thick skull by this time that Marcia had wanted to get rid of Fargeson for reasons of her own, which did not include Diggers. He suspected, he said, that she had planned to marry the "swell what paid for her apartment and kept her in clover," though he couldn't offer any information as to who the "swell" was. Fargeson and Marcia, obviously, had kept their affairs to themselves.

"You understand," Sandy told her, "I was bluffing. If, when I accused him, Diggers had kept his temper and his head, he could have made a fool of me. I couldn't prove anything. But I took the chance, and he fell for it.

"But the moment he admitted killing Marcia, a good many points were cleared up. For one thing, I had never understood why Marcia was reluctant to tell the police you were in the apartment the night Fargeson was shot. I know now. She knew that your story would incriminate Diggers, and she was afraid of him. The minute Diggers was charged with the crime, he would broadcast the fact that Marcia had asked him to put Fargeson out of the way."

"Then why," Jean asked, perplexed, "did she send that private detective up here to see me?"

"Obviously, to frighten you," Sandy told her. "No doubt she wanted you out of the city, and she thought you would run for it if you had the chance. Which also explains why she accused you in this office several days later. If you remember, she wouldn't talk to me alone; she had to have both of us here together. By that time, I think, she suspected that I was in love with you, and that if you couldn't be frightened, I could. Not only that, but she * * *" Sandy's face colored slightly * * * "she wanted to injure you in my eyes. Which is why she concocted that ridiculous lie about your calling Fargeson by his first name when he entered the apartment that night."

Jean said, a bitter note in her quiet voice, "It didn't strike you as such a ridiculous lie at the time, if I remember correctly."

"Oh, but it did," Sandy declared. "It was no less impossible then than it is now. The point is that you felt that I should have told Marcia at once that she was lying. I couldn't do that. You see, I knew a great deal more about Marcia at that moment than you do even yet, a great deal that Marcia thought I didn't know. And in my clumsy way I was trying to work the thing out a little differently. I was giving Marcia rope in the hope that she would hang herself. Besides, you forget that I knew then who murdered Fargeson * * *"

"What! You! Jean's eyes were wide with amazement. "But why haven't you told the police?"

Sandy said softly, "Wait until I've finished Jean. You may not agree with my methods, but you'll at least understand my motives. The chief interest of the State in a murder is to bring the guilty to justice. Which is only reasonable. But I had something else to consider—the reputation of the Institute of Practical Philanthropy, or the I. P. P., as you have come to know it. I hadn't any idea of saving its name at the cost of defeating justice, if you'll believe me, but there was a reason for delaying.

"Most of our contracts for charity and various forms of philanthropy are made during the two months preceding Christmas. It is the period when those who have more than their share are disposed to part with it. If I, the director of the I. P. P., should have been pulled into the Fargeson affair before Christmas, our whole program would have fallen flat. Which would have meant that thousands who were to be helped would have been disappointed.

"In the first place, I had an idea that the police might solve the mystery without my help. If they didn't, I was determined to sit tight until after Christmas."

Jean moved uneasily in her chair. "I don't quite see what you had to be afraid of Sandy. You could have proved your innocence if they suspected you."

"No," said Sandy, "you miss the point. I wasn't afraid they'd suspect me of killing Fargeson. But if my connection with Marcia had been made public, it would have looked almost as bad."

"Oh!" sharply from Jean.

"Now, don't jump at conclusions, Jean," Sandy said, gravely. "I've told you how I came to met Marcia, and until the night Fargeson was killed I though I was madly in love with her. Actually, however, our relations consisted of what you saw that night. I paid for the apartment and gave her a liberal allowance. When I went to the apartment, she kissed me. When I left, she kissed me. That was all. There were times when it might have been a different story, but remember, I expected to marry her, and I respected her more than she respected herself."

"Didn't you realize then, even if you were both innocent of any wrong, that you were jeopardizing the reputation of the I. P. P.?"

"Of course. Understand, I'm not trying to prove a clean slate. I was wrong. But at the same time I was cautious. Every cent that I gave her was in cash. She paid her own rent, and the apartment was rented in her name. I never gave her a check."

Jean, showing the strain of this depressing recital, said grimly, "It's all a horrible mess! I * * * I wish I'd never thought of coming to New York. * * *"

"But, wait," Sandy said, quickly. "There isn't much more, and I want you to know the whole truth. * * * I haven't told you why I went back to the apartment that night after I'd left you with Marcia. * * *"

"You told me you didn't go back to the apartment," Jean shot at him.

"Please * * * Let me finish. I've already explained that the first night I met you and left you in the restaurant, I called up every paper in the city and gave them the ad about a place here, in the event you refused to go to Marcia's. That ad was a last resort. If you agreed to go to Marcia's for the night, I meant to tell you about the place here. But I forgot it until I was back in my own rooms. I was afraid to risk the ad alone, so I went out again and called another taxi.

"You were in the lobby when I arrived, so you know that I walked up the stairs. I don't know why, except that the elevator wasn't down at the time.

"When I came to Marcia's door it was open. I started to knock, then caught myself in time. The door in the living room was also open and in plain view was Fargeson, stretched out on the floor. Beside him, her eyes fixed on his face, was Marcia, holding a revolver * * *"

Jean was sitting on the edge of the chair, her nerves taut. "Then it was Marcia who * * *"

Sandy seemed not to hear her. "She turned her back suddenly and bent over the cylinder smoking stand. I gave her that, so I knew what she was doing. There's a secret panel in one side for storing cigarettes, and in that space she hid the revolver * * * I backed out quickly and hurried away as quietly as I could. * * * Sandy had taken a scrap of wrapping paper from his pocket. Now he smoothed it out on his desk before her. "The night Fargeson was killed," he explained quietly, "they took Marcia to headquarters for questioning. While she was there they took her fingerprints. Which explains this. This afternoon I will put this in an envelope, take it to Brooklyn and drop it in the first mail box I see. It seems cowardly, of course, but * * * to me * * * necessary.

Jean leaned over and read the words scrawled in pencil on the bit of paper: Marcia White killed Fargeson. Compare fingerprints on handle of revolver in cylinder smoking stand in her apartment.

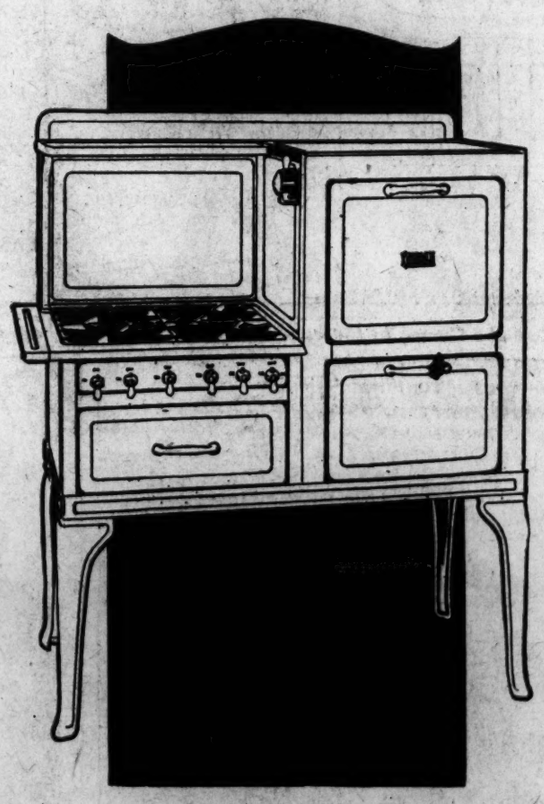
Oriole Insulated Range

(Model 960)



This is the 960 model Oriole Insulated Range which has been reduced $45 during the final drive to boost sales. Delicately colored in pastel shades, the Oriole is insulated, fully enameled, with heat control and all other features which make the modern gas range the ultimate in cooking equipment.

SURE, we have been selling a lot of modern gas ranges! But not as many as we would like to sell.

We know from a survey of this market that there are thousands of homes which are still struggling along with obsolete cooking equipment.

As a matter of fact, the beautiful new gas ranges, fully enameled, with Heat Control, Oven Insulation and all the latest improvements, have made many ranges obsolete before their time.

Over a thousand wise Washington home owners have already taken advantage of the slashing reductions offered during the past month by the Gas Company to modernize their kitchens. And now we are offering as a final incentive to Buy Now, the new Oriole Insulated Range (model 960), fully enameled, with Heat Control, at a saving of $45 over the regular price at which it has been selling for years. This includes an allowance for your old range.

A small down payment and the balance in 18 months are terms so liberal that at this price almost anyone can afford to buy this modern Oriole gas range. There is no extra charge for financing.

Drop in at any of our show rooms to choose your model for Christmas.

SCHAAF WINS OVER MAX BAER IN BOUT AT GARDEN

Westbrook Pegler Says.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Not that it is any of my business, an objection which seldom curbs my curiosity, but I wonder how much of his earnings of several million dollars Jack Dempsey has managed to retain since Tex Rickard paid him off for his last prize fight in the fall of 1927.

I see, and hear, that Leonard Sachs is back in town from the West, trying to steam up some interest in him with mysterious intimations that Jack might return to the ring next summer. Mr. Sachs is Mr. Dempsey's man Friday. Or perhaps it would be better to say Wednesday, as Friday was a very pronounced brunette, whereas Mr. Sachs is merely sallow. At any rate, Mr. Sachs is the fellow who goes ahead of Mr. Dempsey to agitate the newspaper boys and answer the phone in Dempsey's suites at the hotels when the pests call up trying to sell him tables at testimonial dinners and books of chances on raffles in the charity rackets, saying, "No; this is not Mr. Dempsey; Mr. Dempsey ain't here. This is Mr. Dempsey's secretary conversing. I tell you Mr. Dempsey ain't here. He has went out."

HAS LITTLE TO WORK WITH

Mr. Sachs is a kind of goose bone of the sport pages. When he shows up in a town you may be reasonably certain that the town is due for a sharp spell of Dempsey. Considering how little he has had to work with, as time has placed Mr. Dempsey remoter and remoter from the only claim to celebrity which he ever possessed, Mr. Sachs has done very well, breaking into print next to pure advertising matter for many columns of publicity, including this one, by the mere device of intimating that Dempsey is imminent and about to come to a decision on the question to fight or not to fight.

The hardest problem of most prize fighters when they grow rich is defending their money. Most of them have no education or business training, and when a young fellow of 27, which is the passing age of champions, finds himself with a fortune at the time of becoming professionally erstwhile, he is practically unarmed against a horde of shrewd enemies, including hair-trigger litigants and shyster lawyers who want to take it away from him.

The first big earnings that Dempsey ever received, derived from his fight with Georges Carpentier, he quickly paid into a trust fund hidden away in some bank and irrevocable even by his own order. This fund will assure him an income of about $250 a week forever, provided, of course, that the companies in whose stock the money is invested do not go broke, which is always an interesting possibility and a reminder of the fallibility of man.

After that, he made his millions, not only in the ring but in incidental revenue from his work in the moving pictures and in vaudeville and from his essays on clean living, straight punching and the pleasures of the mind, most of which, he later testified, he never read. Past champions, Corbett, Jeffries and Johnson, had opened saloons, but by the time Dempsey had retired the saloon business had become a dangerous racket in which the expectation of life was very brief, and he is one who enjoys living and, for all his insensate fury in the ring, avoids quarrels.

PAST CHAMPS RETIRED TO SALOONS

Furthermore, Mr. Dempsey's fortune was an upper-case fortune, too big for a saloon. He was the first of two millionaires of the ring, and in a sense you might say that he made both millionaires with one pair of fists and one personality. For the other millionaire, Gene Tunney, owed his prosperity to Dempsey's drawing power, not his own, and never drew any gate receipts comparable to the receipts of his fights with Dempsey when he was fighting other colleagues.

R. Mackenzie To Remain Amatuer

Former District Star Denies Report of Turning Pro.

Wire to Father Here Says Entry as Pro Was Mistake.

ROLAND MACKENZIE will remain an amateur golfer despite published reports that the Walker Cup star, who yesterday withdrew from the Pasadena Open, would seek a career as a professional. Mackenzie wired his father, Albert R. Mackenzie, last night, emphatically denying the report.

The announcement that Mackenzie formerly the leading amateur golfer in this section, capturing the Middle Atlantic, the District and other championships, as well as winning practically all the club invitation tournaments in which he entered, came as a surprise to all Washington golfers, who had followed his career in national events with interest even after he had left Washington to take up his residence in New York and Wilmington, Del.

His withdrawal from amateur golf would have created a sensation almost equal to the action which has already been taken by Robert T. Jones, jr., and George Von Elm.

Story Published In New York.

The first intimation of his alleged intention to abandon his amateur status appeared in a publication in a New York newspaper yesterday, stating that he had withdrawn from the open tournament to be played in Pasadena, Calif., and predicting that he would take up golf professionalism as a career.

As this statement was absolute news to his father, Albert R. Mackenzie, the latter immediately wired his son to learn the basis of the publication. Last night a reply was received from Roland, which effectively disposed of the story as a complete fabrication.

"There is a mistake about my entering the Pasadena open as a professional," he wired, "or that I contemplate professionalism. I would appreciate your effort to give publicity to my absolute denial. It is true that I withdrew from the Pasadena open, but everything is O. K."

No Reason to Turn Professional.

"When I first heard the story," said Albert Mackenzie last night, "I felt that there must be an error somewhere, but, of course, I did not know positively until I received Roland's wire tonight. Roland went out to the coast in acceptance of a good business offer and there was not the slightest reason why he should give up his career to take up golf professionalism. His positive denial ought to put a quietus on the story."

Canzoneri-Suarez Title Bout Planned

Buenos Aires, Dec. 19 (A.P.).—Negotiations for a match between Tony Canzoneri, world's lightweight boxing champion, and Justo Suarez, Argentine fighter, in Buenos Aires, March 7, 1931, have been started, officials of the National Boxing Association announced today.

Canzoneri's manager has asked a guarantee of $50,000, they said.

Suarez has been campaigning successfully among the lightweights in the United States for several months. He holds a 10-round decision over Herman Perlick, of Kalamazoo, Mich., and a six-round knockout of Bruce Flowers, Negro boxed.

Canzoneri won his title in a one-round knockout of Al Singer last month.

Cobb, at 44, Sees Decline In Game

Says Spontaneity of Close Plays Lacking in Baseball Now.

Blames Lively Ball; Sees Need of Hard-Fought Games.

By DILLON GRAHAM.

AUGUSTA, GA., Dec. 19 (A.P.).—From a perspective of 44 years Ty Cobb looked on baseball today and observed the game has grown less attractive. Today was the forty-fourth birthday of the Georgia Peach, who spent more than twenty years in major-league baseball. He celebrated quietly at home with his family—a custom he has never varied since his marriage in 1908.

"To me the game seems to lack a sort of spontaneity now," he said. The close plays, base running and other interesting features have been lessened by the orgy of home-run hitting.

Game of Today Needs More Competition.

"Back before the day of the lively ball the outfielders played nearer the infield and figured in some fast throws and hair-line-decision plays. The present game needs more competition, more close scores and harder fought games. The lively ball has served to eliminate some of these attractive points.

"Years ago I remember when crowded stands greeted a seventh-place club late in September. They were out to see real baseball, with all the old tricks of the game. Nowadays only the leaders and the first-division clubs play to full stands. The others have meager attendance."

Ty had no comment to make on the draft question recently discussed at the baseball meetings, but observed the elimination of the sacrifice fly would affect the game very little.

Cobb is content now to rest and play. He's getting pleasure aplenty out of romping around with his family. This is the first real extended vacation Ty has had in years and unless a "bargain opportunity" turns up he won't be back in baseball next season.

Negotiations for Purchase of Phils Ended.

Cobb said his negotiations with the Philadelphia Nationals had been ended.

"I've been considering other propositions but haven't found one yet that sounds good," he added.

"The selling prices of clubs are based on too high levels. I don't think it wise to buy at these prices. The expense end of the game has advanced far ahead of the attendance. The first division teams find the game profitable, but it isn't such good business for the others."

Although Ty is out of baseball actually, the old lure is still there in interest. He'll either go to Florida when the spring training camp trek begins, or he may decide to watch some club training in California.

"I'm in good shape," he said. "I've been hunting and golfing quite a bit lately and have had lots of luck at both."

Tinker Seeks Berth As Umpire in Minors

Chicago, Dec. 19 (A.P.).—Joe Tinker, of "Evers to Tinker to Chance" baseball fame, wants to become an umpire.

The former Cub star is dickering with President Thomas Jefferson Hickey, of the American Association, for a job next season.

Wright Lone Robin Not Signed for 1931

New York, Dec. 19 (A.P.).—Fresco Thompson, second baseman acquired from Philadelphia, has signed his 1931 contract to play at Ebbetts Field, the Brooklyn Dodgers announced today.

The singing of Thompson leaves only Capt. Glenn Wright, of the regular infield, missing, and he is expected to sign without too much conversation. Del Bissonette, first baseman, and Wally Gilbert, who covers third, already had put their names to contracts.

Central Five to Play At Alexandria Tonight

A busy scholastic basket ball week, during which 22 games were played, comes to an end today in a minor key with only one game listed, and that one to be played in Alexandria by Central's Blue and White tossers.

Central's basketmen probably will breathe a little easier after today's game, for a strenuous week has been their lot. Coach Coggins' young men played the Washington-Lee Little Generals last Tuesday and won, 52-32; then on Thursday the Emerson Five was beaten, 26-19, while yesterday Baltimore City College was turned back by the score of 25-17.

Western, appearing in five games during the week, set an early season record while Business kept apace of Central with four games.

Proposed Rule Changes To Be Coaches' Topic

New York, Dec. 19 (A.P.).—Coaches from all sections of the country will gather here December 29 for the tenth annual meeting of the American Football Coaches Association.

Proposed changes in the rules will be discussed. George Clark, of Butler University, will report for the trustees; Coach Harry G. Kipke, of the University of Michigan, on membership; William J. Bingham, of Howard, on coaching ethics; Hugo Bezdek, of Penn State, for the stabilizing committee; D. O. McLaughrey, of Brown University, on football officiating.

In the afternoon session there will be fifteen-minute talks on various phases of the game by leading coaches. Adam Walsh, of Yale, will speak on "Snapping the Ball;" Sam Williaman, Ohio State, on "Spinners and Fakes;" W. S. Collins, Northwestern, on "End Play," and A. M. McMillin, Kansas Aggies, on "Backfield Play."

Knute Rockne is to be toastmaster at the annual "Brown Derby" banquet in the evening.

THERE are so many rats on Mary Island, in the South Pacific, that it has become known as "Rat Island"—quite appropriately, too, for no other animal life can exist there. The rats eat dead marine life, washed ashore and the eggs of giant sea turtles left on the beach to hatch. The island has but one palm tree.

• • • • •

Halrey's ability to drive through the heaviest traffic without an accident is a mystery to every one but himself. He claims that it is simply a matter of mental telepathy, that spectators unconsciously transmit suggestions to him, guiding him to turn right or left, to stop and to start. Once he drove an automobile for 240 consecutive hours, a record.

• • • • •

If the descendants of a single starfish survived and continued to multiply for a few generations there would be a pile many times larger than the earth itself. One starfish can lay 200,000,000 eggs. But, fortunately, young starfish and the eggs are food for other sea life. That is just one of nature's ways of keeping the starfish in its place. The giant starfish in the Pacific sometimes grows to be two and a half feet across.

Eastern Football Stars Arrive on West Coast

San Francisco, Dec. 19 (A.P.).—Twenty-two Eastern football players who will take part in the annual East-West charity game here December 27, arrived today. Shortly after being quartered, the squad turned out for practice.

Andy Kerr, of Colgate, and Dick Hanley, of Northwestern, coaches of the Eastern team, said heavy workouts would get under way tomorrow.

The Western team coached by Percy Locey, went through a brisk signal drill. Starting line-ups have not been named.

Trojans' 1931 Schedule Provides 9 Hard Tests

Los Angeles, Dec. 19.—With the announcement that the University of Georgia's powerful football team had been signed to play the Trojans at the Los Angeles Coliseum on December 12 next season, the University of Southern California now has one of the most difficult schedules to be taken on by any team in 1931.

Nine hard games and only one "breather," that one coming between the Stanford game and the trip to South Bend to play Notre Dame, comprise the ten-game schedule now completed by Director Hunter. Eight of the ten games are to be played at the local coliseum, the Trojans' home field, which in 1931 will have a capacity of more than 100,000. The schedule:

September 26, St. Mary's, at Los Angeles Coliseum.
October 3, Oregon State, at S. C.
October 10, Washington State, at S. C.
October 17, Oregon U., at S. C.
October 24, California, at Berkeley.
November 7, Stanford, at L. A.
November 14, Montana, at L. A.
November 21, Notre Dame, at South Bend.
December 5, Washington U., at S. C.
December 12, Georgia U., at S. C.

Stuhldreher Defends Coaches' High Wages

Baltimore, Dec. 19 (A.P.).—High salaries for football coaches and spring training at colleges were defended by Harry Stuhldreher, coach at Villanova and famous as one of the Notre Dame Four Horsemen, in an address at Loyola College last night.

"Instead of trying to lower salaries of coaches when they are higher than professors', they should raise the professors' pay," Stuhldreher said. He expressed the opinion that coaches, graduate managers and other members of the athletic staff were factors in education as well as instructors.

Spring football practice, Stuhldreher said, is usually at the expense of the time of the coach, as he said most coaches are paid lump sums for work in the fall only.

Mrs. Walker Divorces Boxer on Cruelty Count

Jersey City, N. J., Dec. 19 (A.P.).—Mrs. Margaret Walker was granted a divorce today from Edward "Mickey" Walker, middleweight champion of the world, on grounds of cruelty.

The pugilist's wife was given custody of two children and permitted to retain a $165,000 fund given her by Walker until a final settlement is made.

Vic Burke, Quarter-Miler, Named G. U. Track Captain

Newark Prep Star Honored; Season to Open Jan. 3.

APPOINTMENT of Victor W. Burke, of Jersey City, as captain, and the scheduling of nine meets for the Georgetown University indoor track team were announced yesterday by Graduate Manager of Athletics H. Gabriel Murphy.

Burke, a junior studying for a Ph. B. degree, is a specialist in the quarter-mile run and is one of the speediest athletes who has trained under Coach John D. O'Reilly in several years.

The Hilltoppers' indoor season will begin on January 3 with the Knights of Columbus Council games in Brooklyn, N. Y. The season will run until March 7, the date of the annual college championship games, known as the I. C. 4-A meet. The annual national amateur champion-

Burgess Leads Attack as Colonials Show Excellent Form.

COACH Jim Pixlee juggled his George Washington line-up last night and throttled a high powered Baltimore University five in an interesting game in the H-Street gymnasium. The revamped Colonials, snappinf out of their lethargy of Tuesday night in impressive fashion, clearly earned the decision, 30 to 16.

Pixlee switched Jack Conner and Arthur Zahn from forwards to guards and sent Fred Mulvey "up front" from the rear court. He kept Forrest Burgess at forward and Wayne Chambers at center. The result obviously justified the experiment.

In passing and guarding this combination surpassed anything G. W. has had on the court in recent years, but the shooting was a little spotty. Baltimore, a speedy, hard working crew, lacked smoothness, or rather was made to look erratic by the efficient G. W. defense. So the vaunted attack that caused Georgetown a lot of trouble here last wek whipped the basket only six times from scrimmage.

While spotty it was, George Washington's shooting at times was brilliant with Burgess and Conner chipping in the shiniest pieces. Burgess sank the ball five times from scrimmage and cashed 5 points from eight chances at the foul stripe. Conner, concerning himself mostly with the direction of the passing, found time to drop three from scrimmage.

The crowd of 300 liked Zahn's work best, however. He walked off the court to the tune of a big hand toward the close after bottling up "Bebs" Kramer, visiting high scorer, and holing a couple of beauties from long range.

Mulvey and Chambers, less conspicuous, proved themselves valuable with their height and raginess in spearing Baltimore passes and retrieving missed alien shots from the backboard. Chambers was forever digging for the ball, so strenuously once that he received a cut over the eye during a mix-up.

Baltimore's speed, quick cutting for the basket and superiority in getting the tap at center served to keep G. W. hustling all the time. Chandler's six points in the second half helped the visitors' cause considerably.

George Washington took the lead never to be headed when Chambers scored a one-pointer in the first minute. The score later was tied at 5-5, but Burgess and Zahn before the intermission collected twelve points between them, and the rest period found the Colonials leading, 18 to 8.

Baltimore never threatened in the last 20 minutes, during which the home team missed as many shots as it sank.

N. Y. Body Likely to Take Crown From Schmeling.

Fails to Answer Ultimatum Ordering Him to Face Sharkey.

Boston Fighter Closes Rival's Eye Near End of Bout.

Both Tired at End; No Knockdowns; Baer Staggered.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19 (A.P.).—Max Schmeling, who won the world's heavyweight title from Jack Sharkey while in a reclining position, seems about to lose it the same way.

The New York State Athletic Commission today, reading his cabled reply from Germany to an ultimatum ordering him to sign within fifteen days for a return duel with the Boston sailorman, suffered a slight attack of heat under the collar. Schmeling blandly cabled the august fathers to get in touch with his new manager, Joe Jacobs, who knows about such things, but said nothing about signing to fight Sharkey or anyone else within fifteen days or ever.

The commission, headed by James A. Farley, refused to comment officially on the cablegram. There were indications, however, that the solons now regret the recognition extended Schmeling after his victory on a foul over Sharkey last June and are about to declare him null and void and the championship, vacated voluntarily by Gene Tunney in 1928, once more open to all comers.

This is in line with similar indications from the Natonal Boxing Association.

Schmeling's Message Says Little.

Schmeling's cablegram, which the commission considers no answer at all to their ultimatum, was as follows:

"Gentlemen: Joe Jacobs is now my sole manager and I have just cabled him to go before your body and handle this matter. He knows what to do. Best regards."

Unfortunately for Schmeling and the heavyweight puzzle, now more complicated than ever, the commission does not recognize Jacobs as a manager, because of his suspension some time ago during the controversy that surrounded the elimination of the Teuton heavyweight's original pilot, Arthur Bueelow.

Jacobs has filed no managerial contract on Schmeling with the commission. The fistic fathers consider Schmeling a free agent, required to speak for himself.

The commission put the pressure on two other champions who have been lax in the matter of defending their titles. Mickey Walker, king of the middleweights, and Panama Al Brown, bantamweight ruler, were ordered to sign within 15 days for title defenses on penalty of compulsory abdication.

Walker and Brown Warned.

To both Walker and Brown the commission telegraphed:

"You have not complied with the rules of this commission requiring champions to defend their title every six months. Unless you arrange within 15 days from date to enter into a contract to defend your title the same will be vacated."

Walker has not boxed in this State in years and now is campaigning among the heavyweights. Brown was supposed to have defended his title successfully in a 15-round bout with Eugene Huat in Paris recently.

Jack Sharkey, slightly perturbed at the turn of affairs, visited the commission with his manager and received detailed instructions on the duties of a second. He wanted the information to aid him in handling Ernie Schaaf in the latter's bout with Max Baer in the Garden tonight.

Stribling Has Stolen Spotlight.

The Boston tar has the backing of the commission, which insists Schmeling carry out the promise of a return match made last June, but lacks the support of promoters and critics. Sharkey has not fought since the Schmeling engagement and Young Stribling, Georgia pride, has stolen the spotlight.

Promoters insist a Schmeling-Sharkey bout would be doomed to financial failure unless the Boston battler first disposes of Stribling or Victorio Campolo in an elimination series the commission so far has refused to permit. Chicago promoters offered Schmeling $500,000 on Wednesday for a title match with Stribling at Soldier Field in June.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Dec. 19 (A.P.).—Ernie Schaaf, blonde Boston heavyweight, punched out a hard-fought victory over Max Baer, sensational newcomer from California, in a ten-round feature bout tonight. The crowd of 10,000 booed the decision heartily. There were no knockdowns. Baer weighed 200 pounds, Schaaf 203.

ROUND ONE—They came out cautiously, Schaaf retreating from a long hand, while Baer followed him around the ring. Baer drove a light right to the head and two short raps to the heart. In a clinch they slugged to the body and Baer backed away. Along the ropes Schaaf hooked his left neatly to Baer's head, while the Californian tossed long light jabs leads to the body. Schaaf easily boxed away from the Californian's awkward leads and carefully maneuvered Baer around. A left and right to the chin shook Schaaf. The big blonde lost his caution and they slugged fiercely to the head in mid-ring, both wavering under the punches. Schaaf ripped a hard right to the head at the bell.

ROUND TWO—Baer leaped in with a left hook to the head and a right that bit deep into Schaaf's ribs. Ernie missed a left hook and fell in close, where Baer hammered his body. Coming fast Baer took the play away from the clever blonde with a volley of lefts and rights to the body. Schaaf curled a bit and backed into the ropes, while Baer followed him relentlessly, pumping both hands to the body. A left hook caught Schaaf full on the chin and made him hold desperately. Baer missed as he tried to follow his advantage and Schaaf sparred away, drawing blood from the Californian's nose with a stream of stinging left jabs. They were in a clinch at the bell.

ROUND THREE—Again Baer dashed in with a left hook to the body. He drove another left to Schaaf's ribs an dthen set out cockily to box with a clever Bostonian. Schaaf nailed him with a half dozen lefts as they sparred, but Baer drove in close and ripped both hands to the body. He switched to the head and ripped two lefts into Schaaf's face. Blood trickled from Ernie's nose, but he ripped two hard rights into Schaaf's head as the Californian charged again. Baer bounced a right off Schaaf's ribs, but Ernie shot his head back with a hard right uppercut. Baer held as Schaaf jabbed, but they came out of a sparring exchange punching furiously. The crowd yelled wildly as they stood in midring and swapped right-hand smashes to the head. Both were bleeding freely at the nose as the bell broke up the fierce exchange.

ROUND FOUR—Baer tried to box for an opening, pecking for the head and body with a long left. His foot slipped, however, and Schaaf stepped into him with a hard right to the chin. Schaaf's knees buckled as Baer ripped a hard right to the chin and followed it with both fists to the body. Another right to the chin sent Schaaf back on his heels, but Baer was cautious and Ernie jabbed his way clear. As Baer moved in slowly with both hands about his chin, Schaaf nailed him with two rights. Baer opened up with both hands and cracked another powerful right on Schaaf's cin. Baer worked lastly, owever, and they sparred easily at the bell.

ROUND FIVE—Schaaf had his right ready as Baer tried his opening left-hook lunge, and the fist bounced off the Californian's chin. Schaaf boxed carefully, fencing with his left as Baer strove to weave in close for body punches. They locked heads and slammed to the body, then sparred prettily in midring. The pace slowed as they fell to close quarters and wrestled a bit as they swapped short body punches. Schaaf pumped a steady left into Baer's head and they came to close quarters again. Breaking out of a body exchange, they stood too to toe and hooked to each other's head. Both went to their corners tired at the bell.

ROUND SIX—Baer's opening left hook knocked Schaaf into the ropes, but Ernie shook the Californian with two sharp lefts to the head. Schaaf drove two more lefts to the body and another right to the head as aBer tore in. Schaaf drummed a left and right off Baer's head and they slugged wildly along the ropes. A wild right to the chin sent Schaaf reeling, but he slugged back with both hands until both he and Baer could scarcely lift their hands. They threw rights to the head together and both wavered. The crowd cheered madly as they stood and poured punches into each other's heads without regard to defense. Baer, the harder hitter, nailed Schaaf cleanly with a right and left, but Schaaf drove the Californian into his corner and punched him dizzy with short right punches to the head. Baer was propped up in his corner all but hopeless at the bell.

ROUND SEVEN—Both were tired. Schaaf and Baer fell into a welcomed clinch. The crowd howled for action and Schaaf snapped two left hooks into Baer's bloody face; Max glanced a right off Schaaf's shoulder and then dug a harsh left hook to the head. Baer covered his head and Schaaf ripped both hands to the chin. Schaaf laid back and hooked two

Rockne Ridiculees Resignation Report

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 19 (A.P.).—In a telephone conversation from the Mayo Brothers Hospital at Rochester, Minn., today, Knute Rockne termed as "ridiculous" reports that he would not coach Notre Dame's football team next season.

"There's nothing to it," he informed his secretary. "I expect to be back again at the game and at Notre Dame next spring and fall."

Kentucky Considers Carideo for Coach

Lexington, Ky., Dec. 19 (A.P.).—Bobby Dodd, of Tennessee, and Frank Carideo and Moon Mullins, of Notre Dame, are being considered for the post of back field coach at the University of Kentucky. Harry Gamage, head coach, already has a line coach, but requested school officials to give him a back field coach, too, and they consented.

ART SHIRES ADMITS LAXITY IN LETTER TO JOHNSON

Johnson Paid Tribute by 'Great One'

Says Nats' Manager Is Best Fellow He Ever Played For.

Realizes He Did Not Take Game Seriously While on Bench.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

ALTHOUGH President Clark Griffith of the Nationals gave no reasons other than that the Washington Club did not need Art ("The Great") Shires, when the utility first baseman recently was sold to Milwaukee after all major league clubs had waived on him, in The Post's announcement of the deal the writer expressed the opinion that Shires was released because he did not take baseball seriously when forced to play second fiddle to Capt. Joe Judge. The player, himself, has confirmed this opinion in a letter just received by Manager Walter Johnson.

"While I was with you I gave you everything I had on the field, but I know that while sitting on the bench I didn't behave myself as I should. I like to play too well, I suppose," said Mr. Shires in his note to his former boss.

Mr. Shires is a natural hitter, a colorful player and a good first sacker, although still far from being a finished performer, and undoubtedly would have been grabbed by some other major league club but for the fact that he bears the reputation of being a "bad boy." He is an aggressive player who never admits defeat and battles on the diamond until the final out is made.

Champs at the Bit When Not Playing.

As "The Great Art" says, he gives all he has when on the field and were he to win himself a regular berth he probably would stick to business, but Shires' temperament is such that he champs at the bit when assigned to bench duty, finally takes the "what's the use" attitude, and then forgets his obligations to the ball club and does some of the "playing" to which he refers.

While naturally disappointed at not sticking with the Nationals, Mr. Shires, who is now taking a flier at the movies in Hollywood, is a good sport and has nothing but good wishes for the Washington Club and for Manager Johnson, whom he rates as the "best manager and greatest fellow" he ever played for.

"The Great One" predicts that he will be back in the big show soon and he probably will. He's only 23 years old and very recently gave signs of his intention to "settle down" and take life more seriously by getting married. He has the ability to reach stardom and, if he learns his lesson, from the fact that none of the 16 major league clubs want him, he no doubt will be heard from 'ere long.

Pays Johnson Tribute In Letter.

Here's his letter to Skipper Johnson:

"Dear Walter:

"Just received official notice of my transfer to Milwaukee this a. m. Walter, I want you to know that I think you are the best manager and the greatest fellow I ever played for. Regardless of what you think of my ability as a ball player, I still have those impressions of you. While with you I gave you everything I had on the field, but I know while sitting on the bench I didn't behave myself as I should. I like to play too well, I suppose."

"Although it's a little tough to go back to the minors, I remember what you told me one day in the clubhouse and I'm going to hustle my way back to the big show. If I get a chance to come back as a regular it was a good break for me to go, but even if I don't I will be playing regular anyhow.

"Hope this finds you and all of the family in the best of health. Just wanted you to know what I think of you, Walter, and as long as I am not with another club in the American League, I hope you win the pennant anyhow. I wish you all the luck in the world. Best wishes.

(Signed) "ART SHIRES."

A mixed doubles match on the ice at Haverford, near Philadelphia, is pictured above, with the players apparently having little difficulty in maintaining their balance or getting to the ball. Little difference in the bounce of the ball and the ability to get to it on ice and on the highly polished floors of the indoor courts was noted by the players.

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Jefferson Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

THE card at Jefferson Park today excels the ordinary offerings at this track, which puts forth its best foot on Saturdays. Besides the feature, the Grand Isle Handicap, for all-aged horses, there is a $1,200 handicap for 2-year-olds and the Jefferson Purse for older horses.

The Grand Isle is fifth on the program, and is at a mile and seventy yards. The track is muddy, which will be to GALAHAD'S liking, and the Thanksgiving Handicap winner is selected to repeat in this event. GALAHAD was beaten by Battle Ax in his last start, but under the changed track conditions, he is expected to show to better advantage. He will have BOCARATONE as the most dangerous contender. BOCARATONE is in top form now and beat Skirl the other day, but GALAHAD will prove a different proposition. DARK ABBOT won recently, but from no such field as this, but he beat Thistle Fyrn, a very fast filly, and should get the show money in this race. GALAHAD has topweight of 116 pounds, but this will not anchor him. The distance suits him.

FIRST RACE—JUSTICIARY'S best moves have been in the mud and for that reason he is selected to win the first race for 2-year-olds at a mile and seventy yards. He beat Petabit a short time ago and paid 30 to 1, but the other day was unplaced. He won in Maryland at a long price in the mud, EVE WHITE seems to be more consistent than the Bedwell gelding and will give him a hard race. He has been in the money his last two starts and was third to West Virginia last out. NERVATOR has beaten the best among the others in this field and should be as good as third.

SECOND RACE—There is speed in the second race. UNCLE MATT is selected to beat BOB ROGERS and the latter is a much improved horse, although he was beaten by Scone last out. He previously beat Rain or Shine and should get close. UNCLE MATT beat Simon Kenton and other fast ones. Third money probably will go to NEGODALE, which will like the track, and in his last race was third to Scone and Bocaratone.

THIRD RACE—VOLTEAR will make his first winter start in the third race and the conditions make him appear a stand-out. With only 106 pounds up, he should walk away from this field, and he is a superior mudder. He beat much better fields than this in Maryland. TADDYWAWA is rated the contender. She showed in her last race, third to Scone, that she was rounding into form. RAIN OR SHINE will figure in the race but is probably over his head against VOLTEAR. He should be in the money. CHIANTI has a chance.

FOURTH RACE—High class two-year-olds are in the fourth with BILL MORRIS, winner last out, carrying top weight of 118 pounds. He concedes 16 pounds to his nearest rival. He beat IMA DREAMER by a length and a half in his last race, and this gelding should be the contender in this dash. KENTUCKY BILL was interfered with in his last race, and knocked out of contention. He has plenty of speed and has a chance here.

SIXTH RACE — FRANK FULLEN should repeat in the sixth. He has won twice at this track, and is in fine condition. COCKRILL seems best calculated to give him an argument. DARK SIMON, a recent winner and third to Delmonico Thursday, should hold the others safe, and might be closer than third. FRANK FULLEN beat Madcap Marvin in his last start, and that race should remove doubt in this event.

SEVENTH RACE—FAIR BETH is selected to win the seventh. The Bedwell filly came from behind in her last race to finish third to Bob Kernan. BROKER may be the dangerous one. He has not run his best race. BOBBY POWERS has a chance and should be in the money. FAIR BETH showed improvement before the close of the Maryland season and appears to have the advantage of class over this field but is a bad post actor.

Race Horses Attached For Debt of Owner

New Orleans, La., Dec. 19 (A.P.).—Four horses at the Jefferson Park Racing Stables of Miss Blanche Watson, prominent sportswoman of Covington, Ky., were attached today by the civil sheriff under order of the civil district court upon complaint of Julius Jung, of Cincinnati, Ohio. Jung contended to the court that Miss Watson had failed to meet a promissory note for $2,000. He said he loaned her $5,000, of which she repaid $3,000 and gave the note for the remainder.

The four horses attached were First Mission, Hernan Cortes, Falmouth Belle and Our Johnny.

ship meet also is scheduled, this being listed on February 25.

Burke Rated as Main Cog In Mile Relay Team.

Burke, whose honor comes by appointment of the Hilltop athletic authorities, is expected to be one of the main cogs in the one-mile relay team. Besides a speedy pair of legs, he has unusual stamina and a keen knowledge of running which he uses to best advantage under stress.

Before enrolling at Georgetown, Burke attended Newark Prep School and helped the mile relay team of that school to establish a world's scholastic record of 3 minutes 24 seconds. During the summer of 1929 Burke was a member of the New York A. C. team which raced the mile in 3:17. His outstanding performance of 1930 was a 48.5 quarter mile at the Penn relays.

Following is the complete schedule:

February 7, Millrose A. C., at New York City; 11, Meadowbrook Club, at Philadelphia; 14, Boston A. A., at Boston; 16, New York A. C., at New York City; 25, national amateur championships, at New York City.

March 7, Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America, at New York City.

Central's "C" Club To Entertain Members

The annual Christmas meeting of the Central "C" Club for local members and members returning home from college for the holidays, will be held next Tuesday night at the Racquet Club.

Featuring a program of festivities will be a boxing card arranged by Jim Mcnamara, grand sports mogul of the Jewish Community Center.

As usual there will be staged the annual election of officers and the appointment of committees.

Headed by Robert E. Newby the committee in charge of entertainment for the Tuesday night fete comprises Norman Oyster, Eugene Casey, Dr Coleman Fishback, Sylvan King, George Norris and Dick Newby.

Kentucky Full Back Joins Charity Team

Lexington, Ky., Dec. 19 (A.P.).—Tom Phipps, University of Kentucky full back, has joined L. G. "Floppy" Forquer and Conrad Rose, guards, as Kentucky's representatives on the Southern team that will meet a Northern aggregation in a charity game at Brooklyn Sunday, December 28. The invitation to participate was received from "Stumpy" Thomason, former Georgia Tech star, who is training the Southern eleven.

Western Reserve Grid Coach Quits Position

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 19 (A.P.).—Resignation of Jack Davis, football coach at Western Reserve University, and its acceptance by school officials was announced here today.

Davis took over the coaching this fall after Gordon Locke was forced by illness to retire as mentor of the team.

Two days ago Davis was named by Robert Bader, a football player; as having been present when Locke allegedly offered Bader free tuition if he would play football for Reserve. Bader made the accusation after he was ousted from Wittenberg College with fifteen others for receiving emoluments there. Locke denied it.

DUMBARTON NETMEN PLAY

Open Indoor League Season Today at Baltimore.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

THE Dumbarton Club netmen, one of Washington's two teams entered in the Baltimore Winter Indoor Tennis League, whose matches are held within the Fifth Regiment Armory, will swing into their second match of the season this afternoon at 3 o'clock when the strong Racquet Club team, of Baltimore, is met.

The local squad is rated a favorite today against the Baltimoreans in view of its splendid performance last Saturday in beating the strong American Legion aggregation six matches to three, despite the fact that it was, for several members on the team, the first touch of indoor tennis.

The invading Dumbarton players will be Owen Howenstein, Joe Rutley, Fred Haas, H. H. Burgwin, Holmead Callan, F. F. Walker and Buddy Dawson.

Eddie Yeomans, rated one of the best young prospects the city has developed in tennis, will return home today from Chapel Hill for the Christmas holidays, accompanied by Al, another of the tennising Yeomans.

Yeomans is said to have improved since the school year at North Carolina began in September, having had chance to practice with Wilmer Hines, Bryan Grant and several other young net satellites enrolled in the school.

It is possible that Yeomans will join up with one of Washington's two indoor teams during his stay at home.

Washington-Lee High Beats Western Cubs

Special to The Washington Post.

Ballston, Va., Dec. 19.—The Little Generals of Washington-Lee High defeated Western High's Reserves today at W-L Gym in a gallant comeback which saw them offset an 11-16 handicap at the half to come out on top at the end by the score 33-27.

W-L went into the second half seemingly bound to come out second in the game, but two long potshots by Goodwin and Ball and a free toss put them on even terms, whence they were never headed.

The Little Generals showed improved teamwork, the passing of Goodwin, Clements and Mortimer being especially commendable. Ball led the high scorers of the day, sinking the hogskin for a total of 13 points.

Sherwin, Western center, was the chief threat of the day, scoring 10 points, while the aggressive play of Amidon kept the Red in the game throughout.

Varied Sports Program Plan of Legion Here

A bowling sweepstakes, golf, tennis and junior baseball is the program of the District Department of the American Legion for the coming year, it was announced last night by Athletic Officer F. J. McDonald at the meeting of the department athletic officers, held in the Legion headquarters at the Shoreham Building.

The meeting was attended by Ralph T. O'Neal, of Kansas, national commander of the American Legion. The sports program was indorsed by the department commander, Dr. B. C. MacNeil, Capt. Watson B. Miller and other athletic officers.

21 Gonzagans Receive Major Football "G's"

Twenty-one major "G's" and 12 minor letters were distributed yesterday to 31 members of the Gonzaga High School's 1930 football team and to Manager Lauriola and Cheer Leader Fleury.

The presentation was made at a special assembly in Gonzaga Hall, the players receiving their awards in the presence of Rev. Joseph A. Canning, S. J., principal; Rev. John J. Brown, athletic director, and Orrel Mitchell, coach of the Purple.

MINOR "G'S."

Toomey, Gregg, B. Mayhew, J. Mayhew, Dawson Lange, Farquhar, Horrigan, Kelley, Klimkiewicz, Gessford, Cheer Leader Fleury.

Census Enumerators Play Grays Tonight

Their second win of the season will be sought tonight by the Census Enumerators when they play host to the powerful United Typewriter Grays on the Immaculate Conception floor, Eighth and N streets northwest, at 9 o'clock.

"Wally" Wolowitz, angered because Pete Nee, Mickey Macdonald and Bill Banta left his Grays to join the Census quint, has signed a "dark horse" lineup which he declares will swamp the Enumerators. Wolowitz refuses to announce his additions, but it is known Jim Birthright, Warren Hayes and Bruce Kessler will form the Grays' nucleus.

The Census team, Banta, Nee, Macdonald, Moser and Estes, will be intact, with Sheild and O'Daniel ready for reserve aid. Bran Hughes' music will allow fans to dance before and after the game.

Earle Moser, manager of the Census five, has announced that high school students will be allowed seats upon presentation of their athletic tickets plus 25 cents.

ESSARE WINS IN FINAL STRIDE

Finishes Gamely to Beat Silver Cord at Jefferson.

JEFFERSON PARK RACE TRACK, Dec. 19 (A.P.).—Over a track made muddy by overnight rains, R. P. Watts' Essare, under J. Smith's hustling ride, accounted for the fourth race, a 6-furlong sprint and the day's feature.

It was Smith's second score of the day, the boy having ridden Mardie to victory in the first race. Silver Cord, well-played second choice, was second, and Betty Beau third. The time of 1:15 was very good considering the track condition.

There was a five-minute delay at the barrier, but when the field finally lined up they were sent away to a good start. Silver Cord was the quickest to get into stride, and took an immediate lead. However, Essare, which got away well, was kept out in the firm going, moved into second place in the run up the back stretch and Smith rated him well to the final sixteenth, when he went to a drive, and Essare, responding gamely to his urging, was up to win in the last stride by a narrow margin.

Silver Cord beat Betty Beau four lengths for the place.

The winner paid $7.

Mardie, Favorite, Wins Opener.

A very ordinary field of juveniles competed in the opening event at 6 furlongs, which was won by the 3-to-2 favorite, Mardie. Fan Air was second and Thistle Dee third.

Mardie got away on her toes and led all the way to win by four lengths. Fan Air beat Thistle Dee a length and a half for the place. The winner paid $5.00 and her time was 1:16.

Woodgain, under perfect handling, scored a clever victory in the second event when he led home a big field of mudders over the 6-furlong route. La Dentelle was second and Tin Hat third.

La Dentelle and Miss Peggy were the early pacemakers, while Riley held Woodgain in third place to the stretch, where he came with a rush to win by a length in 1:16 1-5 and pay $9.00.

Bozo, Well Played, Scores in Third.

Bozo, well played, was a driving winner of the third race and paid $11.20 for a $2 ticket. Agapanthus was second and Joan K. third.

By Product got away flying and led to the stretch, where Bozo took the lead and, in a driving finish, won by half a length in 1:16.

W. L. Johnson's Lansquenet, favorite in the betting, was an easy winner in the fifth race in which eight ran over the nine furlong route. Black on White was second and Col. Campus third.

Clearance led the field for seven furlongs then Lansquenet took the lead and drew away to win by three lengths in 1:58 1-5. Black on White beat Col. Campus five lengths for the place.

George Webre, well played good thing, was an easy winner of the sixth race, a mile and a furlong gallop. Duellist was second and Aviator third.

Duellist led for a mile then George Webre took command to win by two lengths. Duellist beat Aviator five lengths for the place.

LANSQUENET was much the best in the going. He was allowed to rate to the stretch, where he took lead to win galloping. BLACK ON WHITE made a determined bid on outside turn, but weakened badly in stretch. COLONEL CAMPUS ran a good race and held on gamely. CLEARANCE tired after showing early speed.

SIXTH RAC

TWO CHANGES IN NAVY'S 1931 FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

Middies Drop Duke, G.W. Contests

Games With Md., S. Methodists Again 'Home' Features.

Tuttle, Center, Named Captain for 1931 Engagements.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 19.—With two exceptions, the Navy football team will meet the same general array of opponents in 1931 as marked their campaign in the season recently closed.

Duke University and George Washington are the two that appeared on the 1930 schedule, but have been dropped from the 1931 listing. Duke furnished the Navy stout opposition for several years, and during the late season they came to Annapolis all cocked and primed and registered a decisive triumph over the Tars.

University of Maryland has been given the second date of the schedule, October 10, and the game will be played either in Washington or Baltimore. Navy athletic officials appear to lean to the National Capital, with Griffith Stadium as the battle arena.

The Maryland game will be regarded as one of two strictly big home engagements, the other being Southern Methodist University and, according to present plans, the latter will be played on Farragut Field at the Naval Academy. This year's game was played in Baltimore Stadium, the transfer being made because of the heavy demand for tickets.

Delaware and Wooster Scheduled.

University of Delaware and Wooster, Ohio, have been listed in place of Duke and George Washington, respectively. The four really outstanding games of the schedule will be played away from home grounds, namely, Princeton, Ohio State, Notre Dame and Pennsylvania, the longest trek being that to Columbus for the meeting with the Buckeyes. The Navy-Ohio State game this season was played in Baltimore Stadium.

The complete schedule follows: October 3, William and Mary, at home; 10, University of Maryland, at Washington or Baltimore; 17, Delaware, at home; 24, Princeton, at Princeton; 31, West Virginia Wesleyan, at home; November 7, Ohio State, at Columbus, Ohio; 14, Notre Dame, at Baltimore; 21, Southern Methodist, at home; 28, Wooster College, at home; December 5, Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia.

The selection of Magruder H. Tuttle, of Lenoir, N. C., as captain of the team for next year, also was announced today. He will succeed Robert (Blimp) Bowstrom, left tackle, of Grand Rapids, Mich., who will graduate in June.

Tuttle Substitute Last Year.

Tuttle, who was a substitute center last year, developed fast during the late season until he was regarded by many critics as the outstanding player in the line. He was elected by his teammates from a field of four other worthy eligibles, namely "Bullet Lou" Kirn and Joe Tschirgi, half backs; Lou Bryan, tackle, and George Underwood, guard.

Tuttle, who is the son of a minister, played football at Duke University before coming to Annapolis. Ambitious for life in the Navy and unable to secure an appointment through regular channels, he enlisted and qualified in the prescribed tests. Tuttle is also Navy's heavyweight boxer.

Midshipman H. White, of Flushing, L. I., has been elected manager of next year's eleven. Another athletic leader selected today is George P. Ruff, of Mountain View, Calif., to captain Navy's intercollegiate champion water polo team.

SCHAAF TRIUMPHS OVER MAX BAER

lefts to the head. A right to the chin sent Baer reeling. Schaaf poured both hands into Baer's body and the Californian was groggy. He rolled out of a clinch straight into a right and left to the head. Baer danced jauntily in an effort to shake himself together, but Schaaf pushed him before him and punched him steadily up until the bell.

ROUND EIGHT—Baer dove in with a right to the head and then hung on wearily. Schaaf poked his battered face with a long left and Baer tried to dance away. The Californian reeled into a corner as Schaaf opened up with both fists to the head. Max was game and slugged back with both hands but he was wild and Schaaf, punching short and true with both hands, beat him about the ring. Schaaf drove Max into the ropes with a hard right and left to the head. Max backed away, his right nailed to his shoulder for what looked like a parting shot. Schaaf was cautious, however, and took no more chances with the right, jabbing steadily with his left at Baer's battered features. They fell in close at the bell and Schaaf ripped a half dozen uppercuts to Baer's head. The Californian staggered a bit as he came to his corner at the bell.

ROUND NINE—Baer danced away, swapped left jabs and then suddenly switched to a southpaw stance. He missed one punch and then went back to the more orthodox style. Schaaf popped his left steadily into Baer's face, taking no chances as Baer swung wildly with his right. Baer hooked a left to the head, but took a hard right to the heart in return. The Californian seemed arm wearied and all but exhausted as he pedalled slowly away from Schaaf's machine-like punches. Ernie ripped his left to the head and right to the body. He took Baer's famed right full on the chin without wavering as the Californian's punch seeped away with exhaustion. Schaaf lifted a lump over Baer's right eye just before the gong.

21 AWARDED LETTERS AT VIRGINIA

Captain Motley Only Player Not Available for 1931.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Dec. 19 (A.P.).—Twenty-one members of the University of Virginia 1930 football squad were awarded letters, and 23 letter men were expected in training for the 1931 squad.

Of those who received the football "V" this fall Capt. Hunter Motley is the only one not eligible for another season. All others have another season to play ahead of them.

Three men were in school who received the "V" last year, but who did not receive it this fall. William R. Williams, of Richlands, Va., tackle, left the university after Christmas and was ineligible this year; Richard W. Day, of Richmond, Va., guard, was prevented from playing by poor health, and John L. Peyton, of Staunton, Va., an end who was tried at tackle, did not play in enough games to win his letter this year.

Bill Thomas, of Richmond, the crack Cavalier back, will captain the squad next year.

List of Honored Gridmen.

Besides the three letter men who will return after a season off the list, others expected to return are James Beury, of Charleston, W. Va., back; Ward Brewer, of East Hartford, Conn., back; Herbert Bryant, of Alexandria, Va., back; George Cameron, of Petersburg, Va., guard; William Condon, of Memphis, Tenn., end; Thomas Echard, of Connelsville, Pa., guard; William DeButts, of Barboursville, Va., guard; Segar Gravatt, of Blackstone, Va., end; Robert Kimball, of Ipswich, Mass., tackle; William McIntire, of Greenburg, Pa., guard; Douglas Myers, of Petersburg, Va., back; Norwood Orrick, of Washington, D. C., end; Benjamin Pinder, of Richmond, Va., back; Charles Poss, of Charlottesville, Va., tackle; Lewis Reiss, of New York City, center; Henry Sackett, of Lynchburg, Va., back; William St. Clair, of Beckley, W. Va., end; Frank Sippley, of Princeton, N. J., quarter back; William Thomas, of Richmond, Va., back, and Christopher Tompkins, of Richmond, Va., tackle.

Alexandria Sports

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Dec. 19.—Bert Coggins' Central High School courtmen will appear here tomorrow night to inaugurate the home basketball season of the Alexandria High School quint. This game will begin at 8:15 o'clock and will be preceded by a contest featuring the Alexandria High School sextet and the Alumnae team, which gets under way at 7:15 o'clock.

Coaches Given and Wilson hope to "take" the invaders into camp. Their line-up will be selected from Luckett, Travers, Schriener, Evans, Curtis, Routzhan, and several others.

Director Charlie Corbett, of the St. Mary's Celtics, is confident his team will reverse the decision handed the Celtics early in the season when they oppose Patsy Donovan's Mohawks. The Virginians have lost little time in preparing for the game. Officials selected to handle the game are: Jack Simpson, referee; Doc Driefus, umpire, and "Bottles" Cox, head linesman. These men were named at a confab held last night. It is expected Alexandria will be largely represented at this game.

Manager Bill Hammond, of the Pirate Athletic Club, has scheduled the Palace A. C., of Washington, for a football game to be played here Sunday. The contest will be fought out on Guckert's Field. The Pirates have entered a claim for the junior football title of the city.

Manager Carroll Rush, of the Del Ray Athletic Club, has listed the Washington Aces, crack D. C. court team, for a game to be played in the Central High School gymnasium on Monday night.

Players of note with the Washington team are Bill Banta, Jim Birthwright, Earl Moser, Mickey McDonald and others.

The Alpha Delta Omega basket ball tossers will meet the Army Medicos in Washington tonight. Coach Carl Dreifus, of the locals, is anxious to rack up a victory.

Eddie Gorman, star local independent player, has been signed by Manager Scrivener, of the Alpha Delta Omega team, to perform in a guard position for the rest of the season. Gorman formerly played with the St. Mary's Celtics.

HACK WILSON FIVE BOWS.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Dec. 19 (Special).—Hack Wilson Hose Company, No. 5, Basket Ball Team sustained a 28-18 defeat Thursday night at the Hoge Street Gymnasium at the hands of the Berkeley Springs (W. Va.) Rovers. The game was the second one of the season for Hack's aggregation. It was victorious in the opener.

NELSON HEAD OF RACING OFFICIALS

Veteran Turfman to Be Presiding Agua Caliente Steward.

Special to The Washington Post.

AGUA CALIENTE, Baja California, Mexico, Dec. 19.—"The Eyes of Racing," for such is the trite term the turf employs when reference is made to officials governing a race meeting, have just been announced by General Manager James N Crofton, of the Agua Caliente Jockey Club, for the meeting of 82 days, which will be opened here December 25.

It will be during this meeting that the second renewal of the $140,000 Agua Caliente Handicap, the world's richest race, will be held, the date being March 22.

Judge Francis Nelson, veteran and distinguished race official, who came to Baja California racing in its early inception to continue at Agua Caliente, will again be the presiding steward. During the summer racing, Judge Nelson is on the big Canadian circuit, where he is the steward representing the Canadian Racing Association.

Campbell and Schilling Associate Stewards.

Associated with Judge Nelson in the steward's stand, will be Judge J. B. Campbell, serving as associate steward and racing secretary. Judge George W. Schilling will be an associate steward and placing judge. Judges Campbell and Schilling have long been associated with racing as officials, are extremely popular and known as highly efficient men. The other two placing judges will be R. E. Leighninger, who for years, writing under the press name of "Lanny," has become known as an expert turf critic, and Francis Dunne, the latter also being clerk of the scales.

Judge Leighninger served efficiently as one of the placing judges at the Agua Caliente summer meeting, July 4 to September 1.

Marshall Cassidy, well known "knight of the barrier" will again officiate as starter. The patrol judges will be William Howard and George Snow, with J. W. Hayman, paddock judge.

The installation of the automatic timer to take and record the time of all races at Agua Caliente sees the passing from the official family of the timers—ever alert men who stood with stop watch in hand to chronicle the intermediate and final time of all races.

Faster than ever is expected to be the Agua Caliente track for the December 25 opening. A complete coat of top dressing, varying from 5 to 8 inches in depth has been spread, rolled and worked.

North-South Game Plans Materializing

New York, Dec. 19 (A.P.).—Although there was still some doubt as to what charity would get the money plans were going forward for a North-South football game at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, a week from Sunday.

Several of the Southern stars who will play on Stumpy Thomason's team already are in town and expect to start practice Monday. They include Bodenger and Holland, from Tulane; Brandt and Hug from Tennessee, and Rose and Forquer from Kentucky. Other Southern players who have accepted the invitation, but not yet arrived, are Wyrick and Maus, North Carolina, and Phipps, Kentucky.

Jack McBride's Northern team probably will include Hinkle, of Bucknell; Scalzi and Bozek, of Georgetown; Swede Hansen, of Temple; Karcis, of Carnegie Tech; French, of Penn State, and Antos, of Boston College, all backs; and Foley and Wisniewski, of Fordham; Flanagan, of Carnegie Tech; Zorella and Shawley, of Penn State; Obst, of Syracuse; Dornoff and Andrews, of Marquette; Stickles, of St. Lawrence; Tully, of Pittsburgh, and McCann, of Villanova, in the line.

Virginians Ship Horses To Havana Meeting

Berryville, Va., Dec. 19.—Kenneth N. Gilpin, of Scaleby; Bofallon Randolph, of the Moorings, in Starke County, and John Hughes, of Middleburg, expressed to Cuba yesterday a string of thoroughbreds for the winter races at Havana. This carload will be taken as far as Key West by rail and from there to Cuba, by boat. Charles M. Feltner, who will have charge of these entries, will leave December 24 and expects to remain in Havana until the middle of March. Mr. Gilpin will not go to Cuba this winter as he and Mrs. Gilpin expect to leave after the holidays for Europe to spend the winter. Among the entries from Kentmere, Kenneth N. Gilpin's stud farm are Princess Isabella, Cherokee Maid, Volante, Rock Play, Royal Riot, Superbrown and Blue Eternal. Mr. Hughes has two entries, one of which is Sun Tourist, and Mr. Randolph three entries which have not been named as yet. Most of these entries are yearlings so will not be eligible until after the first of January.

25-17 VICTORY SCORED BY CENTRAL

Gain Revenge, Beating Baltimore C. C. Quintet.

CENTRAL gained revenge on Baltimore City College yesterday afternoon when the Monumental City basketers invaded Central gym and were sent home on the briefer end of a 25-17 score.

In the last engagement between the two schools, held two weeks ago in Baltimore, the Baltimoreans were victorious by the count of 17-12.

Yesterday was a different story, and the visitors faced a more experienced foe than the one of two weeks ago. Central, led by Capt. Burke, went into the lead immediately after the start of the game and, while threatened throughout, never gave up that advantage.

Leading at 10-8 at the half, the Blue and White settled down and drove hard to the very finish of the game.

Central Passing On Edge.

Central's passing has rarely been seen to better advantage nor its uniform shooting skill so evident as yesterday. All the Blue and White squad broke into the scoring, in sharp contrast to the Baltimoreans, who produced their only real scoring threats in Dubusky and Duhan.

Capt. Burke led the Central attack with nine points to his credit, while Gene Swift, brick-topped guard, not only played a good floor game but contributed five points to Central's total.

NAVY DOWNS TERRORS, 36 TO 22

Western Maryland Falters After Close First Half.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Dec. 19.—After an exciting and close first half, the Western Maryland College cagers completely crumpled today and the Midshipmen basket ballers triumphed, 36 to 22. The game concluded the preyle schedule for both teams. Navy has won all three starts, defeating William and Mary and Lafayette prior to today's game.

The initial period found the Terrors bungling many shots, but sinking some spectacular ones to keep in the running, although the Tars led, 18 to 14, midway. Navy rolled up a 11-to-6 margin in the early stages, but Wooley, Clary, Wellinger and Brown registered from field in order to take the lead at 14 to 11.

Wellinger's Shot Puts Terrors In the Lead.

Wellinger made a great running one-handed flip from the corner to put his mates ahead and Brown follows with a toss nearly as spectacular. However, Loughlin, Navy ace, got going near the end of the period, and with the aid of a field goal by Bedell, pushed Navy ahead.

Play was slow throughout the second half. Navy's defense, which had been lax at the outset, fathomed the visitors' style and their attack never bothered Navy, Chittenden and Hagenmeister especially fitted well into team play, and after Navy regulars had doubled the score, with six minutes to go, Coach John N. Wilson rushed in his second stringers, and a minute from the finish a complete third team.

Loughlin, with 12 points for the third consecutive game, was high scorer. Hamill, though not scoring, was the best floor man for the Terrors in the first half, but he wilted in the second half and after that Navy had things its own way. Hamill got nearly every tip-off in the initial period. Brown and Wellinger fought hard and stuck the full route for the Westminsterites.

Penn State Captain Takes Baseball Tour

Special to The Washington Post.

State College, Pa., Dec. 19.—Jack P. Livezey, Penn State baseball captain, has been granted faculty permission to accompany a team of college ball players on a tour of the West Indies during the Christmas holidays. The collegians will play a number of games in Cuba and other islands during the tour. Livezey is expected to hold down one of the infield positions for the team, probably second base, his favorite position. The team, under the direction of Les Gage, sports editor of a college magazine, will leave Philadelphia tomorrow, returning January 5. Livezey has played a regular varsity position for the last two years on the Lion nine.

Griffith Consumers Five in Benefit Game

The Griffith Consumers crack basket ball team will play a benefit game on the night of January 3 at the Boys' Club Gym against a strong but yet unnamed foe for the benefit of Willie Andrews, veteran follower and sponsor of sports in Washington, who is seriously ill at his home, 320 Fourth street northeast.

Andrews has had a varied life in sports, having been a driver of trotting and pacing horses, a professional baseball, basket ball and ice hockey star, and is credited with introducing the game of lacrosse into Washington, a game at which he was once expert, while living in Canada and upper New York.

Andrews is perhaps best known in Washington for his managership of several local sandlot baseball and basket ball teams, including the Phoenix A. C. and the National Circles.

TEST BATTLE TONIGHT FOR CAVALIERS

Staunton All-Stars Listed for Pre-Holiday Encounter.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA., Dec. 19. Virginia's basket ball team will play a preseason game tomorrow night in the Memorial Gymnasium with an all-star team of veteran players sponsored by the Coca Cola Co., of Staunton.

Gus Tebell, Cavalier court coach, is anxious to see how his charges perform under fire and this game has been arranged with the Staunton team. Virginia's regular schedule begins January 10 with Hampden-Sidney College.

For almost two months now Coach Tebell has been drilling the Virginians in the pass and pivot style of play they will use this winter. The new coach is pleased with progress so far. The game tomorrow night will be a sort of final test before the men leave for the holidays.

Mayo and Young At Forwards.

Lem Mayo, high scoring veteran forward, and Sidney Young, from the '29 first year five, will carry the burden of the offense in up-front positions. Jim Delafield and Andy Merle, also veterans, will also get a chance as forwards.

Two new men are being tried for center. They are Carrington Harrison, brother of last season's varsity captain, and Reginald Hudson. These men were of last winter's first year team.

Capt. Bob Manley and Dave Stouder, who played together on the '29 varsity, will work as guards. Harry Steinberg, another experienced player, will help in the defense.

"Babe" Spotts, one of the best all-round players who ever performed at Washington and Lee, and Frank Summers, V. M. I., star in several sports, are the best known of the Staunton players. The referee for the game will be Gus Welch, former quarter back of the Carlisle Indians.

ALABAMA'S GRID SQUAD LEAVES

Party Includes 215 Persons; Players Confident.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Dec. 19 (A.P.).—The Crimson Tide of Alabama rolled westward today, bent on swamping the champions of the Pacific Coast in the annual Rose Bowl contest.

The football squad, 35 strong, boarded a special train amid the cheers of several hundred persons gathered at the railroad station to wish them well in their coming battle against Washington State.

There were no formal ceremonies at the station, but there was plenty of enthusiastic back-thumping and free advice.

Coast Trip Not New To Alabama.

The contest in Pasadena, Calif., on New Year's Day will be the Crimson Tide's third Rose Bowl engagement in six years.

Railroad officials said 215 persons were aboard the special. The official party numbered 81, including players, coaches, university officials and sports writers.

The "rooting section" on the special train included all ages, from 5-year-old prospective Tidemen to truly "old grads" of 75 years.

Confident Cougar Squad Leaves for Battle Scene

Pullman, Wash., Dec. 19 (A.P.).—Washington State's Cougars closed their northern practice with an hour of hard scrimmage just before boarding the train tonight for Pasadena to meet Alabama's Crimson Tide on New Year's Day.

"It's a great looking gang," was Coach O. E. Hollingbery's comment as they ended scrimmage. "I think they're right mentally."

Two weeks of rugged practice on the rudiments of football and drill on new plays have returned the Cougars to the splendid physical condition they boasted as the season opened. Mel Hein, center, and Glenn Edwards, tackle, did not practice today because of old injuries, but Hollingberry said they would be ready to go at gun time.

Being the underdogs for the first time this season, except just before the University of Southern California game, has brought a kind of determination to the Cougars that Hollingbery said he has not seen before.

Hollingebry's attack plan was secret as the team entrained. He has developed a pass defense, strengthened his forward wall and worked up an aerial and ground defensive.

"We'll wait to see what Alabama has," he replied when asked what offense he intended using.

A. A. U. Now Seeking Pact With Y. M. C. A.

Chicago, Dec. 19 (A.P.).—With the view of forming a working alliance between the American Amateur Union and the Young Men's Christian Association, Avery Brundage, president of the A. A. U., has appointed a committee to meet with a Y. M. C. A. group in New York to discuss the proposal.

The conference will be held sometime between December 28 and January 3.

Gustavus T. Kirby, of New York, past president of the A. A. U., will head that body's committee, and will have as associates Charles A. Brennan, of Detroit; J. Frank Facey, of Cambridge, Mass; Frederick W. Rubin and Daniel J. Ferris, both of New York.

Membership in the A. A. U. would give the Y. M. C. A. representation at all meetings as well as on the board of governors.

CINCINNATI U. SCHEDULE.

Columbus, Ohio, Dec. 19 (A.P.).—The University of Cincinnati has been added to Ohio State University's 1931 football schedule and will be played here October 3. Selection of Cincinnati completes Ohio State's schedule. The rest follows: October 10, Vanderbilt, here; October 17, Michigan at Ann Arbor; October 24, Northwestern here; October 31, Indiana at Bloomington; November 7, Navy here; November 14, Wisconsin at Madison; November 21, Illinois here.

Submarine Disaster Hero Coach of Seaman Gunners

Fred Michels Cited by Coolidge After Ordeal on S-4.

By JOHN V. HINKEL.

"FOR extraordinary heroism and devotion to duty on December 17, 1927," reads the citation with the Navy Cross awarded by President Coolidge to Chief Torpedoeman Fred G. Michels, "during the diving operations in connection with the sinking of the submarine S-4 with all aboard as a result of a collision off Provincetown, Mass.

"Under such adverse weather conditions that only desperate circumstances warranted a dive being made, Mr. Michels, only too well aware of the grave risk to his own life, promptly and willingly made a perilous descent to a depth of 102 feet for the purpose of connecting an air line to the submarine. Due to insurmountable difficulties he became seriously fouled, and only after three terrible hours escaped with his life."

In such official phraseology does the United States Navy Department simply recount one of the bravest deeds in its annals.

Is Football Coach of Seaman Gunners.

"Mike" Michels is coach of the Seamen Gunner Football Team at the Washington Navy Yard. His outfit last Sunday defeated the Mercurys and thereby established itself as an outstanding contender for the District football championship.

But the citation above only tells half the story of Mike's heroism. It does not tell of the terrific gale ranging at the time, of the 40 to 60 mile wind that was blowing, or that it was a winter night and bitterly cold; and that the rescue ship to which his precious air hose and life lines were attached was pitching and rolling frightfully and dragging its anchor in the heavy swells. It does not tell how Mike became entangled in the wreckage about the submarine and struggled for hours to save himself from almost certain death; how a fellow diver, Tom Eadle, came to his aid with a hack saw and cut him free, and, finally, how with his last vestige of strength he shut off his helmet exhaust and secured enough compressed air to literally blow himself to the surface and to merciful unconsciousness.

Hours of Agony Follow Ordeal.

And it does not tell of the four hours he lay in a coma, or of the agonies he suffered from the dreaded "bends" and exposure, or of the eight days he spent in the hospital recovering from the effects of his harrowing experience.

Discharged from the hospital, Mike immediately rejoined his fellow divers at the scene of the disaster. Undaunted by his previous narrow escape, he made sixteen more dives in weather almost as bad, to earn another citation and a gold star, in lieu of another Navy Cross.

Besides being one of the greatest living naval heroes, Mike also is one of the finest athletes ever turned out by Uncles Sam's sea forces. Enlisting in the Navy when he was 17 years old, he has been connected with athletic teams on both the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts, as well as in the Philippines and in Panama, for almost nineteen years.

CHIEF TORPEDOMAN FRED G. MICHELS.

Was Teammate of All-Americans.

Michel's football career started at the New London submarine base in 1916, where he had Tim Callaghan, Red Hazeley and "Cupie" Dunn, all-Americans of Yale, as his teammates, among other stars. After two years of submarine duty he returned to New London for four more seasons of football, and in 1924 went to Panama, pitching for the unbeaten Coco Solo Submarine Base Nine.

Mike's versatility was not confined to football or baseball, however. He went in for boxing and participated in more than 100 fights as a middleweight, with the distinction of never having been knocked out. He won the middleweight title of the Pacific fleet in 1915 and two years later won the New England amateur crown. After turning professional he met the clever "Panama Joe" Gans, former middleweight champion, and lost a decision.

Came to Capital Two Years Ago.

Forced to abandon athletics for two years because of duty in rescue and salvage work, Mike came to Washington in 1928 as an instructor in the diving school at the navy yard. He has coached and played with every service team at the navy yard since. His football teams have a record of 20 victories against 8 defeats.

Two other heroes are among Michel's associates at the navy yard. Lieut. Henry Hartley, head of the school and commander of the Falcon during the S-4 rescue, and Chief Boatswain's Mate William Carr, hero of several diving exploits, wear the Navy Cross, the highest award for valor that the Navy Department can bestow.

ON THE SIDELINES by BRIAN BELL

LEO DIEGEL, with a sensational play-off victory in the Oregon open golf championship, has started the season with a rush. The Dieg, of the unorthodox stance, clipped three strokes from par to win the title from his old pal, Gene Sarazen.

Gene followed the well-known principle of sticking exactly even with par and gambling that this would be good enough. He was wrong only because Leo was "hot."

Both Diegel and Sarazen are playing great golf on Western fairways and greens as the winter test gets under way and they will be well to the front in many other competitions before the trail leads eastward again.

THE two pros tied at 287 for the regulation 72 holes of medal play, a startling dual performance right off the bat, and they lost none of their cunning when the championship was extended into extra innings.

The quarrel between the two cronies, started at Portland, will be renewed at Agua Caliente, where $25,000 will be hung up for consistent golf performance. Sarazen won the $10,000 major prize last year and as Diegel is the home pro at the Mexican resort, he thinks he should deserve unusual consideration in 1931.

Sarazen, Diegel and Johnny Farrell agreed before the richest of all golf competitions started last January that if one of the trio should win, he would give each of the other two $1,000.

DR. PROCTOR A. MOULTON, whose name is synonymous with golf at Agua Caliente, tells a story of Diegel's interest in the final round.

Sarazen had a chance to win the $10,000 first money by a brilliant last round and Diegel and Farrell were definitely out.

Suddenly a messenger rushed up to Dr. Moulton.

"Diegel wants you on the course right away," he panted.

The doctor takes up the story:

"I was very much occupied and could not hunt up Leo at the time," he said, "and in a few minutes another caddy came up all out of breath.

"'Diegel wants you,' he said.

"'Has something happened to him? Is he sick?' I asked.

"'Don't know,' said the caddy, 'He looks all right, but he wants you right away.'

"I dropped everything and went out in search of Leo, for, after all, he is our home pro and if he was going to flop on the course, he reserved, at least, some show of medical attention.

"Finally I found him, perhaps a little more excited than usual, but apparently in good health.

"'What is it?" I asked, 'Are you sick? What is the idea of bringing me way out there. I don't see anything the matter with you.'

"'Oh, I'm all right,' he said, 'but I need some information from you.

"'How is Sarazen going?'"

WHERE are the amateurs of yesteryear? Another season or two and golf and tennis may have few simon pures. Vincent Richards led the way out in tennis and Johnny Dawson, George Von Elm and Johnny Goodman followed suit in golf. Bobby Jones then renounced his amateur standing and now Mrs. May Sutton Bundy has turned her back on amateur tennis.

Mrs. Bundy, former American and British women's champion, is an aunt of Johnny Doeg, present national titleholder.

As a teacher of tennis at Santa Barbara School for Girls she no longer can compete in amateur tournaments.

A VISIT to the football field of University of Southern California leaves one with an impression that there is no head football coach at the institution.

Howard Harding Jones is the head coach, but no one calls him "Coach."

An assistant manager, asked if the coach had appeared on the practice field, replied:

"The 'head man' isn't out yet."

"Where is Coach Jones?" a question directed at an assistant coach brought the reply.

"The 'head man' is dressing for practice."

A player was stopped for a word as he trotted out. After a minute, he said:

"I know you will excuse me now. I must be out there with the squad when the 'head man' comes out."

Tad Jones was head coach at Yale, but never was he the "head man." His brother Howard is at U. S. C.

A Trojan knight in full battle array guards the entrance to Southern California's main building. He is much bigger than H. H. Jones, but he is not the "head man."

T. A. D. JONES, former Yale coach, attended the Notre Dame-Southern California game as the guest of his brother, Howard Jones, the Trojan coach.

Tad explained that he happened to be in Southern California "on business" and found it convenient to drop in on the game.

"What is your business, Mr. Jones?" he was asked.

"Coal," was the reply.

Southern California uses several types of fuel, but coal is not one of them. "I found that out," Jones said.

Pop Warner enjoyed the clash of the Trojans and Rough Riders.

"This is one game," he said, "where I can sit on the bench without fear of burning my lips with a cigarette or sticking slivers in the seat of my pants."

1932 TOURNEY HERE TO BE TOPIC

2 Congressional Club Delegates to Confer With U. S. G. A.

THE possibility of the Congressional Country Club holding one of the 1932 golf national championships will be discussed between two Congressional members and the United States Golf Association in New York City on January 10.

Guy Mason and Henry J. Richardson have been named as delegates to represent the Congressional Club. It is understood that the United States Golf Association will be in a receptive mood to a petition from the Congressional Club for award of a major tournament.

At present the Congressional Club has not made up its mind as to whether it desires to hold a championship event in 1932—as part of the Washington Bicentennial celebration—which would necessitate repairs to the course at a relatively high cost, or to improve the course gradually at a normal cost and then seek the tournament in 1935 or 1936.

A committee is now considering what decision the club should make. Mason and Richardson also are members of this committee. Its report will be announced prior to the meeting of the United States Golf Association.

Plenty of Basket Ball For Berryville Fans

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Dec. 19.—The town of Berryville, county seat of Clarke, with a population of little more than 1,000, is overrun this winter with basket ball teams, no less than eight quints being supported by the town. Fans have opportunities of seeing one or more games almost every night.

Teams participating in the indoor sport include headquarters company of the Virginia National Guard; boys' alumni, girls' alumni, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, girls' high school, boys' high school and Future Farmers of Virginia.

Tech Eleven Heads Handley Grid List

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Dec. 19.—Handley High School's football team will play nine games during the 1931 season, Coach John Parsons announced today on completion of the schedule. Seven will be played here. The team will lose four men by graduation, Capt. Douglas Cather, John Jackson, Ralph Clark and Lee Stine. The card follows:

September 26—McKinley Tech, Washington, here.

October 3—Harrisonburg (Va.) High, here; 10, Waynesboro (Pa.) High, here; 17, Shepherdstown (W. Va.) High, here; 24, Cumberland (Md.) High, here; 31, Randolph-Macon Academy, at Front Royal, Va.

November 7—Hagerstown (Md.) High, here; 14, Charles Town (W. Va.) High, here; 26, Martinsburg (W. Va.) High, at Martinsburg.

Haverford Sponsors Official Golf Team

Special to The Washington Post.

Haverford, Pa., Dec. 19.—After several years of playing unofficial matches with other colleges, Haverford's golf team has finally received official recognition from the executive athletic committee of the college. The decision to recognize this sport as equal with Haverford's other athletics, and to award the members of the team with the Haverford "H" was made by the committee a little over ten days ago. The step just taken is the final chapter of a fight of several years to have golf take its place as a regular sport.

Haverford's golf teams of the past have had fairly good seasons. Last year the team won four out of the six matches played. This year the team will be led by Capt. "Ken" Read, and with him will be Bob and George Edgar, Sipple and Andrews, all of whom gave good performances last year.

Michigan-Penn Fives Play "Rubber" Game

Special to The Washington Post.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 19.—Michigan will attempt to break a deadlock, both in games won and points scored when it meets Pennsylvania in their third basket ball game in four years Saturday night. The game will be played on the court in the Yost field house and will mark the Quakers' first visit to a Michigan floor.

The in-and-out Wolverine team of 1927-28 dropped a 39-to-36 decision to Pennsylvania at Philadelphia and last year's five traveled East to beat the Quakers, 27 to 24. It now remains for this year's edition of the team to settle the dispute. The quintet will take on Pennsylvania in a swing that the Easterners are making through the Middle West and expects to find them in full stride. The Quakers will have eight letter men on their squad. Michigan likewise is expected to have more to show than it put on display against either of its first two opponents.

Harvard Is First Foe In New Army Ice Rink

Special to The Washington Post.

West Point, N. Y., Dec. 19.—With a new skating rink just completed by the Army Athletic Association, hockey promises to be one of the most popular of the winter sports here, according to Maj. P. B. Fleming, graduate manager of athletics at the United States Military Academy, who today released the 1932 schedule. The rink will be formally dedicated on January 10, when the cadet puck chasers open the season with Harvard. An elaborate program is being arranged with athletic authorities from both schools participating.

"Army hockey teams in the past have been seriously handicapped through lack of ice," Fleming said. "With the new rink, which is one of the largest in the country, with an area of 26,000 square feet, we anticipate greater interest in the sport. Over 14 miles of 1-inch pipe has been laid in the concrete through which runs the ammonia brine solution for cooling. Permanent seats for 1,500 spectators will be installed, but if necessary 6,000 persons can be accommodated."

Ray Marchand, hockey coach, has cut his squad to 27 players and daily practice sessions are under way. The schedule:

January 10, Harvard University; Massachusetts Agricultural College; 17, Bates College; 24, Boston College; 31, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

February 7, University of New Hampshire; 14, University of Vermont; 21, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute; 28, St. Stephen's College.

March 7, Royal Military College (at Kingston).

STOCKS STILL GAIN IN DULLER MARKET

B. & O., Atlantic Coast Line and Norfolk & Western Score 5 to 9 Points.

AMERICAN PHONE DROPS

New York, Dec. 19 (A.P.).—The stock market plugged along quietly today and for the third successive session was able to report progress.

Net gains, indeed, were somewhat larger on the average than yesterday's, chiefly because of a sudden buoyancy to the rails, but the trading volume fell off. Sales totaled 2,376,350 shares, or about a million less than on Thursday.

Bonds enjoyed another spirited advance, which was especially impressive in the carrier liens. Commodities steadied, with a rally of nearly half a cent in bar silver the feature.

Having lost the exuberance attending the rally, the share market settled back to view the situation a little more calmly. With a violent bull movement rather out of the question, bears declined to be pushed into active covering, although they did get busy in the rails when the spurt in that group started. Generally speaking, however, the remaining shorts—and they are believed to be numerous—saw no necessity for prompt action in view of the sluggishness of business conditions and the market slipped back into a comparatively narrow groove.

Rail Consolidation Rumored.

Unconfirmed reports that four of the large Eastern roads were near some sort of an agreement on consolidation received wide circulation, and the market appeared to put considerable credence in them. In addition, there was a lively investment demand for leading issues whose dividends are likely to weather the depression. The net result was a 2- to-10 point advance in the rail group.

Buying of the steel and motion picture shares became fairly active in the afternoon, when the day's best prices were reached, but the utilities declined to take part.

The weekly trade reviews spoke favorably of the better forward inquiry noted in the steel industry. Dun's said this progress was "a promise of better conditions to come" and tended "in some measure to modify the unsatisfactory reports from most other quarters." As for the general state of trade, this publication noted, that "holiday distribution, although active in some cases, reveals the curbing effect of the diminishing public purchasing power caused by the unusual circumstances of the economic readjustment." Taking much the same view, Bradstreet's reported that although an increasing number of markets report a buying volume equal to a year ago, the value of trade is "generally conceded to be well below last year."

London Silver Prices Firm.

Silver's advance accompanied firmer prices in London. Some interest was taken in reports that the Mexican government was negotiating with a New York bank for a credit of several million dollars, which would be used to stabilize the peso.

Stocks hesitated at the opening, but rallied half-heartedly during the morning. The strength of the rails discouraged activity on the selling side and the upward movement became more general by afternoon. Gossip concerning a potential corner in Auburn Auto was discredited and the stock, ex dividend, moved less violently than yesterday, although its range was about 10 points. The net change was a 2-point loss.

Jersey Central, with a 10-point advance, led the rails. Not far behind came Norfolk & Western, 9¾ higher, and Union Pacific, up 7½. St. Louis Southwestern, Texas & Pacific, Lehigh Valley, Baltimore & Ohio, New York Central and Atlantic Coast Line gained roughly 5 to 6, while many others rose 2 to 3.

U. S. Steel Gains 1½ Points.

U. S. Steel climbed to 141½, meeting a bid for 10,000 shares at 140 on the way. Closing at 140⅞, its advance for the day was 1½. American Can, American Tobacco "B," Eastman, General Motors, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Westinghouse, Warner Bros. Pictures, Loew's and Paramount were in a group that improved 1 to 1½. American Telephone, selling without the $2.25 dividend, made a high of 180, but lost ¾ net. General Electric, Anaconda, Bethlehem Steel, Consolidated Gas and Kennecott were mostly steady.

Wheat, closing ¼ lower to ¼ higher in the new futures, was firm, reflecting small December contract deliveries, forecasts of unfavorable rains in Argentina and a better export inquiry. Corn was up nominally. A sharp decrease in country offerings was reported. Cotton sagged 3 to 9 points.

The rise in silver rallied exchanges based on that metal, but European rates were a trifle easy. New York banks received $7,000,000 in gold from Canada, and further imports are expected tomorrow. The Canadian dollar was steady.

Oil Concern Will Take Over Three Companies

Chicago, Dec. 19 (A.P.).—The Stanolind Oil & Gas Co., newly formed subsidiary of the Standard Oil of Indiana, on January 1 will take over the properties, assets and liabilities of the Midwest Exploration Co. in Texas and of the Dixie Oil Co. and the McMan Oil & Gas Co. in all States where they operate.

Edward G. Seubert, president of Standard of Indiana, said today the Midwest Exploration Co. would withdraw from Texas, and the Dixie and McMan companies would be liquidated and pass out of existence. Stanolind Oil & Gas Co. after January 1 will continue the various district offices heretofore maintained by the companies.

OBJECTIVES LISTED FOR BANK MEETING

Management Conference to Stress Study of Service to Communities.

CARPEL PROFITS SHOWN

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Proper use of credit, protection of depositors and adequate service to the community will be three major objectives of the bank management conference of the central Atlantic States, sponsored by the American Bankers Association, and to which the District of Columbia Bankers Association will be host February 26-27.

This was announced by Frank W. Simmonds, deputy manager of the national association, following a preliminary conference on arrangements by presidents and secretaries of bankers' associations of the eight States concerned, at the Willard Hotel yesterday, where they were guests of President Lanier P. McLachlen, of the local association.

Discussion of the practical side of bank management will be given preference at the conference and during its sessions a practical course in bank management dealing with successful methods and policies will be given. The value of cooperation with local and regional clearing house associations also will be stressed. President Robert V. Fleming, Riggs National Bank, is chairman of the local committee on arrangements.

Gas Light Income Drops.

Figures of the Washington Gas Light Co., although showing a substantial gain in the daily and monthly production of gas, have revealed a decided drop in net income since the reduction of rates put into effect October 1.

Latest production statistics, according to Frank A. Woodhead, vice president in charge of operations, show that 419,695,000 cubic feet of gas entered Washington homes and factories for the first seventeen days of this month, as compared to 348,276,000 cubic feet for the same month last year. The gain, to December 17, is 205 per cent.

Gas company officials expect to increase the load of production in the future to the point where net earnings will be brought back to a par with figures of the company before the reductions.

Gain in One Day Shown.

On Wednesday, the company produced 29,323,000 cubic feet of gas, a gain of 56.2 per cent over the figure of 18,772,000 for the same date of 1929. This gain was partially attributed to weather conditions, the temperature on that day being 29 degrees with snow, while on the same day of last year the thermometer registered 45 degrees with clear weather.

The average daily production for the year, estimated from the figures available so far, is 24,688,000 cubic feet per day. Last year the average was 20,486,000 cubic feet per day.

At a recent meeting of its board of directors The Carpel Corporation reported substantial progress for the months ended November 30. Their gross sales for this period were $1,767,244 compared with $1,461,480 for the same period in 1929. The net earnings, after depreciation and provision for Federal taxes for the eleven months of 1930, were $90,104, compared with $73,013 for the same period of 1929. This is at the yearly rate of $4.26 per share, compared with $3.25 for 1929, an increase of about 31 per cent over last year.

Quarterly Dividend Declared.

The regular quarterly dividend of 37½ cents and an extra dividend of 12½ cents per share were declared, payable January 1, to stockholders of record at the close of business December 22. This stock is widely held by local investors, having been publicly offered by Waggaman, Brawner & Co., Inc., in August, 1929, at $22.50 per share. It is listed on the Washington Stock Exchange.

Frederick P. H. Siddons, chairman of the general committee for the thirteenth convention of the District of Columbia Bankers Association at Hot Springs, Va., June 18 to 21, and Luther E. Schreiner, chairman of the convention's hotel committee, left for Hot Springs last night where they will spend the next two days perfecting arrangements for the bankers association's annual meeting.

"Business in Review," an excellent article written by Norman E. Towson, assistant treasurer, Washington Loan & Trust Co., has been placed in circulation in pamphlet form by that institution.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

PUPILS WOULD SING BEFORE PRESIDENT

Alexandria Requests Permission to Carol in Front of White House.

FEW IDLE IN ARLINGTON

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

President and Mrs. Hoover may hear Christmas carols sung by the school children of Alexandria in front of the White House Wednesday night, if plans of Dan S. Hollenga, business manager of the Chamber of Commerce, materialize.

Mr. Hollenga has writen George Akerson, secretary to the President, urging permission be granted for the serenade, the carols to be sung at 10:30 Christmas eve night.

Tentative plans provide that the children, under the direction of Miss Christine Munoz, director of music in the Alexandria public schools, would enter the White House grounds, each carrying a lighted candle, singing "Silent Night," and on arrival at the White House entrance, sing three or four more carols. Mr. Hollenga expects definite reply soon from Mr. Akerson.

The most cheerful news heard here on the unemployment situation comes from the Fruit Growers Express, which has shops on the outskirts of Alexandria, showing that the shops now employ 625 men, the peak number for many years, Edward A. Sweeley, superintendent of the company, announces.

Mr. Sweeley says the company is overhauling and repairing cars which are being shipped to Florida. That State, he says, expect the best citrous fruit and vegetabel business in its history, and demand for early Florida vegetables is greatly increasing.

To handle the situation and to aid the unemployed here, Mr. Sweeley says his company has taken on many men who lost their employment at the Potomac freight yards. Room has been made also for many men by his action in discontinuing Sunday work to a large extent, only emergency work being done on that day. This makes work during the week for many men who otherwise probably would be unable to get work during the winter months. The Fruit Growers Express ordinarily employs during the rush season from 550 to 600 men.

Hearing of the suit for receivership of the Wardman Mortgage & Construction Co., in the corporation court of Alexandria, Judge William P. Woolls presiding, has been adjourned until January 5, because of a crowded docket. The suit was instituted by Harry F. Kennedy, Alexandria attorney, on behalf of minority stockholders.

The defense will open its case when the hearing is resumed. The first witness for the defense will be Harold S. Roberts, certified public accountant, who has made regular audits of the firm's books, and it is understood presentation of evidence for the defendant will occupy a day and a half.

Judge William P. Woolls has taken under advisement a plea of the plaintiffs that they be allowed to amend their petition to ask that about 25,000 shares of stock issued to Harry Wardman, Thomas Bones and James D. Hobbs March 2, 1925, be canceled. Former Judge Daniel Thew Wright, for the defendants, objected on the ground that issuance of this stock was approved by the State corporation commission, and that the issue should have been brought up sooner, since it changes the aspect of the case.

Riley W. Nixon was elected worshipful master of Andrew Jackson Lodge, No. 120, A. F. and A. M., Thursday night, succeeding Herbert W. Omeare. To Past Master O'Meara was presented a past master's jewel, the presentation being made by Past Master L. A. Hopkins, who placed Mr. O'Meara in line by appointing him junior steward in 1925. The retiring master presented leather brief cases to William Lewis Allen, treasurer, and Oliver S. Stone, secretary, in appreciation of their services during his term.

Other officers chosen were: F. Clinton Knight, senior warden; H. H. Watkins, junior warden; William Lewis Allen, treasurer for the twenty-eighth consecutive term; Oliver S. Stone, secretary. The new master made these appointments: John C. Cox, senior steward; E. Gorman Ridgely, junior steward; George W. Zachary, tiler, for the twentieth term, and the Rev. Edgar Carpenter, chaplain.

The officers were installed by J. E. W. Timberman, past district deputy grand master, also a past master of Andrew Jackson Lodge.

Contributions totaling $450.39 have been received by Thomas Chauncey, treasurer of the Alexandria United Charities, the largest contribution being one of $200 from Alexandria-Washington Lodge of Masons. Another was $70, from employes of W. A. Smoot & Co., and there were several contributions of $25. The total received between December 1 and 18, will be used for the general relief work of the United Charities this winter.

In police court yesterday the case of Police Sergt. George Everly, charged by Julian Smith with assault, was postponed until December 24, that additional witnesses may be summoned for the defense.

Smith was arrested by Sergt. Everly several days ago, and when arraigned said he was attacked by the sergeant. Everly, it is understood, admitted having struck Smith once, saying the latter cursed him.

There were 27 persons, representing 32 pieces of property, to appear before the local board of tax equalization Thursday night to protest against assessments on their properties. The cases were taken unde radvisement.

The board is holding sessions every evening, beginning at 7 o'clock. Its work must be completed the night of December 30. No sessions will be held Christmas eve or Christmas Day.

TRAPPER'S SLAYING MYSTIFIES POLICE

Rumors of Hidden Wealth Suggest Robbery in Virginian's Death.

PLANNED YULE-TIDE VISIT

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 19 (A.P.).—Who killed J. T. Howe, 50 years old, a farmer and trapper, whose bullet-riddled body was found in his home on the Norfolk-Virginia Beach highway today, remained undisclosed tonight.

County police had said they had a definite clue and that another arrest might be expected in a few hours.

The man's abdomen had been torn open from gunfire at close range. Police said he had been hit with buckshot. Despite his wound, it appeared he had fired four shots from his pistol, the bullets striking a wall near a window through which it is believed he was shot. Afterward Howe apparently had been clubbed on the head.

Excitement continued at a high pitch in the village of Greenwich Station, near which the victim lived. Howe was to have left tomorrow morning for New Haven, Conn., to spend Christmas with his sister, Mrs. G. A. Woods. Friends found his body.

Howe came to Greenwich Station about twelve years ago and had lived a quiet life, doing some farming and trapping, but apparently not being concerned about money. Although he lived simply, rumors had been circulated that he had large sums of money hidden in the house. This inclined police to believe robbery was the motive for the murder.

Man Sentenced to Five Years.

John S. Watts was sentenced by Justice Oscar R. Luhring in District Supreme Court yesterday to serve five years in jail on a charge of carnal knowledge. Watts pleaded guilty to a charge involving a 6-year-old girl.

Richmond Masons To Observe Sesqui

Lodge No. 10 Has Had John Marshall as One of Masters.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 18 (A.P.).—Richmond Lodge, No. 10, A. F. and A. M., will celebrate its sesquicentennial December 28 and 29.

The lodge's home is the oldest Masonic building in continuous use for Masonic purposes in America. The lodge is the fifth oldest in Virginia. It has sent 900 invitations to the anniversary ceremonies. On the first day the lodge members will hear a sermon by the Rev. T. W. Hooper, of Culpeper, grand junior deacon of Virginia. On the second day the grand master of Virginia, the Rev. Frank T. McFaden, of Winchester, will speak. The lodge has a membership of 784.

John Marshall and Edmund Randolph were masters of the lodge. Lafayette was an honorary member. J. Fred Andrews, of Richmond, is the present master.

Widow Dies Five Weeks After Husband's Demise

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., Dec. 19.—Five weeks after the demise of her husband, Z. S. Cecil, Mrs. Sallie Churchman Cecil died here at her home yesterday. She had been ill ten months.

Funeral services will be held from the residence Saturday morning at 11 o'clock. Mrs. Cecil was born April 7, 1863, at the old Churchman home in this county. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Earl Young, of this county. The late J. W. Churchman was a brother.

Two Business Associates Die.

Winchester, Va., Dec. 19 (Special).—Baker N. Seabright, 84, retired meat merchant, died at his home here yesterday, following a protracted illness. He was for many years an associate of the late George W. Kremer, whose funeral took place an hour or two after Mr. Seabright's death. Surviving is one son, Adam Seabright, this city. His wife, Mrs. Ella Greenwalt Seabright, died several years ago.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

"OH, SAY, CAN YOU SEE?"
CONSTITUTION defied and evaded,
Laws ignored with thumb to the nose;
Codes of honor distressingly faded
In an era of bunk and of pose;
Gangsters romping and robbing and shooting,
Judges black as the depths of the sea,
Tales of brokers with penchants for looting—
What a country we've turned out to be!

Coppers framing up women defenseless,
Lawyers shaking them down for their all,
Paid reformers quite futile and senseless,
Justice pinned with her back to the wall;
Holdups, murders, assaults, executions,
Scandals touching the great ev'ry day;
Graft in private and state institutions—
What a land is the great U. S. A.!

Markets falling each day to new levels,
As the masters of men wring their hands;
Trade beset by strange furies and devils
Through weird forces no man understands;
Gunmen working their will with derision,
Vice, corruption and graft riding high;
Crooks who laugh off a high court's decision—
What a country to live in, or die!

Indignation a lost public virtue,
Lawlessness looked upon with a wink;
And a shallow belief it won't hurt you
Just to grin at iniquity's sink;
People herding each day in the breadlines,
Children's eyes that have never known bliss;
Morals knocked for a goal in the headlines—
What a jolly old country is this!

Pussyfooting, evasion and slinking,
Lack of honesty plain and direct;
Prohibition and fireside drinking,
Diff'rent rules for the poor and elect;
Night clubs vicious and hostesses hawklike,
Barrooms hidden in elegant flats;
Blatant weasel-faced fellows who talk like
They were not just a couple of rats.

Pistols cracking and citizens falling,
Bullets nicking a hole in my hat;
Crime waves growing each day more appalling
And a reign of machine-gun and gat;
It's a country in many ways rotten
But I feel that my bitterness melts
'Neath a feeling I somehow have gotten
THAT I WOULDN'T LIVE ANYWHERE ELSE!

PORTALS TO CAPITAL INSPECTED BY GROUP

Representatives of Garden Club Study Sites for New Gateways.

TWO COUNTIES TOURED

A party of Maryland women representing the Garden Club of America yesterday inspected the portal entrances to Washington in Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties. They were escorted on the tour by C. L. Wirth, landscape architect of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, and Irving J. Root, chief engineer of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, and Irving J. Root, chief engineer of the Maryland National Park and Planning Commission.

Headed by Mrs. Frank B. Noyes, the groupviewed each of the main portals. They are to determine the location of five gateways, which are to be erected at the entrance to Washington by the Garden Club of America. Each of the gates is to cost $500. Three portal gateways are to be erected from Virginia.

The group was met by Maj. E. Brooke Lee, speaker of the Maryland House of Delegates and county Democratic leader, and by County Commissioner Robert D. Hagner, before they started on their tour. It is understood that the entrances on Bladensburg road, Rhode Island avenue, Georgia avenue, and Wisconsin avenue have been selected and that only one more must be chosen.

Further plans will be discussed at a meeting in January, at Mrs. Noyes' home, at which Col. U. S. Grant 3d, chairman of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, will be present and speak.

The gateways are to be built from an appropriation of $4,000 made by the Gadden Club for beautification of the entrances to the National Capital for the George Washington Bicentennial celebration.

The Montgomery County Civic Federation will hold a special meeting December 29, at the Bethesda School, called by Stephen James, president of the federation. The meeting has been called to allow the reports of the school committee and the roads, streets and parkways committee being submitted in time for study by the committee on public finance and budget.

The public finance committee will study the reports, and their recommendations so that it can report at the regular meeting of the federation in January.

Policeman Theodore Vollten, head of the recently established identification bureau of the Mongomery County Police at the Bethesda substation, will take an intensive course in fingerprinting work under Detective Sergt. Fred Sandberg, of the Washington Detective Bureau, it was announced yesterday. Officer Vollten will start the course Monday.

Judge Kathryn Sellers, of the Juvenile Court in Washington, will address a meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of Woodside School at the school January 6.

The Women's Improvement Club of Silver Spring will hold a Christmas party tonight at the clubhouse on Gorgia avenue. Each member will take a gift to the party and will be dressed as children, according to Mrs. John Keele, chairman of the committee in charge.

$80,000 to Be Mailed To Bank Depositors

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Dec. 19.—Judge J. M. Mullen, of the hustings court of Petersburg, issued a court order today to Bernard C. Syme, receiver of the Union Trust & Mortgage Co. of Petersburg, which failed about two years ago, requiring him to pay to the depositors a fourth dividend of 10 per cent.

The amount to be paid out is $80,000. Checks will be mailed tomorrow.

Union Veteran Dies.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Dec. 19 (Special).—Joseph Henry Stokes, 84, Union veteran, died at his home near here late Wednesday after a week's illness. He was born in Cumberland County, Pa., enlisted with the Pennsylvania Volunteers at the outset of the war and served throughout the conflict. His first visit to this section came during service, and he came here after the war to settle. Eight children survive. Burial will be made here Saturday.

IMPEACHMENT CASE TO BE TRIED MONDAY

Supervisor Hedrick, of Arlington District, Accused of Malfeasance.

WATER PLANT INVOLVED

ARLINGTON COUNTY
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 500. Clarendon, Va.

Arguments, in the impeachment proceedings brought against Supervisor B. M. Hedrick, of Arlington District, will open Monday morning at 10 o'clock before Circuit Court Judge Alexander T. Browning at Culpeper, according to Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth.

Gloth is being assisted in the prosecution by Attorney Burnett Miller, while Supervisor Hedrick is being represented by Attorney Wilson M. Farr, Commonwealth's attorney for Fairfax County, and Capt. Crandal Mackey, former Commonwealth's attorney for Arlington County.

The case grew out of a petition which was filed with Circuit Judge Walter T. McCarthy, of Arlington County, in which the court was asked to cite Hedrick into court to show cause why he should not be removed from office for malfeasance in connection with the installation of water and sewer connections in the Waycroft subdivision owned and developed by the Arlington Investment Corporation, of which he is a director.

It is understood a large delegation of citizens will attend the final hearings at Culpeper.

The Junior Girls' Candidates of the Girls' Friendly of the Grace Episcopal Church of Thrifton Village are holding a Christmas party, having as their guest an orphan child from the Central Union Mission of Washington. The program will include recitations and the singing of Christmas carols.

Mrs. F. H. Cook is being assisted in arranging the program by Mrs. S. T. Moore. The program will begin at 2:30 this afternoon at the church.

The annual "White Gift Service" of the Ballston Methodist Episcopal Church will be celebrated at the church tomorrow night by a pageant entitled, "The Fulfillment."

Recognizing the emergency facing the citizens of the country this winter owing to the large number of persons being out of employment, President Harry A. Fellows, of the Arlington County Civic Federation, has announced the appointment of the following special committee on relief to assist Mrs. Mae Jacobs, superintendent of public welfare: Thomas R. Mechem, chairman; Thomas J. Crack, Julian D. Simpson, Mrs. Harry A. Fellows, Mrs. Carlton K. Lewis, Mrs. Alice S. Semones, Joseph Haley, Mrs. L. C. McNemar and George A. Collier.

The American Legion and Auxiliary will hold its annual Christmas tree party to the children Monday night in the Ashton Heights Woman's Clubhouse. The program will start at 6:30 o'clock.

The county public schools will close on Tuesday afternoon and remain closed until Monday morning, January 5, for the Christmas holidays, according to an announcement made yesterday by County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp.

An announcement has been made that plans for organizing the Arlington County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations will be completed at a meeting to be held Monday evening, January 5, at the Washington Lee High School.

Despite the efforts to perfect such an organization it is learned that a number of the local Parent-Teacher Associations in the county have found that the by-laws and constitution of the State body prohibit them from joining any other organization than that prescribed, such as a council.

With only a small group of their friends in the secret, William Thomas French, one of Arlington County's prominent attorneys, who was married yesterday to Miss Sadie E. Gibson, of Tennessee, for many years teacher in the county high schools, slipped off on their honeymoon by airplane, leaving the Washington Airport for New York late yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. French, who is a graduate of Carson?Newman College, of Knoxville, Tenn., took a post graduate course at the Theological Seminary at Louisville, Ky., and later studied one year in medicine at the University of Richmond, aV. She is an accomplished singer, having for several years studied under Myron Whitney, of Washington.

Mr. French, who came to Arlington County more than twenty years ago, was graduated in law from the George Washington University. He is a member of the Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity, the American Legion, and the Sons of Confederate Veterans.

The intersorority benefit dance will be held tonight at Windsor Hall, Arlington County.

The proceeds will be turned over to Mrs. Mae E. Jacobs, superintendent of public welfare, to be used to bring cheer to the unfortunate children of the county on Christmas Day.

hi With the auditorium of the Washington-Lee High School filled to capacity last night, the junior students presented a vaudeville show of ten acts, under the direction of Mrs. J. O. Malott, director of dramatics at the school.

All of the numbers were enthusiastically received by the audience. The program opened with selections by the school orchestra, with Miss Madeline Whitlock, musical director at the school, directing. This was followed by a one-act play, entitled "The Wedding Presents," with George Cummings, Samuel Seymour, Virginia Pearson and Betsy Cannon in the leading roles. Another play, "The Bridal Party," had as its players, Hines, Alan Willis, Gordon Walker, and Hortense Davis.

Other numbers included guitar duets and dialogue by Goneyea and Clarkson; a bit of magic by Joseph Strobel, songs and dances by Simoton and Pfefer with Anna Mendel as accompanist; toe dancing by Margaret Houser with Ann Lipscomb at the piano, and tap dancing by Washington-Lee Girls, under direction of Doris Evans.

According to an announcement made yesterday by John E. Fowler, president of the Arlington Trust Co., he has purchased an estate at Palm BeBach, Fla., from Charles K. Dickson, representing the New York brokerage firm of Tucker, Anthony & Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Fowler will not take up permanent residence in Palm Beach until next winter, as their daughter is now attending Arlington Hall, girls' college, but will occupy their new home during the Christmas holidays.

$20,000 Loss in Factory Blaze.

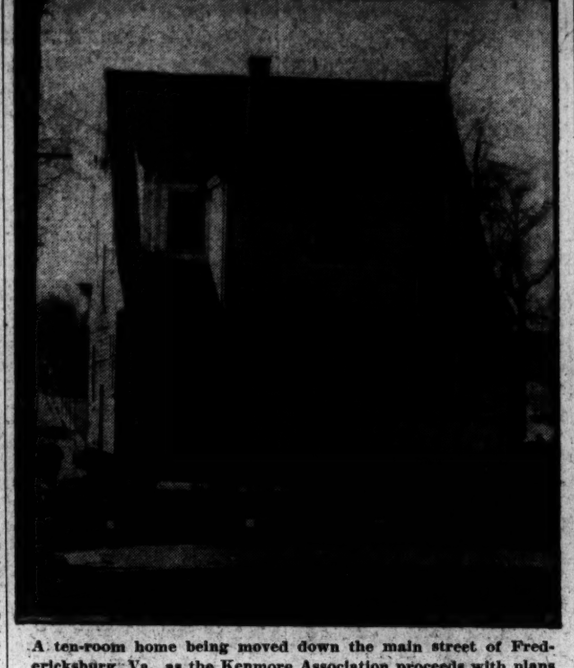
HOUSE MOVED THROUGH TOWN



A ten-room home being moved down the main street of Fredericksburg, Va., as the Kenmore Association proceeds with plans for restoring the home of Betty Lewis, George Washington's sister. This house, owned by C. H. Montgomery, is one of a number acquired by the association in effecting the restoration.

DANVILLE OFFICIAL ASKS MORE POLICE

Head of Constabulary Gives No Reason for Request for Added Force.

LABOR LEADERS LEAVE

Danville, Va., Dec. 19 (A.P.).—Lindsey Moore, head of the county police, said tonight he would recommend a further increase of his special force of 30 men, organized for duty in the Schoolfield strike area, at a special meeting of the Pittsylvania County Board of Supervisors next week.

Recommendation that the force be increased was made by Commissioner Moore at a recent meeting of the board, but no decision was reached at that time. Mr. Moore declined to say how many additional men he would request nor why the men were being asked for at this time. He had previously announced that the force would be materially increased in the event that the State troops at Schoolfield are withdrawn.

Col. H. Opie, commanding the 116th Infantry, stationed at Schoolfield, said tonight he had "nothing to give out" when asked if any recommendations regarding further withdrawals had been made or whether orders had been issued regarding Christmas furloughs.

The strike today among the 4,000 union members of the Riverside and Dan River mills appeared to be entering a preholiday lull in activities. Police said no reports of any disorders have been received in several days. Union leaders said activities of the strike will be limited until after Christmas to the campaign of holding out against reemployment in the mills and to a few routine meetings.

Leaders from the American Federation of Labor are planning to leave Danville to spend the holidays at their homes. Francis J. Gorman, vice president of the United Textile Workers of America, who left about ten days ago, is not expected back until after Christmas. Miss Matilda Lindsey, in charge of women's organibation work, plans to spend Christmas at Clarendon, Va. Others planning to leave are C. S. Garrison, public relations official, and O. E. Woodburry and Paul Aymon, organizers.

A slight improvement was noted today in the condition of Lockwood Pickett, of Forrest Hills, N. C., who was wounded Tuesday by a patrol of State troops.

Home of Recluse Guarded by Police

Rumors of Hidden Wealth Spread as Woman Goes to Hospital.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 19 (A.P.).—While Mrs. Cecilia Rose, aged woman, was in a hospital with pneumonia, police guards were thrown around her home today to protect it from possible marauders as tales of hidden money gained circulation.

The aged woman was found unconscious last night in the house where she lives along with fourteen pet dogs. Physicians said she was suffering from pneumonia brought about by exposure and improper nourishment. So far a total of $5,900 in currency has been reported found in the house and police expressed the opinion that more was hidden. Baltimore relatives summoned by police arrived today.

A man who said he was a friend of Mrs. Rose appeared at police headquarters last night and reported the finding of the $5,900. Detective Capt. A. S. Wright said an investigation was being made of the case.

Woodworking Factory Is Destroyed by Fire

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Dec. 19.—The Woodworking plant of the Adams Brothers-Paynes Co. was destroyed by fire here this morning about 7 o'clock. The loss was $50,000, fully covered by insurance. The fire started in the boiler room, and was found by the firemen when reporting for work.

The home of H. L. Sprouse, 75 Federal street, was destroyed by fire last night, damage being more than $2,000. Firemen were called to the home twice, the second fire being the serious one.

The Adams Brothers-Paynes Co. fire today and the Penney store fire last night threw approximately 100 people out of employment.

Virginia Brothers Shot On Rocky Mount Road

Rocky Mount, Va., Dec. 19 (A.P.).—Forecast and Jack Bondurant, brothers of Wirtz, Va., were shot and seriously wounded while traveling in an automobile on the highway between Rocky Mount and Boone Mill late today. They were taken to a Roanoke hospital.

Sheriff J. P. Hodges and several deputies went to Roanoke tonight to question the men regarding the circumstances of the shooting, details of which were not at first available. The men are sons of T. G. Bondurant, of the Lincoln County board of supervisors.

Christmas Tree Lights Found Peril to Trains

Salem, W. Va., Dec. 19 (A.P.).—There will not be any red lights atop Salem's community Christmas tree.

Railroaders informed city officials the tree was so situated that when trains rounded a bend engineers became confused by the red lights on the tree, thinking they might be signal lights. Therefore, the lights will be yellow or purple, or some other color.

GAME CONSERVATION PLANNED IN FAIRFAX

County Warden Prepares to Feed 150 Coveys of Quail in Area.

BIRDS HIT BY DROUGHT

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W2.

A plan of the Fairfax County section of the State department of game and inland fisheries for feeding wild game in upland Virginia this winter was inaugurated by A. B. Carter, game warden, this week. Drought and lack of natural food has changed somewhat the range of more than 150 coveys of quail, Mr. Carter said.

Each flock will be allowed at least 1 bushel of grain to begin with. More than 150 bushels of wheat has been received from the commission, and an additional supply is expected later.

Warden Carter's several assistants are distributing the grain at regular periods throughout the county, and nineteen flocks were fed yesterday in Burke. Feeding areas in different sections are being established, to which the birds will become accustomed to turn for food.

Bird lovers and spotsmen will welcome information of two contests Mr. Carter announces as sponsored by the State commission. Prizes include game birds for release next summer, and cash, to the individuals or organizations in the State who make the best showing in feeding wild turkeys or quail between December 16 and March 15. No employes of the commission or their families are eligible to compete.

Open to either an organization or an individual, the first contest includes 100 quail as first prize; the second prize will be 75 quail, and 50 birds will be distributed to the next 10 individuals or organizations; and 20 birds each to the next 15. These prizes are entirely separate and independent of the commission's regular summer distribution of quail.

Many entries from sportsmen who hunt regularly with the Northern Virginia and National Capital Field Trial Associations, both of which run annual trials in Fairfax County, are expected by Warden Carter.

In the second contest cash prizes will be awarded individuals only. The individual who has carried on the most all-round successful plan of feeding game birds between December 16 and March 15, in the judgment of the commission, will be given $50; second, $25; third, $5, with $1 each to the next twenty.

Judges for the northern district, in which Fairfax County is located, are M. D. Hart, executive secretary; Charles O. Handley, superintendent of game propagation, and Albert Fletcher, of Warrenton, supervisor of this district.

Contestants are requested to get in touch with Warden Carter to secure entry blanks. Applications will be received up to March 1, but should be put in immediately. Ten quails will constitute a covey, and five wild turkeys a flock. Each covey or flock fed regularly during the three months will count as one unit, with credit given for care during shorter periods. An organization might come into the lead by very extensive feeding of wild birds over ten days, during a real emergency period when heavy snow drifts absolutely shut off all chance of food for birds except from artificial means. Double credit will be given if feed is supplied from any source except the commission.

Charles B. Money was elected president of McLean Council, No. 42, Order of Fraternal Americans, at the meeting this week. Aubrey Dailey was elected vice president; Herschel E. Wright, chaplain; Selden Byrne, junior past councilor; Hammond Dyer, recording secretary; Austin Thompson, assistant recording secretary; Claud A. Grubb, nancial secretary; Lynn Simpson, warden; James Byrne, trustee; Charles furlong, inside guard; Raymond Ball, outside guard; James Byrne, representative to State council, and Samuel W. Darne and W. P. Davis, alternates.

The council accepted the invitation of Old Glory Council, Daughters of America, to a party to be held on December 29.

The work of demolishing the concrete bridge on a section of the Richmond-Washington highway, at Little Hunting Creek, has started by workmen under the supervision of the State Highway Department. The old bridge was constructed prior to the World War, when this highway was first improved between Alexandria and Accotink by Fairfax County from funds raised by a bond issue.

Last year the bridge was improved by adding several feet to each end, after a number of serious accidents had occurred there.

Building of the new roadway from Hybla Valley to Little Hunting Creek, to eliminate a number of curves through the village of Gum Springs, caused abandonment of the old bridge.

News of Her Son's Death Kills Mother

Virginia Woman Stricken on Getting Word of Shooting.

Charlottesville, Va., Dec. 19.—Stricken on hearing that her son, Walter C. Mowbray, had been shot and killed near Millington, this county, Mrs. Jane Mowbray, 68 years old, died last night at her home near Yancy, Rockingham County.

News of the shooting was received by Mrs. Mowbray at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Reuben Shiflett, near Elkton.

Funeral services for mother and son will be conducted tomorrow morning in the Episcopal Church at Berrytown, Rockingham. Interment will be in the family burying ground.

60 Pupils, 7 Teachers Marooned in School

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Dec. 19.—How 60 pupils of Dan River High School and seven teachers were marooned in the Pittsylvania County schoolhouse overnight Wednesday was related today by Fletcher B. Watson, superintendent. The school trucks, after carrying one load of children home, could not get back because of snow, forcing those remaining to spend the night.

The home economics department furnished supper and breakfast. The children enjoyed an impromptu entertainment and the classrooms became dormitories, with collapsible chairs being converted into beds. Overcoats were their covers.
